SENATOR DEMANDS ACTION

Cameron Returns to Phoenix and Deposits $10,000 Bond to Be Present If He Is Wanted

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, May 3.—For a year past there have been rumors of a secret indictment of U. S. Senator Cameron with charges of irregularities in connection with his report of campaign expenditures. Senator Cameron, now here for a stay of a week, states that no warrant ever has been served upon him and that he found none awaiting him here.

He said he would stay till he had forced the issue, declared by him absolutely without foundation in fact. Today he filed bond for $10,000 before the United States Commissioner to guarantee his appearance when he should be called. He declares that it is not by any action of his that the matter has lain dormant so long.

Today in all parts of Arizona were held Democratic precinct primaries in pursuance with the convention system adopted by the State organization, displacing the open primary to a large extant in that preferential or regular candidates are to be chosen by county and State conferences. Today's selections hold county conferences next Tuesday to choose delegates to a State conference to be held in Tucson on May 15.

Strong opposition to the plan is being expressed by a section of the party that is fighting any changes in the State constitution, and that especially hangs to the direct pri-

Premier at Last Moment Withholds His Signature from Russian Note

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GENOA, May 2.—The Allied note to the Bolshevik delegation setting forth the conditions upon which Russia will be readmitted to the family of nations was finally dispatched tonight after more than a week of preparation.

The French almost upset the arrangements for sending the note by refusing at the last minute to sign the completed draft, but after more than two hours' debate in the political subcommission of the economic conference, Premier Lloyd George hit upon the idea of sending the note anyway with a memorandum attached saying that it had not been ratified by the Belgians and that French approval of its terms was only tentative.

TIE ON RESERVATION

The French also tied to the note a reservation on its provisions respecting private property that was regarded by the British as a serious drawback, but in this form the communication was finally handed to the Russians.

Lloyd George had visions of a wrecked conference when Camille Barrere, French Ambassador at Rome, who became chief of the French delegation here after the departure for Paris at noon of Louis Barthou, came late to the subcommission meeting and announced that he had just received instructions from Premier Poincare not to sign the document until it had been passed on formally by the Paris Cabinet.

EMBARRASSING POSITION

Lloyd George had been placed in an embarrassing position, for the Belgians' absence, after their refusal yesterday to indorse the draft, and the French withdrawal, left the British Premier the only leading exponent of a scheme that developed as a compromise with the French. Lloyd George strongly urged Barrere to indorse the document, but the French Ambassador was adamant. Finally he agreed to give tentative approval of the draft and withhold final action until he got further word from Paris.

In order to get Barrere to go this far Lloyd George had to accept the French reservation to the clause on private property, although the British Premier told the French leader that this was so severe that it might mean the difference between success and failure in future negotiations with the Bolsheviki. He pleaded at length with Barrere not to desert the Allies in a crisis of this kind, and his remarks were supported by the Italians, Japanese, Swiss and Rumanians. Failure to agree completely on this draft, Lloyd George said, might mean the failure to achieve the pacification of Europe, and bring about a regrouping of the powers, the results of which no one could foresee.

The rift in the conference came close to resulting in a complete breakdown and it is still impossible to tell whether the concession that Lloyd George agreed to will not mean the ruin of the negotiations.

Lloyd George was very hopeful and optimistic at noon, when he said good-by to Barthou, and there was every indication of clear sailing, particularly with the war debt clause that was included in the note, because it is so worded that the way is opened for a general

"Real Horse Race," Say Politicians

Partial Primary Returns Give Former Senator Majority Over Incumbent

Ex-Gov. Ralston Piles Up Votes Over Four Democrat Opponents

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, May 3.—With only one-fifth of the vote at the Indiana primary election for the Republican nomination for United States Senator received, Albert J. Beveridge, former Senator and leader of the old Progressive party, was leading Senator New, candidate for renomination, by approximately 1800 votes.

Mr. Beveridge's total vote for 728 of the 3382 precincts in the State was 39,852, against 37,684 for Mr. New, and political leaders here termed the contest as a "real horse race." Senator New, however, was confident, predicting he would carry the State by 20,000, while Mr. Beveridge and his managers declined to make any statement.

Less than twoscore of the 207 precincts in Marion county (Indianapolis) having the largest county vote in the State, had reported their vote by midnight and managers of both candidates expressed the belief the result would depend largely on the outcome of this one county.

In the Democratic Senatorial race all reports favored Samuel M. Ralston, former Governor, the returns in most precincts reported giving him an advantage of almost six to one over his closest competitor. A majority vote over his four opponents is necessary to win the nomination.

Incomplete returns indicated that less than one-half of the total voters in the State participated in the primary, with leaders here expecting the total Republican vote to be about 350,000 and the Democratic total not so large.

The big field of candidates tended to slow up the precinct reports and hours after the polls were closed the returns were too meager to indicate the outcome of the contests for the nominations for the House of Representatives.

DENTIST SEATTLE CHIEF

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, May 2.—With but a few scattering precincts still to be heard from, Dr. Edwin J. Brown, Seattle dentist, was tonight elected Mayor of Seattle over State Senator Daniel Landon by nearl 10,000 votes. Dr. Brown's lead was established when the first precinct reported and increased steadily as the returns came in.

Two women will sit on the City Council as a result of the election. Mrs. Henry Landes, wife of a University of Washington professor, and Mrs. Kathryn A. Miracle, Seattle business woman, were selected by the voters.

COOLIDGE IS TO PAY VISIT HERE

Will be Speaker in Bay City at Bar Association Meet in August

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Vice-President Coolidge will make a visit to the Pacific Coast in August. He is expected to visit Los Angeles and Southern California either before or after the convention of the American Bar Association in San Francisco, which opens on August 9.

Vice-President Coolidge, who is to be one of the principal speakers, will be accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge and their two sons. He will also visit Judge McCament in Oregon before he returns to the East. Judge McCament was in the Oregon delegation at the Chicago convention and it was his nominating speech that secured the overwhelming vote for Coolidge for Vice-President.

Invitations have been extended to Vice-President Coolidge by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Cryer and other civic bodies and clubs of Los Angeles, to visit the southland and carry back East some of the overflowing hospitality of the south of California.

Relies on Prize Fighter for Condolences; May Return to United States

BY HENRY WALES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, May 3.—Cancelling his plans to visit historic sights in Berlin and then proceed to London, Jack Dempsey telegraphed to Peggy Joyce this morning that he is leaving Germany on the first train, and is due in Paris tomorrow morning.

Since the man she loved is the victim of his own act—her friendship for M. LeTellier, the proprietor of the Paris Journal, is shaken through the tragedy caused by Senor Errazuris's jealousy of the publisher. Peggy today seems to be turning toward the champion prize-fighter to arouse her from the depths of despair.

The "bejeweled beauty" hopes to reach an agreement with Dempsey to make a film together in some secluded spot far away from inquiring reporters and newspaper photographers, gossiping friends and lovelorn admirers.

WIDOW SITS WITH NUN

All day Mme. Maria Edward Errazuris sat with a nun at the hospital, where the suicide's body, covered with a white sheet to hide the gaping wound where the bullet tore through his forehead, eyes and nose, lay on a bier flanked with candles.

Floral pieces from the Chilean legations in Brussels, London, Paris, Berne and others from friends, are all around the bier, but there is none from Peggy.

"I only dozed two hours last night," said Peggy today. "That makes three sleepless nights. The doctor refused to give me morphine because my heart is weak, but I cannot stand the tension much longer."

Despite the dead man's note asserting financial difficulties were the cause for his act, friends claim that he was wealthy and merely alleged that he was broke to shield Peggy, and to hide the real reason for committing suicide.

CASHED LARGE CHECKS

"Senor Errazuris frequently cashed large checks, and always had plenty of money," said M. Wessenger, the manager of Claridge's.

"I can never marry LeTellier now. Poor Billy hated him so, and if it were not for LeTellier, Billy would be alive today. It is not Henri's fault, I know, but I could never accept him as a husband after Billy killed himself for me over Le Tellier," said Peggy Joyce this afternoon.

"LeTellier has acted sweetly since the tragedy and he has told me to consider him as a big brother. He promised to do ev-

HAVE NEW BONUS SCHEME

Latest Plan Will Be Put Up to President Harding Before Proponents Go Much Farther.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The soldiers' bonus problem is to be put up to the President. This was decided today at a meeting of the Senate Finance Committee Republicans, who agreed tentatively upon details of a new measure embodying substantially the House bill plan of bank and government loans on adjusted service certificates in lieu of the original cash bonus proposal.

Senators said they desired to get the President's views on the newest proposal, explaining that it would be a waste of time to go ahead with a measure which the President might disapprove.

Full details of the new measure were withheld, but as outlined it would contemplate no taxes, and aside from adjusted service certificates would provide for vocational training, farm and home aid, and cash payments to veterans whose adjusted service pay would not exceed $50. The so-called reclamation section of the House bill has been eliminated.

President Harding will be urged to approve the measure in this form, and will be told that it will impose no heavy burdens on the treasury during the next three years, while the present public debt refunding operations are in progress.

It is the present thought of proponents that the ultimate necessary financing can be done by use of the foreign debt, though there is a possibility that the treasury may have to issue some certificates of indebtedness to cover costs in the first year or two unless funds from the foreign debt become available meantime.

Estimates given to the majority today by Joseph S. McCoy, the government actuary, placed the ultimate cost of the new bonus plan at approximately $4,000,000,000, with the first year cost $77,000,000, the second year $92,000,000, the third year $73,000,000, and the fourth year $376,000,000.

The large sum necessary in 1926 is explained by reason of the fact that the government would make loans of the certificates in that year up to 80 per cent of the amount of the adjusted service credit, plus interest at 4½ per cent.

During the first three years banks would be authorized to loan to veterans holding certificates one-half of the sum of the adjusted service credit.

Hub Stirred by Murder and Suicide

Prominent Business Man Shoots Wife and Turns Weapon on Self

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BOSTON, May 2.—William M. Powell, 57 years old, district manager of the R. G. Dun & Co., shot and killed his wife, Nina, who was the widow of R. H. White, owner of one of largest department stores in Boston, at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon in their palatial residence, 39 Essex Road, in the Chestnut-Hill section of Newton, and then turned the revolver and shot himself. The motive for the murder and suicide is a mystery.

The couple were alone in the house, at the time, with the exception of servants, who heard the shots and rushed into the room. A physician was summoned, but both were dead before he arrived.

GROUNDS CLOSED

Medical Examiner George L. West of Newton, viewed the bodies, but at midnight had given out no statement concerning the shooting. He conferred with Dist.-Atty. Elliott H. Saltonstall late tonight.

Shortly after the shooting the private grounds of the estate were closed to visitors and a detail of policemen guarded the property. Everyone except those with proper authority was barred from the house and surrounding grounds.

Mrs. Powell was 57 years old. Her former husband died Jan. 7, 1917. The scene of the shooting was a part of the estate he left Mrs. Powell. Mr. and Mrs. Powell, who were married about two years ago, lived part of the year at the winter home, 56 Fenway, also left to Mrs. Powell by her first husband.

TREASURY BUILDING DAMAGED

Fire on Roof of Superstructure Burns for Hour; Loss Not Estimated

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Fire, starting in a superstructure on the roof of the Treasury Department about 1:45 a.m. today, burned through to the central portion of the roof and appeared for a while to threaten heavy damage to the building before it was brought under control an hour later. At 3 a.m. the blaze had been extinguished.

While the fire damage, confined largely to the superstructure, was believed to be comparatively small, the extent of the water damage, if any, to the portion of the building immediately under the blaze had not been determined at an early hour.

BANDIT SUSPECT IS KILLED IN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE ARREST

Failing to stop when ordered to do so by Patrolman E. H. Hileman after he had been identified as one of two men who attempted to hold up and rob Clinton Duran of 1410 West Thirty-eighth street and Michael O'Donnell of 510½ South Main street, an unknown man of about 25 years of age was shot and killed by the officer at Ninth and Figueroa streets early this morning. As the man fell, shot in the back of the neck, his asserted partner, Phil Reardon of 902½ South Figueroa street, was captured by Officer Hileman.

According to the stories told Detectives Parsons and Gruey of the flying squad by O'Donnell and Duran, the latter were stopped by Reardon and the slain youth near the corner of Ninth and Figueroa streets and their pockets rifled. Nothing was taken, they reported, but when Reardon made a suspicious movement toward a hip pocket O'Donnell struck him on the chin and knocked him down.

"When he got up," declared O'Donnell, "he made for me again, and the other fellow tried to get behind me. I shoved the fellow I knocked down away and yelled to Duran to beat it. We then ran past a lunch wagon, where we saw an officer and hollored to him to catch the two men who had held us up."

E. A. Ellsworth of 920½ South Figueroa street, proprietor of the lunch wagon, stated he heard Duran and O'Donnell running and ran out of the wagon to see what the trouble was.

"They yelled that two men who I had seen near the corner at the time had held them up," he said.

Officer Hileman was eating lunch in the place at the time and immediately ran out. Duran and O'Donnell pointed out the pair as the men who had held them up.

According to Hileman's statement, he ordered the two to stand still. They started to run, going in different directions, and he fired once in the air, repeating his order for them to stop. When both failed to do so he then fired a second time and the unidentified man fell.

Nothing was found in the dead youth's pocket that would indicate his identity. He wore a pair of blue dungarees, rough brown coat, tan button shoes. He was about 6 feet tall and weighed around 155 pounds. Reardon was locked up on a charge of robbery.

MANCHU FORCES ON NEW BATTLE FRONT; HARD FIGHT RAGING

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TIEN-TSIN (China) May 2.—The eastern operations of Gen. Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian military leader, are now centered at Machang, slightly over 100 miles south of Peking, where he is preparing to check the attempt of Gen. Wu Pei Fu, his Central Chinese opponent, to reach Tien-tsin.

Fighting in the vicinity of Machang has been in progress three days. Twelve troop trains loaded with Manchurian soldiers departed today southward. Gen. Chang has dispatched airplanes to patrol the railroad between Tien-Tsin and Peking.

PROTEST FILED

The telegraph staff at Hwangtsun, a few miles from Peking, reported today that shells had been dropped near by when Wu Pei Fu's troops approached.

The foreign consuls today filed a protest against the presence of Chang Tso Lin's bodyguards in Tien-Tsin on the ground that it was a violation of the 1901 protocol. Gen. Chang's personal train, which is located at Chung Liang Cheng, where it has interrupted traffic between Peking and the sea, was moved to a siding today following the consular protest that the powers would insist upon keeping the route between Peking and Taku open.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The agreements entered into at the Washington conference with respect to China will be carried out to the letter regardless of the outcome of the civil war now raging between the forces of Wu Pei Fu and Chang Tso Ling.

STATE'S CASH BOX IS LEAN

Richardson Warns Public of Spending Orgy Campaign Waged by Stephens Political Machine

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, May 2.—The orgy of spending by the Stephens administration is rapidly depleting the balance in the State treasury, according to State Treasurer Richardson, who, in a statement today, shows that payments for last month exceeded receipts by $3,000,000. The amount received last month was $2,186,809.32 and the expenditure totaled $5,226,477.96. In March expenditures also exceeded receipts by $3,000,000, thereby depleting the treasury $6,000,000 in two months. The amount received last month was $2,186,809.32 and the expenditures

Richardson says:

"The heavy expenditures during the past two months are mainly the result of the $91,000,000 budget driven through the last Legislature and approved by the Governor. This great tax budget was placed upon the backs of the people, while they were being deceived by the sophistry that the corporations paid the added tax, and it would cost the people nothing. The Governor campaigned the State for the King tax bill and promised the people that the corporations would not pass this tax burden to the people. Look at the result. The Railroad Commissioners, appointees of the Governor, have passed the burden to the people. Every citizen who uses gas and electricity, who rides on the train or street cars, who uses water, who borrows money from the bank, or who talks over the telephone, helps pay this tax. The people bear this great burden in order that the Stephens political machine may fatten at the political crib and run riot with the people's money.

"Last month more than 100 State automobiles were being run about the State by State employees at the State's expense in order to bolster up the political machine. The State is not only suffering from extravagance but from inefficiency. The result of this tax burden is causing unemployment, throttling enterprise and driving away capital. I hope these figures will arouse the people to the necessity of doing something to stop this orgy of waste of public funds."

Among the larger items of expense were:

Third highway, $1,369,109.28.

Motor Vehicle, $529,064.81.

Compensation insurance, $626,000.73.

State University, $225,581.19.

San Francisco harbor improvement, $171,180.32.

General fund, $1,606,858.53.

ing such an oath can perform his duty as a citizen or especially a policeman."

Mayor Hart did not indicate whether firemen members of the Klan will be discharged on similar charges. The fact that their duties to the public are not the same as those of police officers caused the delay.

AFFECTS LONG BEACH

Action similar to that taken in Fresno was foreshadowed for Long Beach yesterday when Chief of Police McLendon left the District Attorney's office here after a long conference with Dist.-Atty. Woolwine and Chief Deputy Doran.

Chief McLendon, it was learned at Mr. Woolwine's office, left for Long Beach with a list of members of the Ku Klux Klan in that city. He refused to discuss his plans other than to say that he is going to take prompt action.

In Bakersfield Chief of Police Charles H. Stone was before the Kern county grand jury for several hours. His appearance before the grand jury was preceded by the arrival from Los Angeles of Detective Walter Hunter, with the original documents taken by the Los Angeles authorities in the raid on the office of Grand Goblin William S. Coburn, and subpoenaed by Dist.-Atty. J. R. Dorsey of Bakersfield. At the same time considerable friction developed in Bakersfield over the attempt to introduce anti-Klan ordinances, and charges that a number of city and county officials are associated with the Klan were made by persons interested in the investigation.

The Bakersfield City Council, after heated discussion, refused to adopt an antimask ordinance which Dist.-Atty. Dorsey said would make operations of "masked gangsters, hold-up men and night-riders" illegal and prevent future outrages disgraceful to a civilized community. Mayor E. L. Hougham presented the ordinance to the Council. Councilman Charles A. Griffith moved that no action be taken. He was seconded by Councilman C. A. Hare, and the proposed act died. The situation in Bakersfield now is that Kern county has an antimask ordinance, but Bakersfield has not.

IMPERIAL QUIZ STARTS

An investigation of the membership and activities of the Ku Klux Klan in Imperial Valley was started yesterday as the result of the discovery among the seized Klan documents of the names of many prominent county and city officials in El Centro, Imperial and Calexico. The lists have not been released by Mr. Woolwine.

While the actions north and south of Los Angeles were marking the progress of the investigation throughout the State, the stage was cleared here for the climax of the Inglewood outrage. A statement from L. L. Bryson, one of the confessed ringleaders of the Inglewood raid, was given to Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Doran by Paul B. D'Orr, attorney for Kleagle N. A. Baker and Mr. Bryson, and for Grand Goblin Coburn. Mr. D'Orr and Mr. Coburn conferred with Dist.-Atty. Woolwine and Mr. Doran and left, stating plans for the wholesale surrender of the men who took part in the Inglewood affair have not been changed in any essential. This morning these men, or their names, are to be placed at the disposal of the Los Angeles county authorities.

Mr. Bryson's statement was similar to the one issued a few days ago by Kleagle Baker. It gave what Bryson said were the facts surrounding the raid and stated that he was called by Baker and Constable Medford Mosher, the man slain in Inglewood, to assist them in conducting the raid on the Elduayen home. He said he heard Baker give orders that there be no violence or bloodshed. After describing the entrance into the house, the assumed purchase of liquor and the events that followed, as described by Baker, Bryson stated that neither he nor Baker wore masks, that they were assisting the other officers in the arrests and that he believed he was performing his duty to the best of his ability. He admitted that he was the man who took the two prisoners to Inglewood and later to Redondo in an effort to have them locked up in jail. The evidence obtained in the raid, Bryson said, was marked and sealed by him and is now awaiting opportunity to be used in court.

ALL TO SURRENDER

Every member of the Ku Klux Klan who took part in the Inglewood raid will be surrendered to the authorities, according to the announcement of Grand Goblin Coburn yesterday.

"I have instructed those who are members of the Ku Klux Klan and who took a part in the Inglewood affair to surrender to the District Attorney," Mr. Coburn said. "This will be done. I do not know at this time how many of Klan members were there, but the number is not large. I am also informed that the citizens of Inglewood and the others who took part in the raid are going to do likewise. I don't know how many in all there were. I did not meet with these citizens and have not had anything to say to them personally regarding what action they should take. That is a matter for their own decision. I understand from reliable sources that these citizens will take action similar to that of the men who are members of the Klan. Just what steps will be taken regarding the surrender I do not know, but I am informed that they will present themselves at one time."

Mr. Coburn said his information was that at least 120 men who took part in the Inglewood raid will surrender.

COBURN THREATENED

In the same interview Mr. Coburn made known that he is receiving threatening letters from many persons, and also a great number of friendly letters, asking how applicants can join the Ku Klux Klan. A number of resignations, just how many he did not say, were received from public officials, Mr. Coburn said.

Another investigation into the Ku Klux Klan was indicated yesterday when Dist.-Atty. Woolwine received word from Hugh B. Bradford, District Attorney of Sacramento county, that the Sacramento officials would like to have a list of the Klan members in their city. This list was immediately sent to Mr. Bradford, it was announced at Mr. Woolwine's office. Earlier in the day Sacramento dispatches, giving the names of eight persons in the State capital believed to be members of the "invisible empire," were confirmed here from the lists in the seized documents.

The names made public from the "Sacramento list" include two officials of the State, a prominent county official and four police officers. Five of these men were seen by a Times reporter and made statements denying they were members of the Ku Klux Klan, or refusing to discuss their connection with the organization. The State officials said they did not know how their names were placed on the membership roll. One or two admitted they made some investigation of the Klan but said they took no definite action.

At the office of King Kleagle G. W. Price, California head of the organization, it was stated that Kleagle Fuller of Sacramento, to whom the names published in Sacramento were not those of members but of "eligibles." According to King Kleagle Price an "eligible" is a person whose name was turned in as a prospective member. These names, Mr. Price said, may and may not have been accepted subsequently to the applications.

Everything is in readiness for the examination of the grand jurors tomorrow in Judge Houser's court. The men and women whose names were drawn for the grand jury panel have been served by Sheriff Traeger's deputies and all but one or two are expected to be ready for examination tomorrow morning. By the time the jurors are sworn in and organized, Dist.-Atty. Woolwine expected to have the list of the Inglewood raiders in his possession.

The communication sent to U. S. Attorney Burke by Kleagle Baker and Mr. Bryson, stating they had in their possession the "evidence" obtained during the Elduayen raid, and offering it as a basis for prosecution by Federal authorities, brought the reply that if any such evidence was in existence it, together with the facts, should be turned over to D. L. O'Leary, of the prohibition enforcement office. To date Mr. O'Leary has not heard from the Kleagle and the former deputy constable.

erything possible for me in my trouble but I cannot consider him any more as a possible husband. I must leave Paris—I cannot stand remaining in this hotel, where everything associated itself with Billy. I cannot return to the restaurants and dance places where I used to go with him. I am waiting until tomorrow as Jack Dempsey telegraphed me that he will arrive in the morning. Jack wired me condolences over the affair and he seems to be a charming chap.

MAY COME BACK HERE

"Perhaps I will return to America. I am so wrought up, I must do something—get back to work to take my mind off this. I am offered a fine proposition in the movies and the stage. Still, every one will bother me in America, raking up this affair. I would prefer to go to some quiet spot somewhere in France or England where no one will find me, and where I will be left quiet.

"When I think of Billy lying cold in death I long to go to him—to send him flowers, but I don't dare. His wife is there with him, and me, who loved him and whom he loved, must remain wretched in my room grieving.

"I would like to attend the funeral but that is his widow's place. It would seem too dramatic if I appeared and there might be a scene. I am not afraid that anything might happen to me—nothing could happen that would make any difference now.

"Yes, I knew Billy had a revolver—he showed it to me one time and said he had bought it to protect my jewelry as he always thought it was dangerous for me to have all this jewelry about. Just think, the pistol he purchased to protect me, took his life.

"If I had only known what he meant when he asked me to kiss him goodbye Sunday morning. He wanted me to promise to give up LeTellier, quit everyone, await a papal divorce decree in Rome, where his mother was arranging, and then marry him. I was tired from dancing the night long and told him to talk the matter over tomorrow. 'There will be no tomorrow,' he told me, 'and then he kissed me farewell."

Pioneer Society Condemns Klan in Resolution

The Los Angeles County Pioneer Society at its monthly meeting yesterday unanimously adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, that the shocking and outrageous outlawry committed at Inglewood on the night of April 22, 1922, by a gang of men of whatever name or klan, who, setting themselves above legal and constituted authority, assembled for the express purpose of transgressing the law and of deliberately carrying out a monstrous, wicked and malicious act, is, in our judgment, deserving of the fullest measure of suppression and punishment, and that the perpetrators of all lawless acts should be severely punished, whether masked or not.

Resolved, that the Los Angeles County Pioneer Society, in regular monthly meeting assembled, hereby publicly expresses its commendation of the fearless and courageous attitude of our District Attorney, Thomas L. Woolwine, and his able assistant, William C. Doran, and also that of Sheriff William C. Traeger, and our new Chief of Police Louis K. Oaks, in connection with the Inglewood outrage, as well as commending his honor, Mayor George E. Cryer, and the City Council, and particularly Councilman W. C. Mushet, for sincere efforts to stamp out high-handed lawlessness.

SPIRITUALISTS' "POISON" PROVES TO BE ONLY SUGAR AND WATER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 2.—Arrested after her husband had charged she was trying to poison him with the contents of a little brown bottle obtained from two spiritualistic mediums, Mrs. Meyer Spincon today asserted her husband was all stirred up over nothing.

"I didn't buy poison from those mediums," she told the police. "I bought hair tonic and advice on how to play poker and win."

After losing at poker, she said she went to the mediums who sold her "a sticky mixture from a big brown bowl," gave her advice on how to play poker and charged her $1. Analysis today showed the contents of the little brown bottle to consist of sugar and water.

HUNDREDS FIGHTING NEW JERSEY FIRES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOMS RIVER (N. J.) May 2.—Many hundreds of volunteers are co-operating with village fire departments and State forest wardens tonight in combatting forest fires which gained a new hold forty miles south of here in Ocean county, last night, and are sweeping over thousands of acres of the New Jersey State forest preserves.

Citizens of Tuckerton, Parkerton, Cedar Grove, New Gretna and other towns on or near the borders of the big preserve responded to urgent calls. Back fires were started at several points to check the sweep of the flames. A two weeks' drought and carelessness of spring campers is blamed for the fires.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PLACERVILLE, May 2.—William Cooper, blacksmith, and R. E. Barnett, are dead, and James B. Barkley, brother-in-law of Cooper, is seriously wounded as the result of a shooting affray at Caldor, near here today.

Barnett, who is said to have fired the shot that killed Cooper, and later wounded Barkley in the shoulder, sent a bullet through his head as Sheriff Hand of Placerville approached to arrest him.

SUSPENDERS AND NIGHTIE BACK AGAIN

Men's Chicago Style Show Proves Male of Species is Nearing Normalcy

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, May 2. — Men, in their anxiety to get back to normalcy, are returning to the use of suspenders, night shirts, rubbers and sleeve-supporters. Belts and pajamas have had their day and are being discarded. These changes in fashions are emphasized by the displays at the sixteenth semi-annual convention of the United National Clothiers in session here.

Conspicuous among the exhibits is the dependable old nightshirt, which outranks the pajama. The revival of the old-fashioned suspenders as a safe means of holding up trousers is closely associated with the departure of the trousers with cuffs on the bottom. Sleeve-supporters are back strong. They are of the most gaudy colors and the really swell dresser will have sleeve-supporters of varied hues to match each shirt.

Top coats will be modest enough outside, but they are a riot in the matter of linings. Of still more importance is the prediction that there will be an average of 15 per cent reduction in the prices of men's clothing and that the material and workmanship will be much better.

Determined efforts are being made to repopularize the sport shirt. Other style edicts noted are: Sweaters have reinforced elbows; hats are all colors, but pearl gray and bluish-green are leading; caps are in "eight quarters" or in one piece; black or brown hose for winter; white or buff-colored for summer, and heather mixtures for fall.

MAY SEND SWEDES TO MEXICO

Government Agents Investigating Possibilities of Establishing Colony

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

STOCKHOLM, May 2.—Agents of the Swedish government are investigating the possibilities of establishing a Swedish colony in Mexico near the Gulf of California, and the use of this method of diverting emigration to a district more or less under the influence of the homeland. The proposition was first studied seriously as far back as 1869, when it was proposed to found a Swedish colony in the Western Hemisphere.

Olof Dahlquist, a Swede, who made a fortune as a farmer in California, is backing the plan for a Swedish colony. After several years' investigation of various tracts of land in Central and South America, Dahlquist selected the region of the Gulf of California as ideal. In November, last year, he visited Sweden and laid his plans before the Foreign Minister, who directed the Swedish Minister to Mexico to find out what it would cost to establish and maintain Swedish emigrants in that country for the first year of their residence.

The National Antiemigration Society of Sweden refuses to sanction the plan for a Mexican colony, declaring that considerable doubt exists as to the attitude of the Obregon government.

Sting of Snake Proves Fatal to 11-Year-Old Girl

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANGELS CAMP (Calaveras county) May 2.—Struck by a rattlesnake Sunday afternoon, an 11-year-old Indian girl, daughter of Tillie Jeff, died yesterday morning at Diez Ranch, above here, despite every effort to save her life.

The girl left her home at the Indian rancherio on Six-Mile Creek, to visit a neighbor. As she proceeded along the trail, barefoot, a huge rattler struck without warning and fastened its fangs into her great toe, wrapping its body around her leg.

The terrified child ran half a mile with the snake clinging to her. When it released its hold, it tore a piece of the flesh away.

SCHOOL REPEATERS COSTLY TO STATE

PUPILS TO FAIL ADD ABOUT $7,000,000 TO BILL, WOOD DECLARES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 2.—"Repeaters" in the elementary schools of California are costing the State about $7,000,000 a year, it was declared here today by Will C. Wood, Superintendent of Public Instruction. By "repeaters" is meant those pupils who fail to keep up with the ordinary progress of work and remain for more than one term in a grade.

"The record seems to indicate that 10 per cent of the cost of education in California is due to repeaters," said Wood. "This means approximately $7,000,000 a year is expended for repeated work. Of course, we will always have repeaters, but the percentage can be greatly reduced to the credit of the school system and the advantage of the taxpayers of the State, and this is what we are striving to accomplish."

JAPANESE RAW SILK ENJOYS BRISK SALE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, May 2.—In view of the brisk sale of raw silk, now a feature of the Yokohama market, the Imperial Raw Silk Company, formed in 1920, to assist holders embarrassed by the market slump of that year, has decided to dispose of its stock remaining on hand, amounting to 2,220,000 kin (nearly 300,000 pounds) at a rate not to exceed 2000 bales monthly, commencing in May, at the ruling market.

Despite this, prices were maintained on today's market.

NO MORE DIME BATHING FINES

Warning to Flappers Issued by Police Judge on Waikiki Beach

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU, May 2.—A. D. Larnach, who is acting as police judge while Judge J. B. Lightfoot is on vacation for a month, has announced that "bargain days in this court are over and this will be a warning to any sweet young things who are looking for 10-cent fines in police courts." The acting judge said the fines would be as large as the nature of the offense warrants, including bathing-suit cases.

Judge Lightfoot recently announced the ordinance against scant bathing suits was silly and that in cases of conviction or pleas of guilty he would assess fines of 10 cents for each violation.

GERMANY EXPECTING INVASION

Signs of Mobilizing Evident as Whining Teutons Prepare to Default

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, May 2.—Germany is watching with great anxiety constantly repeated reports of increased troop movements in the occupied areas and general signs of mobilization activities there.

Republican Germany hopes public opinion and the common sense of the statesmen of other Allied countries outside France will be influential enough to prevent what the German press calls "a new invasion." But the reactionaries are delighted with Premier Poincare's sword-rattling policy. Occupation of the Ruhr would mean real meat for their propaganda and certain death to the policy of fulfilling Germany's obligations adopted by the Wirth government.

A number of Germans feel convinced France must sooner or later attempt another military coup in order to show the militarists the futility of trying to collect reparations by force of arms.

On May 15 Germany must pay another 50,000,000 gold marks. But so far as is known the government coffers are practically empty. If payment is made it will be by running off a few more billion paper marks, with which to buy foreign securities on the foreign bourses.

The majority of the press realizes the coming month will be another critical one in their country's reparation history. No one pretends to know how it will end.

The Reichstag had planned to renew its sessions Tuesday, but postponed the meeting another week for fear radicals or reactionaries might endanger the position of the German delegation at Genoa.

In a speech at Koenigsberg, President Loebe of the Reichstag warned Paris militarists they might have to suffer the consequences of the mailed-fist policy. He said they were threatening to solve financial and economic problems with military pressure against another nima of November (the day of the German revolution) in which they may be deceived.

WANTED TO BE AN INDI

Redmen's Chief Tells How Fifi Stillman and C Sought Admission to Tribal Clan

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POUGHKEEPSIE (N. Y.) May 2.—Peter De Lille, chief Caughnawauga tribe of Canadian Indians, testifying today before Referee Gleason in the resumed hearings of the Stillman divorce stated that an application had been made to the tribe for the admission to it of Mrs. Anne U. Stillman and Fred Beauvais, the latter's guide who, Mr. Stillman claims, is the father of Baby Guy Stillman.

De Lille testified that he did not know who made the application, but it was refused in Mrs. Stillman's behalf as she was of white blood. Beauvais's father, he said, belonged, he said, to the tribe but Fred, the son, lost standing in the clan when his mother had white blood.

LITTLE BLACK BEAR

Continuing, he said the tribe was subdivided into the white bears and the black bears, and that attorneys said they were not deaver to show the relationship between one of these subdivisions and the telegram Mrs. Stillman said to have sent to Beauvais announcing the arrival of the baby black bear." This telegram, it was asserted, was sent at the time of the birth of Baby Guy Stillman.

De Lille denied a tribal marriage ceremony uniting Mrs. Stillman and Beauvais has been performed.

TESTIMONY ELIMINATED

Much time was taken up with Stillman's attorneys in seeking to have stricken out testimony given before the commission which went to Canada to examine witnesses in Mrs. Stillman's behalf. Most of this was eliminated by mutual consent. Referee Gleason announced, however, that he would permit to stand all testimony as to the character of witnesses.

Neither Stillman nor Mrs. Stillman was present at the hearings. The first witness was Octave Neault, a Canadian contractor and builder of Piles. He is the father of Mrs. A. Lafontaine, a witness for Stillman, who testified concerning the alleged intimacy of Mrs. Stillman and Beauvais while they were quarters in her home in Piles in June, 1919. Neault made repairs on the house at Grand Anse in June and July, 1919, according to his testimony.

In New York last spring workmen testified that from foldings and ladders they saw Beauvais and Mrs. Stillman. The latter's boudoir in the Grand house. But when the commission went to Montreal for testimony in behalf of Mrs. Stillman, witnesses swore that in June and July there were no scaffolds or ladders about the Stillman residence.

Neault today identified a photograph of the house in which he was taken on July 12, 1919, showing ladders and scaffolding in place.

Once Wealthy; Takes Life in Chicago Park

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, May 2.—W. S. Russell, 45 years old, former wealthy resident of Dillsburgh, Pa., and a guest at the Congress Hotel, committed suicide in Grant Park today by shooting himself through the heart.

He apparently walked from the hotel into the park, which it faces, went to a mound and shot himself. The body was in plain view of the thousands of motorists passing in Michigan Boulevard.

Financial reverses are believed to have been the cause. An old acquaintance told the police that Mr. Russell had lived in Pennsylvania twenty years and was formerly wealthy. He came to Chicago, he said, to raise funds to pay his debts. "It is my last hope," he said.

A will found in his pocket listed his assets at $39,474.50. Insurance policies totalled $10,000.

FILE REPORT ON SHIP SCRAPPING

Naval Board Would Sell Some, Sink Others

Estimate $70,000,000 as Cost of Program

Urge Sum Needed be Given Immediately

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Recommendations that capital ships to be scrapped under the naval limitation treaty be disposed of by sale on the stocks in the case of those under construction, and by sale for junk or sinking by gunfire in the case of completed ships, are contained in the report of the board of naval officers appointed to consider ways and means of carrying out treaty provisions. A preliminary estimate of $70,000,000 as to the cost of operation is included in the report.

RECOMMENDS CHANGES

The board recommends that the Shipping Board battle cruisers Lexington, under construction at Fort River, Mass., and Saratoga, building by the New York Shipbuilding Company at Camden, N. J., be converted into airplane carriers under the treaty terms, the other four battle cruisers to be sold on the stocks to the highest bidder.

The board in its report made public today urged that the $70,000,000 be made immediately available, stating that a considerable saving on ships building under contract and to be scrapped could be made if the terms of settlement were worked out promptly with the contractors. It was pointed out at the Navy Department, however, that the figure of $70,000,000 was purely tentative.

Existing battleships, which the board recommends for sale or for destruction by gunfire, are the Virginia, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Georgia, Nebraska, Connecticut, Louisiana, Vermont, Minnesota, Kansas, New Hampshire, Michigan, South Carolina and the Delaware or North Dakota. One of the last two ships to be designated later, is to be used as a target ship under the treaty.

WOULD JUNK THESE

Ships under construction and recommended for sale as junk on the stocks or to be cut up under contract with the builders include the battle cruisers Constellation at Newport News; Ranger at Newport News, and Constitution and United States, both at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

The Lexington, recommended for conversion as an airplane carrier, is 33.5 per cent complete, and the Saratoga, selected for similar conversion, 34.4 per cent complete, while the remaining battle cruisers range from four per cent to 22.7 per cent complete.

Battleships under construction include the Washington, 75.9 per cent complete at Camden, N. J.; South Dakota, 38.5 per cent, New York navy yard; Indiana, 34.7, New York navy yard; Montana, 27.6, Mare Island yard; North Carolina, 36.7, Norfolk yards; Iowa, 31.3, Newport News.

As to the battle cruisers the board says none of the four to be scrapped is near enough finished to be completed and launched and that all four must be "disassembled or cut up." The board considers it possible, however, that the Constellation can be sold on the stocks.

RESERVE EQUIPMENT

The ships building at navy yards are recommended for sale as they stand to private firms for disposition as required by the treaty, but the board urges that "useable material" from all ships such as guns, machinery and other equipment "be reserved for use in the proper accounts."

The report notes that under the treaty, vessels to be scrapped must be rendered unuseable for war and recommends that firms to which ships under construction or existing ships may be sold be required to furnish bond that the treaty terms will be carried out. The board also says that it has considered and discarded such suggestions for disposition of the ships as sinking at sea, junking on percentage basis contracts and destruction by the government itself, believing that the government will benefit most from outright sale of the vessels to the highest bidders.

ITALO-TURKISH PACT DISCLOSED BY PRESS

NOTHING SENSATIONAL WILL FOLLOW IS STATEMENT IN LONDON

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, May 2.—The Pall Mall Gazette and Globe today says it has just learned that Italy, following France's example, has made a secret political pact with the Turkish nationalist government at Angora, "behind Great Britain's back."

"Full disclosure of this has just been made," says the newspaper, "though it has been suspected for some time. The consequences are likely to be serious."

Nothing sensational is likely to follow the disclosure of the Italo-Turkish pact, according to British official circles, where it is declared the British were informed of the imminence of "an economic agreement" between these two countries several weeks ago.

At the time a protest was made that, in the British view, no such action should be taken without the concurrence of the other Allies. To this Italy thus far has not replied.

BROOKLYN'S GOOD NAME IS SULLIED

Philadelphia Pastor Could Not Stand Party, So Beats It Back Home

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—So far as the Rev. Dr. James E. Crowther of this city is concerned the reputation of Brooklyn is gone. Never again will he hear a reference to the "City of Churches," without shuddering.

Since his sudden disappearance from the speaker's table at a dinner of the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club, a few nights ago, Dr. Crowther has spread Brooklyn's shame at great length through the columns of the home town press.

He has described the banquet as "A modern feast of Belshazzar," and has explained that he fled on identifying various jugs, spread liberally about the dining-room as crocks of Scotch whisky.

At the precise moment of his departure, Dr. Crowther asserts, the party was getting rough. Previously there had been a certain amount of boisterousness and hurling of bread rolls, which he attributed somehow to the presence of the jugs, but the last straw was piled on when all present rose and sang the club song. This started with something about boots and saddles and ended with "drink, drink, drink."

This was more than Dr. Crowther could stand. He quietly withdrew, sent back a note saying he didn't believe the company would be interested in his prepared remarks on "The Present World Upheaval," and got a train for Philadelphia. A couple of days later he firmly returned a check for $25 which had been sent to cover his expenses.

What Dr. Crowther found particularly shocking, he said today, was the fact U. S. Judge Manton and other jurists were present at the dinner and raised no voice in protest.

SOVIET-SHELL OIL PACT LAUGHED AT

AMERICANS NOT WORRIED BY REPORTED CONCESSION AGREEMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, May 2.—Reports reaching here today concerning an agreement between the Shell and the Royal Dutch Oil interests and the Russian soviet government were described as unimportant, if true, by members of the various American oil companies who are in conference with Minister of the Treasury De la Huerta on Mexican oil affairs. Walter C. Teagle, president of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, said his company was not worried by any agreements made with soviet.

Others of the American oil men asserted that they believed any arrangement entered into probably meant that Russian oil hereafter would be marketed through the Dutch and Shell groups if the present agreement stands.

The Americans conferred again with Senor De la Huerta today, but without definite results. Another meeting will take place tomorrow.

GENOA, May 2.—Leonid Krassin, of the Bolshevik delegation, today denied the truth of the reported concession granted to the Shell and Royal Dutch oil interests. He admitted, however, that he had been trying to negotiate for concessions on other lines. He said that as far as Russian oil was concerned no disposition had been made of the rights.

In quarters close to the Russians, it was learned that while the Bolsheviki have been carrying on negotiations for concessions, they have hesitated to close any deals with anybody in Europe until they would find out what Americans have to offer.

ISSUE MANDAMUS AGAINST JORDAN

STATE SECRETARY MUST SHOW CAUSE FOR STAND ON BONDS FOR VETERANS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, May 2.—A writ of mandate to compel Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan to show cause on May 16, why the act providing for a $10,000,000 bond issue for the relief of California former service men should not be published, was issued by the State Supreme Court here late today.

Application for the writ was made by the Veterans' Welfare Board.

Jordan recently declared he would refuse to publish the act until all questions as to its constitutionality has been cleared away.

In a recent decision the Supreme Court upheld the Veterans' Welfare and Farm and Home acts, but specified that it was not passing on the bonding act. The latter act was designed, it is held, to make the two other measures operative.

Mexicanos Detenidos

GLOBE (Arizona) mayo 2.—Tres camiones cargados de hombres y mujeres mexicanos han sido detenidos aquí en la oficina del sheriff, por solicitud del servicio de inmigración, representado por R. A. Scott y P. K. Mullen. Se acusa a estos inmigrantes de que, por buscar empleo en las minas recientemente abiertas en esta región, habían penetrado a los Estados Unidos por El Paso, sin hacer caso de las leyes de inmigración. Uno de los hombres dijo que había venido a pie desde Zacatecas, México, hasta El Paso, y le había pagado al dueño de un camión $10 por que lo trajera aquí. Casi todos tenían amigos o parientes entre la gente mexicana de la localidad, la que envió representantes al juzgado para ofrecer ayuda a sus paisanos. Los inmigrantes, que eran 50, llenaron la capacidad de la cárcel del Condado, donde por de pronto hubo que albergarlos y alimentarlos.

Duro Contra el Ku Klux Klan

Los trabajos hechos ayer por las diferentes autoridades de los condados consisten en investigaciones que abarcan todo el Estado, relativas a la organización del Ku Klux Klan, y a la conexión que se asegura tiene con los recientes delitos y atentados en masa perpetrados en California. Los esfuerzos de los funcionarios para arrancar de raíz el "Invisible Imperio" del organismo de la vida civil y comercial del Estado, han consistido en numerosas destituciones de empleados públicos, cuyos juramentos estaban mezclados con protestas de lealtad al Ku Klux Klan; en autos del Gran Jurado; en disposiciones de la Ciudad y del Condado; y en otros procedimientos oficiales. Todos estos pasos se consideran como el preliminar de actos mas enérgicos, y forman la base de la amplísima encuesta que el gran jurado iniciará mañana sobre el atentado de Inglewood y las actividades secretas de la gente del Ku Klux Klan.

SOVIET RECOGNITION ASKED BY SOCIALISTS

PARTY ADJOURNS CONVENTION AFTER SEVERAL RESOLUTIONS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND, May 2.—The national convention of the Socialist party adjourned today, leaving the adoption of a Congressional platform and the mapping out of the party's campaign for the coming election to its executive committee, called to meet in New York May 30.

Among the more important resolutions adopted were ones calling for complete recognition by the United States of Soviet Russia by resumption of trade and diplomatic relations, urging sympathetic organizations to join with the Socialists in an amnesty campaign for the 113 war prisoners, pledging support to the coal miners' strike and condemning alleged despotic rule in West Virginia where miners are being tried on treason charges.

Policies of the government in its relations with Haiti, San Domingo, Mexico, Honduras, Nicaragua, Colombia, Guatemala and other Latin-American countries were severely criticised in resolutions. Another resolution instructed the executive committee to do all in its power to bring about a strong and influential Pan-American Socialist movement.

CHICAGO UNIONS GIVEN WARNING

State's Attorney Warns Men It's Finish Fight

Buying Off of Jurors Must Come to an End

Aces Against Landis Award Must be Answered

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, May 2.—State's Attorney Crowe today warned defendants in recent union-labor trials that he was going to put them either in the poorhouse or the penitentiary, preferably the latter.

"It costs money to bribe jurors and witnesses," he told the members of the Rotary Club at a meeting today, "and I am convinced that the recent miscarriages of justice have been produced by the corruption of witnesses and jurors. The evidence against the defendants was overwhelming."

Mr. Crowe cited the recent trial of William F. Quesse, president of the Chicago Flat Janitors' Union, as an instance.

"In the Quesse case," he declared, "we discovered that sitting in judgment on him was a man who had been arrested fifteen times and who had been paid to return a favorable verdict for the defendants. As soon as the trial is over, we will attempt to send Theodore Lodin, one of the jurors who, we believe, was bribed, to the penitentiary.

WILL GO TO END

"I understand that the Quesse defense fund is $60,000, but I will put him either in the poorhouse or the penitentiary. Every indictment will be tried.

"As soon as I have disposed of the bribery charges in Simon O'Donnell's case, I will ask Judge Scanlan to issue a capias for him. I will then try him again."

Mr. Crowe made a vigorous denial that there had been anything approximating a breakdown of the courts or law enforcement.

"There has been a healthy and steady improvement in the enforcement of the law in recent years," he maintained. "Statistics show that Chicago in the only large city in which crime has decreased. This is due to a number of causes, but primarily to the splendid manner in which the law enforcement agencies of the city, mainly the department under Chief of Police Fitzmorris, the Sheriff's department under Charles W. Peters, and the criminal court, under Chief Justice Scanlan, have worked with the State's attorney's office to stifle crime.

BEHIND IN RACE

"Yet I am not satisfied with the results, nor will I be until crimes of violence have been completely stamped out in this city. We had a condition a few years ago when the law was nine years behind the criminal; when murderers and hardened criminals walked the streets seemingly immune from interference.

"The thing needed is twenty judges in the criminal court. Now we have only seven. That means that thirteen-twentieths of the work remains undone. My aim is to adjust conditions so that every malefactor will be brought to trial within sixty days. We will have results which will put every criminal in jail or make him shun Chicago like a plague."

Mr. Crowe denounced certain citizens of Chicago for their reluctance in serving on juries, and appealed to the members of the Rotary Club to spread a favorable sentiment abroad with respect to this duty.

UNIONS-BOLSHEVISM

Union methods used in fighting the Landis award were likened to Russian bolshevism today by T. E. Donnelley, president of the citizens committee for the enforcement of the award. Mr. Donnelley, speaking before the Associated Builders and the Building Constructing Employers Association, said the crisis in the building war has been passed with the speech last Saturday of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

"The American threat is here," said Mr. Donnelley, "Mr. Gompers emphasized it. We must attend to it now. We will attend to the Russian bolshevik threat when it comes, if it comes.

"The cuttlefish that throws out black ink to darken the water and hide itself from pursuers is being copied by the unionists. Surely this propaganda shows their real position.

ALWAYS A CRISIS

"In every undertaking there always comes a certain point which in afterward looked back to and recorded as the crisis, the 'break in the game.'

"I think the final record will show that the crisis was passed last Saturday afternoon at the municipal pier when the president of the American Federation of Labor promised 100 per cent support and assistance 'in any course they may pursue' to the unions who had broken faith and to the leaders who lead by methods of the gunman and the slugger.

DEBT AT CRAPS IS NOT LEGAL

Only Moral, Justice Tells Man Who Seeks to Collect $50

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2. A debt contracted through "shooting the leopard cubes," or the well-known game of "African golf," may be a moral, but it certainly is not a legal obligation, Justice of the Peace Barnett told A. Bercovich yesterday. Bercovich said that J. Moore owed him $50 as a result of a little joust with the ivories. Moore said that the dice were loaded and everybody shot "sevens" but himself.

LIFE OF BUSINESS DEPENDS ON CANAL

SO STATES OHIO REPRESENTATIVE IN ADDRESS ON ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Failure to construct the St. Lawrence deep waterway within the next ten years will mean commercial death to more than 42,000,000 people in the great region between the Alleghenies and the Rocky Mountains, Representative Chalmers, Ohio, told the weekly Forum luncheon of the Washington City Club here today.

Pleading against placing the selfish interests of one section over the needs of the whole nation, Mr. Chalmers asserted that if the waterway were not built the next wave of business prosperity would be checked at the start by lack of sufficient transportation.

"The very return of the country to normalcy will tend to choke the business life out of the nation by lack of proper circulation," he said. "The railroads are inadequate to handle 40 per cent of the traffic in normal times. Elisha Lee, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, says that the demands on the railroads double every ten years. Yet there is less railroad mileage in America today than there was ten years ago. The St. Lawrence seaway, providing a clear way water route from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic, is the only salvation in sight.

CHANCE TO GAIN BRIDE FOR $3000

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, May 2.—Miss Emily Simons, age 18, offers to become the bride of any man who will come up with $3000 to lift her father out of debt. Simon is a mechanic, out of work. He went into debt buying furniture, clothes and other things the family needed and then lost his job.

"The age of the suitor makes no difference," continued Miss Simons. As long as he is decent and produce the money to clear off the family debt I will marry him."

LARGE CEMENT CONTRACT LET

El Paso Company Outbids Coast Rivals

Material to be Used in New Arizona Roads

Improved Highways Spring Up Rapidly

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) May 2.—With strong Pacific Coast competition, the Southwestern Portland Cement Company of El Paso has secured a 400,000-barrel contract from the Twohy Brothers' Construction Company, the firm that now is completing local road contracts aggregating $8,500,000. This contract is one of the largest known in the Southwest, and means almost half the annual capacity of the El Paso concern, which sells most of its output in Arizona and New Mexico.

The Twohy company is well started on the second half of its contract on the building of 168 miles of roadway, much of it around Phoenix, a district not included in the first work. Paving has been started on North Central avenue and Seventh street to the Arizona canal, a distance of about seven miles. Paving has been completed into Buckeye, giving the tourist fully sixty-five miles of paving, mainly concrete, between that point and Goodyear, through Phoenix. About 4000 feet of paving is being laid each day. On the Buckeye route to California, a State contract is replacing with steel construction two spans of the Hassayampa bridge near Arlington.

MAY TRANSFER POWER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) May 2.—The Tucson Builders' Exchange has passed resolutions favoring transfer of the functions of the present Railroad Labor Board to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

There is argument that, while a scientific adjustment of freight charges and of railroad wages is imperative, such adjustment cannot come while one public body regulates railroad income and another adjusts railroad wages.

The resolutions have been sent to the National Association of Builders' Exchanges.

WORKMEN KILLED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JEROME (Ariz.) May 2.—Only the day after his mother had come from Los Angeles to make her home with him, Pedro Gonzales was killed by a fall of rock in the United Verde Extension mine. He had entered a chute thought to have been about empty, but dislodged a large quantity of ore that bore him to the floor and that covered him. No injuries were found on the body when it was recovered, death having been by suffocation. He was a native of Jerome.

Venus Turley, aged 34, employed on construction of the Camp Verde highway, died of injuries received in a blast which had been delayed, and which he was investigating at the time of explosion. He was a resident of Woodruff.

GIRL IS HEROINE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HOLBROOK (Ariz.) May 2. — Little Helen Clare Trammell is a local heroine after an adventure in which she fell twenty-five feet from a cliff, dropping into a deep pool of the Little Colorado River, thereafter managing to paddle herself to the side of the pool, keeping herself above water by clinging to the sheer rock till rescued by her father, who swam the stream fully clad.

At the time of the accident she was with two other girls, who screamed the alarm to a near-by picnic party of their parents. Slight bruises were the only injuries.

At Shumway, Marjorie Denham, aged 6, is dead from the result of a crushed foot, the injury received through the rolling of a large stone while she and other children were at play on a hillside.

ASKS THAT MARRIAGE OF SON BE ANNULLED

MOTHER TRIES TO SET ASIDE CEREMONY STAGED BY KIDNAPERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TULSA (Okla.) May 2.—Mrs. Eva Cagle filed suit today asking the annulment of the marriage of her son, Chester, and Mrs. Belle Jones. The suit follows the young man's story that he was seized by seven men, who said they were members of the Ku Klux Klan, a sack put over his head, and kidnaped. Some time later, he says, he found he had been chained to a large gasoline tank. The Rev. Harold G. Cooke, formerly pastor of a local Methodist Church, and Mrs. Jones, were brought by some members of the band, he was made to confess he had wronged her and then they were married.

The woman is 34 years old and Chester is 20. He denies that there ever was anything wrong in his friendship, but says he had ceased to call on Mrs. Jones some time before.

The cancellation of the marriage is urged by the young man's mother on the ground that he is a minor. The preacher admitted performing the ceremony and justified it on the ground he was thankful there were men enough who were unwilling that "a child should be without a name."

BLAMES GOSSIP FOR SPREAD OF DISEASE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WEST HOBOKEN (N. J.) May 2.—Gossip is one of the worst causes of the spread of contagious diseases, Chief Inspector Rudolph Kunz of the Board of Health said today. Reporting 97 cases of measles and several of diphtheria and scarlet fever in the community, the chief inspector said gossiping mothers were chiefly to blame for the combination of all these diseases.

"After our inspectors have done all they can to isolate cases, the mothers of afflicted children go abroad or gossip over the back fences with neighbors, and thus the germs are carried to other children," said Kunz. "I can't find a law which prevents gossiping, so the only thing we can do is to enforce more severe isolation of the afflicted children."

REOPEN LAGOONS TO PEARL DIVERS

Tahiti Officials Decide to Lift Ban Placed in Stagnant Times

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PAPEETE (Tahiti) May 2.—The lagoons of the Paumotu Archipelago will be opened this season for pearl diving, the first time in two years, according to official announcement. The lagoons were closed in 1921 owing to the accumulation of pearl shell in the face of a stagnant market. Since market conditions have improved very little, if any, in the meantime, it is considered doubtful that there will be very extensive diving operations this year.

CROKER WILL CAUSE OF DUBLIN GOSSIP

RUMORED WIFE HAS ESTATE BY SETTLEMENT; NO DATE FOR FUNERAD

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUBLIN, May 2.—No date has yet been fixed for the funeral of Richard Croker. It is not expected, however, that it will take place before Friday and possibly not until Sunday.

There is some gossip in Dublin regarding the financial affairs of Mr. Croker. Some friends of the family express the belief that his will, if he left one, will dispose of very little property, asserting that the bulk of the estate went to his wife under a settlement made some time ago. Rumors fix the income derivable from the estate at £3500. Another rumor is to the effect that Glencairn Castle, Mr. Croker's residence near here, together with its spacious grounds was left to the Irish Sisters of Charity, in whose work Mr. Croker was greatly interested. It has been impossible thus far to varify any of these rumors.

Messages of condolence continue to reach Mrs. Croker. A message received by Mrs. Croker from William J. Bryan recalls a visit Mr. Bryan made to Mr. Croker at Glencairn Castle when he spent several days there. The message also recalls that the American flag was hoisted over Glencairn Castle in honor of himself and several well-known Americans who were with him.

L. A. HIGH BALL TEAM IS IN BAD SITUATION

All dope has been upset in the City League baseball tie-up. It was announced yesterday that Los Angeles High School had been playing an ineligible man. It developed upon investigation that Figueroa, who pitched three balls in the Lincoln game and who played a good part of the Hollywood game, had been playing semipro baseball. Figueroa played ball for the B. H. Dyas team on April 8. Under the State ruling this makes him ineligible to play for the high school team during the present season.

The penalty for playing a man who is ineligible, either knowingly or unknowingly is the loss of all games in which the man took part.

MILLER TO FACE IKEDA TOMORROW

Middleweight Grapplers Will Mix Things in Los Angeles Athletic Club

Kinjo Ikeda is one wrestler who commands the respect of every middleweight grappler in the business. This is especially true in the case of Walter Miller, and the latter is recognized as the world's middleweight champion.

Walter Miller

There are several reasons why the above statement is true. In the first place, Ikeda is the only grappler known at the present time who specializes and has succeeded in vanquishing opponents while both were on their feet.

Miller and Ikeda clash tomorrow night at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. The match will be the first genuine acid-test that Miller has been subjected to in many months. The crack local grappler realizes this, and he has just brought to a close one of the most systematic training programs of his career.

Not only has Ikeda a number of home-made holds which, he claims, have never been used in a match staged in this city, but he has a record which fails to show a defeat. He claims to be the Japanese catch-as-catch-can wrestling champion, and as nobody seems to dispute his word, his long string of victories backs up this assertion.

It is evident from the manner in which Miller has trained that he fears the Japanese grappling marvel. He has left no stone unturned in prepping himself for tomorrow night's tussle, while Ikeda has also proven himself a hound for hard work. Miller has been doing considerable studying. He has been working on breaks for a number of holds said to be used by Ikeda, and which smack of jiu-jitsu.

NEED PRACTICE

Apparently the members of T-Bone Riley's bowling team need some tidy practice this week. On Monday night they were victoirious over the Rawak Candy five, but by poor scores. Other practice matches are to be played this week

DANNY KRAMER IS UNPOPULAR VICTOR IN RING

Danny Kramer got the decision from the judges and the royal razzberry from the crowd in the main event at Vernon last night. Sailor Kramer, who has only one speed forward and positively no reverse, was on the reverse end of the decision but evidently won the fight as far as the crowd was concerned. Danny landed more clean blows but the Sailor soaked Danny with a flock of miscellaneous wallops and made Danny back up every time they really had an exchange.

In the semi-wind-up Kid Mexico and Jack Inman, two delicate young men with murderous dispositions slugged and mauled each other to a fare-ye-well with Mexico getting the decision on the grounds that he took more wallops than would have sunk a battleship without feeling them more than Inman did.

Just about the classiest exhibition of the evening was put on by a young gentleman named Bobby Allen who fought Young Sumner and got away with a well-earned decision. Sumner was walking around prepared to ruin Allen if he hit him but Robert was entirely too fast and clever. They were substituting for Sailor Larry and Thomas Burke who didn't appear because the sailor had misplaced his complexion in training.

There were two knockouts early in the evening, Larry Osborne ruining Sailor Rollins in the first round and Joe Layman doing the same thing to Johnny Bryan in the second round. Guy Williams was too tough for Young Sol and took a decision. Jimmy Marcus sprang a terrible comeback in the fourth round after being floored in the third and drew with Scotty Welch. Jack White and Casey Smith boxed a draw in an extra bout.

TROPHY OFFERED FOR HARVARD VAULTERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, May 2.—A trophy to be known as the George Guest Haydock memorial cup, will be awarded annually to the Harvard pole vaulter who shows the most enthusiasm, perseverance, loyalty and improvement during the season, it was announced today.

The cup has been donated by classmates and friends of George Guest Haydock, who was killed in action while serving as a lieutenant with the Twenty-eighth Infantry at Cantigny, France. He was graduated from Harvard in 1916. His best vault as a member of the track team was twelve feet, six inches.

FULLERTON BEATEN

Whittier High School took the championship of the Citrus League from Fullerton yesterday when they defeated the latter on the Poets' diamond in a game featured by errors, 7 to 3. McDermott made the biggest hit of the day by slamming out a three-bagger in the fifth. The score:

Whittier	7	6	2

CARD JUMPER CAN'T COMPETE

Fever to Keep Howell Out of I.C.A.A.A.A.

Condition of Stanford Star Athlete Serious

Art Wilcox Will Not be Able to Go East

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, May 1.—James Mint Howell, Stanford high jumper, who with a fever of 102 degrees tied for third place in the dual meet with the University of California, April 22, winning the half-point which tied the meet, has returned to a sick bed with a relapse which threatens to be serious, and which positively prevents his possible participation for Stanford in the I.C.A.A.A.A. meet at Boston.

A week before the California-Stanford meet Howell was supposedly recovered from a two weeks' attack of influenza. A fever later developed and he was sent to his home in San Jose. On the day of the track competition Howell journeyed on the train to Berkeley, entered the high jump, and counted a half-point, which prevented defeat for his team. He had a high fever during this time and immediately after the meet went back to San Jose and to a sick bed.

His condition is now reported serious, and it is doubtful if he will be recovered in weeks. Medical advice does not attribute his present condition to the effort on the day of the meet, but to preceding causes.

OUT OF IT

Stanford will also be without the services of Art Wilcox, pole vaulter, in the East. Wilcox cannot leave his university work for the time required in eastern competition. Since his excellent showing beside that of Norris of California, intercollegiate title holder, Black is considered an excellent possibility for Stanford. Black beat Norris in the big meet, April 22, and April 29 the two tied for first place at 12 feet 9 inches, at Berkeley. This is the best either has done.

MARTIN KNOCKS OUT BABE HERMAN IN FIRST

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 2. — Babe Herman, Los Angeles featherweight, was knocked out in the first round by Vincent "Pepper" Martin of Brooklyn tonight in a contest scheduled for fifteen rounds in Madison Square Garden.

Herman, dancing in a ring about his opponent, fell into a left swing that carried him across the ring. He landed on his back and took a count of five. Arising, he danced again, then went down under a series of body blows and a right to the jaw and took the full count.

One minute and forty-five seconds of the round had passed when the referee finished counting over Herman. The Californian was carried to his corner and was revived after five minutes.

VETERAN TRAINER TO SCOUT FOR SEALS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Nick Williams, coach and trainer of the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, will leave the team in Salt Lake next week and invade several middle western minor leagues searching for new players. Williams, it is believed, is the first scout ever sent out on such a mission by a minor league team.

Although he has been in baseball in the West eighteen years, Williams has never seen a major league game, so when he gets to Chicago he will take time to attend a game.

MORROW COPS VERDICT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ABERDEEN (Wash.) May 2.—Lakey Morrow, Aberdeen lightweight, won a decision over Kid Johnson of Olympia in the main event of a boxing show here last night. Eddie Moore, bantamweight, won from Indian Pete of Hoquiam, and Ted Krache of Hoquiam drew with Dick Sharpe of Seattle.

TILDEN TO MEET WILLIE JOHNSTON

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2. William M. Johnston and William Tilden II will oppose each other in the East vs. West national tennis tournamen on the courts of the Berkeley Tennis Club next Sunday, it was announced today. The tournament will continue three days, May 6, 7 and 8.

John Strachan will meet Tilden Saturday and later Johnston will oppose Vincent Richards. On Sunday the schedule calls for Roland Roberts to meet Vincent Richards and the Johnston-Tilden match will follow.

The doubles will be played Monday with Johnston and Strachan meeting Tilden and Richards.

OXY RELAY TEAM ARRIVES TODAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SALT LAKE CITY, May 2. The relay team of Occidental College, Los Angeles, passed through Salt Lake today en route to Los Angeles, after winning two events at the annual Drake relay carnival at Des Moines last Saturday. The athletes stopped off in Colorado Spring, and visited the Garden of the Gods and the Royal Gorge yesterday. They are expecting to arrive in Los Angeles at 2:40 p.m. tomorrow.

Welsh of the visitors, defeated Chicago, 6-1, 6-3, in the first singles match and Green of the visitors defeated Stagg of Chicago 6-4, 6-1, in the second singles event.

Green and Welsh defeated Frankenstein and Stagg 6-3, 6-4 in the doubles.

Welsh, captain of the visitor's team, was the star of the games.

BIG ENTRY LIST FOR TITLE TRACK DOINGS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 2.—Thirty academies and 150 high schools in thirty-five States are expected to send 1000 athletes to the eighteenth annual interscholastic track meet at the University of Chicago, May 27. On an average of fifty applications are being received daily, it was reported today.

OCCIDENTAL MERMEN MEET CALTEK TONIGHT

Occidental and California Tech meet tonight in the Pasadena Y.M.C.A. tank in a scheduled conference swimming meet. For the past two seasons Oxy and Caltek have been the top-notch aquatic teams of the South, and rivalry will make competition.

The Engineers are given a big edge, however, as they defeated S.B.U.C.'s representatives, who in turn submerged the Oxy paddlers.

EL TEMPLO BOWLERS TRIUMPH

Cigarmen Take Top Honors in Bowling Congress at Angelus Alleys

BY ED O'MALLEY

The 7-o'clock bowling in the Pacific Coast Bowling Congress at the Angelus Alleys last night brought three teams together — Oaks No. 1, Angelus Boosters and El Templo Cigar squads. The El Templo Cigar five carried off the honors with a total of 2542. The Oaks No. 1 finished second with 2470 and the Angelus third with 2336. Berry of the El Templo was high individual with 584, Palma of Oaks second with 564, and Castelleto of the Oaks third with 543.

The El Templo quintet finished fifth in the Junior League this year. They have shot together all season. In the second game Smith got four strikes in a row finishing with 202. Berry turkeyed and doubled in the first game having a total of 197 and got four in the second game for 209.

SURPRISE PARTY

The surprise of the evening was the comparatively poor showing of Imers of the Angelus Boosters. Several evenings before in a practice game at the Angelus he made 258 and ran over 700 in three games. This is the best score bowled on the alleys in months. Last night he just could not get going, his best games being 183 and 160. In the ninth frame of the third game he ditched the ball amid derisive laughs.

The fine Italian hand of Dad Meek could be seen in the victory of the El Templo Cigar squad. Dad was on the coaching line for the lads and his sage suggestions usually flowered into triples and home runs. The scores follow:

MANY PLEASING DISPLAYS

Outdoor Scenes Prevail in Exhibitions Featuring Call of the Open Road Movement

Los Angeles has responded royally to the Call of the Open Road Week festival which is being staged this week under the direction of the motor car dealers here, and thousands of interested motorists last night thronged the showrooms of the various automobile merchandising concerns here.

The curiosity of the public regarding the displays of the dealers was rewarded by scores of interesting exhibits, special private shows, fashion and style displays, new automobiles, and specially built custom creations and in many places by feature picture shows that rival in interest those being displayed at the downtown theatrical palaces.

At the Union Motors Company headquarters, for instance, a combined effect of outdoor camping scene and radio entertainment in the beautiful showrooms vies with the feature picture, "Something New," which is being shown in the service quarters to the rear of the building. In the film the Maxwell car plays the lead role, and many a man who sat through the performance last night declared that it was the most sensational motor performance ever filmed.

Down the street from the Maxwell headquarters the sightseer found many other points of interest; the beautiful Apperson display, with its pleasing outdoor setting; the Wills-Sainte Claire exhibit that pleased the weary with its promise of summer refreshment, and the J. W. Leavitt & Co. headquarters, where both the Columbia six, the car that has attracted crowds every night, and the Oldsmobile models, are prominently featured in pleasing outdoor camp scenes.

The Paul G. Hoffman Company not only has a display in the Studebaker showrooms, but in the vacant lot next to the main building has an evening entertainment that is interesting from start to finish.

None of the displays excels that of the Howard Automobile Company on South Flower street for outdoor picturesqueness. The Buick showrooms have been transformed into Pinehaven Camp, a scenic spot in some California Adirondacks. Two complete shows are put on each night, and upward of 2000 persons have viewed the entertainment the first two nights. Outdoor Franklin, the fishing expert, deals out angling dope with lavish hand.

The Greer-Robbins Company has pleasing decoration in both the Chalmers and the Hupmobile showrooms, and evening entertainment that holds the interest of the crowd upon its arrival. The radio is also a pleasing feature of this company's program.

UNUSUAL

One of the most pleasing displays on Figueroa street is that of the Albertson Motor Company, where outdoor decorations make the observer want to get out for the country vacation without any delay. Other pleasing forms of entertainment last night interested the hundreds of visitors who flocked to the Dodge Brothers motor car headquarters to see the latest spring offerings in this attractive line, as well as enjoy the decorations.

One of the most beautiful as well as interesting exhibits is that arranged by the Paige Company, whose salesrooms have been transformed into a replica of the old San Juan Capistrano Mission, as it stood a century and a quarter ago. The oil paintings on the walls are priceless in value, while the niches in the adobe walls contain statues and statuettes of saints, the Madonna and child, and others typical of the historic missions built by the Franciscan Fathers in the days of Old Spain in Southern California. An old wooden oxcart, or carreta, filled with straw, is opposite the door as you enter from Figueroa street, and the entire plant forms a scenic setting that is well worth the visit of tourist, motorist, or critical student of art.

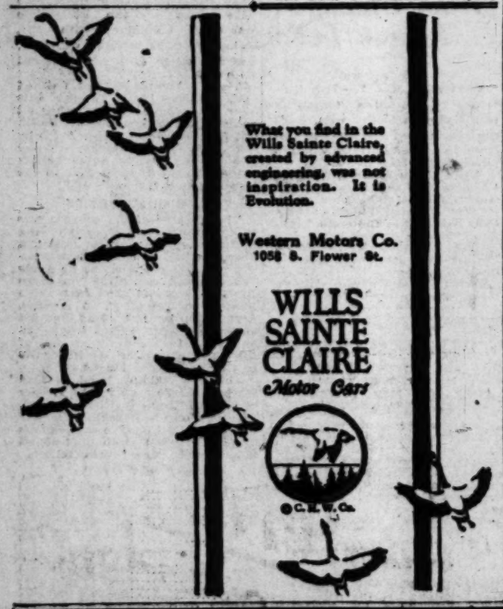
Over at the Reo branch on Hope street the entire four-story building has been thrown open to visitors, and besides the typical out-of-doors setting in the salesroom, special preparations have been made elsewhere to care for the hundreds of visitors that throng the place throughout the day. Here the five-piece Ambassador Hotel orchestra provides music for the visitor, refreshments may be had, and a tour of the various departments of the big plant are open to inspection so that the visitor may learn how the wheels go round in a big distributing plant.

RADIO CONCERTS

Lynn C. Buxton, distributor of the Haynes, has provided a high-powered radio phone set that is kept almost continually in operation; while at the Marmon plant farther north the famous Marmon "tear-downs" program is being put on several times daily.

The Troy Motor Sales Company has an excellent Call of the Open Road exhibit at the Nash and Lafayette salesrooms, with camping scenes and refreshments provided for the visitor.

All in all, the firms along the row have done themselves proud in their efforts to make their exhibits interesting to the visitor and programs of more than usual value have been universally provided. Figueroa street and the streets farther back are a blaze of lights this week, and the row now vies with Broadway as the best lighted part of Los Angeles.



What you find in the Wills Sainte Claire, created by advanced engineering, was not inspiration. It is Evolution.

DEMPSEY BIDS BERLIN ADIEU

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, May 3.—Jack Dempsey left Berlin early this afternoon after a busy morning of sight-seeing and official welcomes. He first visited the Lord Mayor, who gave a lengthy welcoming address, attributing a large part of the new German interest in sports to Dempsey. It was evident that the Lord Mayor was not displeased at the champion defeating Carpentier, who in German eyes is first a Frenchman and then a prize fighter.

BEES PUT STINGER IN SENATOR CREW

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 3.—Handsome John Bromley of the Salt Lake Bees was invincible, while his teammates had their batting clothes on, at the Morsing Field matinee staged here today. Result was that Paul Fittery of the Solons was driven from the hill in the third, after four runs had been chalked against his account. Gibson, who took his place, was greeted with clusters of clouts in the fifth, sixth and eighth innings, all of which, coupled with a boot or two, added a heap more to the Bee's run alley. Col. Pick's crew came along in the eighth and shoved a pair of markers across on Kopp's triple, Sand's weird peg and Sheehan's Texas into center. That saved Sacramento from a shutout and the final figures of the opening combat ended with a count of 11 to 2 in favor of the men who toil for Duffy Lewis.

ATHLETICS HIT FOUR HOMERS

Philadelphians Make Three in a Row

Walker, Perkins and Miller Perform Feat

Nationals Lose Ball Game by 11-to-2 Count

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—Four home runs, three of which were made in succession in the fourth inning, today, gave Philadelphia the deciding game in the series with Washington by the score of 11 to 2. Walker's home run in the first inning scored Johnston. In the fourth, with two out, Walker again made a homer, scoring Young. Perkins and Miller followed also with circuit smashes. After that Mogridge was ejected and Francis finished the game, holding the Athletics to two hits.

The feat of hitting three home runs in a row by three successive batters performed today by Tillie Walker, Perkins and Miller of the Philadelphia Athletics has only two precedents in the annals of the game, despite the current prevalence of home-run batting.

Three Cleveland batters last did the stunt in 1902, twenty years ago. Lajoie, Hickman and Bradley hit the balls out of the lot, bringing the American League in this respect equal to the mark set in the National in 1898 by Shugart, Miller and Peitz of the St. Louis club.

In the eight games in the National League three batters have made home runs in one inning, and five times a trio has so performed in the younger circuit, but only in two of these were three successive batters the participants. The score:

WHITE SOX LOSE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 3. — Cleveland struck its batting stride today and pounded out a 10-to-6 victory over Chicago, thereby breaking a losing streak of five games. The locals used three pitchers in an attempt to stop the scoring. Covaleskie was hit hard but was given great support, especially by Wood, who speared Sheely's drive in the third inning after a long run. The score:

In addition to the above there will be a novelty event with trapshooters competing for prizes on the golf links, golfers competing for prizes at the traps. There will also be events for the ladies in the Indians' party.

L. R. Mellus of Los Angeles, high chief of the Indians, will head a big party from the southern part of the State, and the north is to be well represented.

Everything is in readiness for the Indians to go on the warpath and they will be whooping it up at Del Monte next week.

YELLOW TAXI'S WIN

The Yellow Taxi ball club added another victory to its long string yesterday afternoon by trimming the Examiner nine, 9 to 5, at Echo Park. Clark and Anderson of the Taxi team helped bring about the victory for their team by driving out home runs with men on bases. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Examiner	5	8	4
Yellow Taxi's	9	10	2

Batteries: Cabitt and Summers; Williams and Clark.

IS EVEN UP WITH TATUM

Dr. Paul Hunter, Norman Macbeth, E. S. (Scotty) Armstrong, Horace Majors nor some of the other front-rankers teed off, but the frolic drew a total of 313 starters.

As only eight flights were formed many were shut out of the drawings. The low 128 made the grade. The starting time of the various flights has been arranged with matches going out at five-minute intervals. The first pair named in each flight goes out at the beginning of the time limit set for that particular flight, the second pair named to follow five minutes later and so on down the line. In this way it will be easy for each match to figure out its starting time on the basis of five-minute intervals.

The periods for the various flights follow: First flight, 12:30 to 1:15; second flight, 1:15 to 2:30; third flight, 10:00 to $10:45; fourth flight, 9:15 to 10:00; fifth flight, 10:45 to 11:30; sixth flight, 11:30 to 12:15; seventh flight, 8:30 to 9:15; eighth flight, 2:30 to 3:15.

CLEMSON ELEVEN TO MEET HAWAII SQUAD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GREENVILLE (S. C.) May 2.—A game with the University of Hawaii to be played at Honolulu on New Year's Day has been arranged for the Clemson football team, it was announced today.

MYERS STOPS ROONEY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

POCATELLO (Idaho) May 2.—Spug Myers secured a technical knockout over Walter Rooney of San Francisco in a scheduled twelve-round battle here last night. At the end of the fifth round Rooney took the count of nine and stood up to take a right cross to the jaw for more than ten counts.

Interested fan arises to remark as follows on his typewriter via the postman:

"Will you please answer through your Sport Shrapnel column the following?

"Do any of the pitchers now in the Coast League use Mathewson's once famous 'fadeaway' ball, and if not, why has this delivery fallen into disuse? The writer, an amateur, used this ball with good effect for a number of years, and would like to know if it is still being used."

None of the pitchers we have seen in action so far this season use the Mathewson fadeaway. At times, Elmer Ponder's change of pace when he shifts to a slow one is a bit reminisful of the Old Master, but it seems to me a long time since I saw a bona fide fadeaway.

Mathewson used this delivery as no other pitcher before or since. Regardless of whether it was entirely his own idea, he perfected it to an unprecedented degree.

In a way it was the successor to the old-fashioned delivery known as the "straight drop curve." This dropped abruptly, which distinguished it from the "out drop," a ball which broke away from the plate for a right-handed batter when descending. The "straight drop" thrown with an abrupt trajectory was rather hard to hit, but as a rule required a motion by the pitcher which tended to telegraph his intention.

This, of course, lessened its effectiveness. Then came Mathewson with his fadeaway, its greater deceptiveness and numerous more or less successful imitators. This was harder to hit than the "straight drop," as it seemed actually to fade away. Batters have told me that it was almost uncanny, and sometimes gave them a feeling of something akin to vertigo. In the hands of others, however, it lacked the finesse given it by Mathewson.

Then why attempt the art of another when the simple expedient of spitting on the ball would get practically the same technical results?

Rising young pitchers forget the fadeaway, and devoted themselves to the spitter, or the development of the knuckle ball. This youngster, Kenneth Douglas of the Angels, has a knuckle ball which fade away as completely as did Matty's prize delivery, if not more so. Eddie Cicotte was one of the pioneers of the knuckle ball, and with it came very nearly approximating Mathewson's greatness.

There have been many spitball pitchers and knuckle-ball pitchers who had fully as much mechanically as Mathewson, but lacked his almost perfect control, his remarkable memory and judgment and his strange insight in the batting weaknesses of opponents.

Baseball crowds have us guessing this season. Seattle, opening on its home grounds with Vernon, drew 11,000. Portland in its opener against Oakland played to approximately double that number, or to be specific, 21,000.

Making this discrepancy doubly baffling is the fact that the visiting attraction in Portland was Oakland, heretofore the poorest road club in the league from an attendance standpoint, while the Siwashes were paired off with Vernon, regarded as one of the best traveling attractions in the circuit.

Possibly it was the reaction from poor to promising baseball which caused that prosperous upheaval in Portland. Or, perchance, the Oaks now being in reality the Oakland team, stand out more clearly in the public mind and have made themselves an increased attraction. Portland was given wide publicity in the rebuilding, and Klepper is a good showman. Perhaps the handsome result was due to a combination of all these things.

A less favorable reaction may be taking place in Seattle. The Siwashes are not as strong as last season, or the year before, apparently. Such a situation tends to dull enthusiasm.

Some clubs are good at home and poor on the road, or vice versa. The Angels in recent years have been a great attraction on the home lot, but broke no attendance records on the road. Sacramento is one of the best road clubs in the circuit.

San Francisco draws well both at home and broad. Vernon for a number of years was about the league's best road club, and may still merit that distinction. These attendance vagaries are difficult to explain in most cases, but not with the Tigers. As a rule they are a hustling ball club, popularized around the circuit in the first place by the late Hap Hogan, and this influence is still felt abroad years after his death.

Hap started out with one of the funniest looking ball clubs ever assembled. People came out to see it mainly because it was funny. Later, the club improved its class, and was taken seriously. Hap was the league's best mixer, and that was when they mixed 'em in public. Apparently he picked some of his players for their beer-drinking ability. And in those days this didn't impair the popularity of a player, but rather increased it. Hap's list of personal acquaintances ranged from bankers to swabbers in saloons, and they were all alike to him. Every bartender in the circuit was for him, and the preachers likewise applauded. Hap popularized the Tigers all right, and cut about forty years off his life doing it.

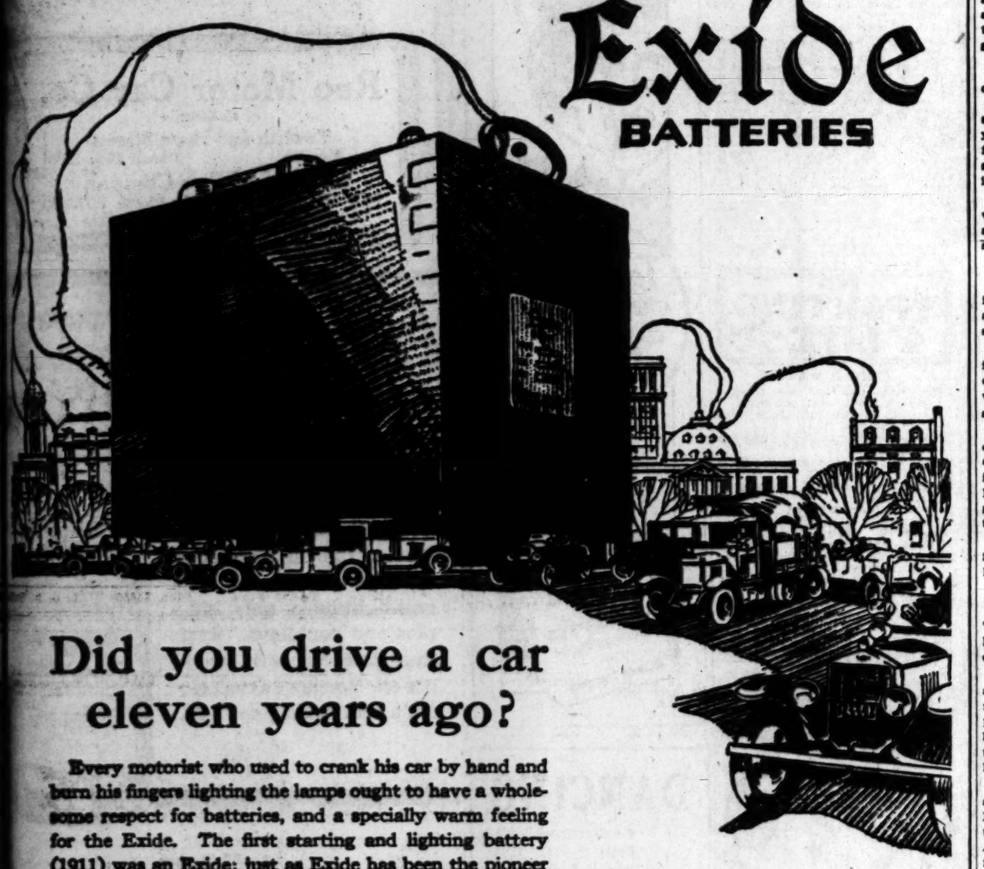
BATTERIES



Did you drive a car eleven years ago?

Every motorist who used to crank his car by hand and burn his fingers lighting the lamps ought to have a wholesome respect for batteries, and a specially warm feeling for the Exide. The first starting and lighting battery (1911) was an Exide; just as Exide has been the pioneer in other industries through the entire history of the storage battery.

This "ancient history" has a distinct bearing on your comfort and economy in motoring, because the experience of the oldest and largest manufacturers of storage batteries in the world is built into the Exide made for your car. The result is that the Exide gives exceptional service. You can depend on its eager power day in and day out longer than you would believe possible unless you have already owned an Exide.

Check up on these statements with friends who have Exide Batteries in their cars — and more cars leave the factory equipped with Exides than any other battery. Better still, stop at the nearest Exide Service Station and get acquainted with the Exide — the long-life battery.

CALTEK LOSES LEADERSHIP

Cubs Down Engineers in Ball Game; Redlands Donates Contest to Pomona Sagehens

Caltek lost the leadership of the Conference League yesterday afternoon when the Southern Branch team defeated them on the latter's diamond, 5 to 4. Too many errors and long chances on the part of Caltek players and the good support and tight pitching of Vail, who relieved Schleder for the Cubs, were enough to give the young Bruins the margin.

Groat slammed one outsin the second that landed him safe on first, due to an error. By a good deal of luck and some fast running he managed to cross the platter before the end of the inning.

The first hit was made in the fourth when Preston slammed out a beauty to deep right. Fred Groat, who had previously reached first on an error and advanced to third on a series of sacrifices and passed balls, crossed the platter for the second marker on Preston's hit.

Southern Branch got busy in this inning and Rossell slammed one out with only one out and Olmstead coming up. A wild throw gave him second. Peak singled after Olmstead fanned and Rossell scored on an error, a wild throw.

A rally was nearly started in the ninth, but it came too late. McDonald scored but both of the Groat boys went out with two men on bases.

The score:

										R.	H.	E.
Caltek	0	1	0	1	0	1	0	0	1	4	10	4
S.B.U.C.	0	0	0	0	1	2	0	2	x	5	6	3

SAGEHENS WIN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, May 2.—The University of Redlands donated a perfectly good conference ball game to Pomona College here this afternoon, with a bumper crop of errors, the final tally being 7 to 2. Only four men on the Redlands team failed to contribute with errors.

Pomona won the game in the last inning, the score being 2 to 2 at that time. In the eighth, with two errors and a short right field single, Pomona packed the bases, but Redlands pulled out of the hole. Three errors on the first three batters in the ninth started the fireworks and singles and walks completed the work.

The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Pomona	7	9	3
Redlands	2	4	0

ANGELENOS BAG MANY GAME FISH

Holabough Brings Back Largest Rainbow Trout Caught This Season

May is going to be a poor month for trout—but not for anglers—if some of the catches made by local fishermen have anything to do with it. All embryo Isaac Waltons were out with a vengence the first two days of the season and many limits of speckled beauties were hauled in by local anglers.

Some of the places where limits were caught were at Big Bear, Camp Bonita, on the San Ynes River, the San Gabriel River, the Seepe River, Ventura River, and near Fawn Skin.

To J. L. Holabough, an engineer on the Southern Pacific, goes the record of catching the largest rainbows so far reported. He landed a twenty-four, a twenty-two, and a twenty-inch trout, while fishing on the Seepe River. Frances Bradbeer of the B. H. Dyas sporting goods company caught a sixteen-inch fish on the Santa Ynez River. S. B. Bennett hooked a three-and-a-half and four-pound trout and landed them in less than ten minutes.

Others who caught limits were: Ralph Sebree, Warren Hoppenstead, Charlie Hastings, Stanley Anderson, Al Mills, John Baird, Judge Finch of Redlands, Charles Paine of Redlands, Guy Daniels of Redlands, and T. Bartlett of Big Bear Lake; John Schumacher, F. Magee, Dr. Dixon, Dr. Smith, Dr. Hathaway, C. E. Brown, Charles Evans landed limits at Camp Rustic; Kenneth Fraser, Lindsay Kennedy, A. W. Barrett, Frances Bradbeer, and Dr. and Mrs. Haughman in the Santa Ynez River; Hal Roach, E. M. Walker, Billy Coe, Allen Kent, Carl Haverman and F. W. Thatcher landed in their string on the San Gabriel River; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Edwards, Val Knott, J. Babcock, W. N. Emery and M. Baird landed theirs at Big Bear near Fawn Skin; Walter Brauer, T. Groat and A. Armstrong landed their limit in the Seepe River near the Boulevard; W. H. Cline, Sr., Judge Stephenson, W. J. White, F. J. Sasper, W. A. Winsboro, C. Parsons, Fred Hartmann, Tom Owen, Tom Carrahers, W. Williams, Howard Robinson and J. H. Dethmann took their limit out of the Ventura River; and W. H. Cline, Jr., and J. L. Holabough caught the limit in the Seepe River near the oil wells.

THE SPORTING LIFE

ALEX & WALT

Turn them out and see them—
watch them while you may,
Encourage them with many a ringing cheer—
Time flies—the span of pitching life is short,
And this, perchance, may be their final year!
The good right ar mof corded supple steel
Cannot endure forever, and we know
They work against tremendous odds this spring—
Short is the time that's left for them to go!
Year after year they've pleased us with their skill—
Year after year they've mowed the batsmen down—
And who shall say, in critical review,
Which of the pair should wear the brighter crown?

A Cuban, an Italian and a Portuguese are all doing their best for the Cincinnati Reds. Must be an interesting exhibit of Latin phrases when the three of them get excited over anything!

Why don't the heavyweight wrestlers play put and take to decide who shall be the next champion, and not worry the public about it?

One thing they all forget when they talk about a wrestler whipping a boxer in a mixed battle: The fact that the boxer can hit while the wrestler is getting his hold. What sort of a wrestling hold except a headlock couldn't be disposed of instantly by one crash on the chin of the fellow who was trying to apply the grip?

Klepper Goes to Plead for His Manager

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, May 2.—W. H. Klepper, president of the Portland baseball club of the Pacific Coast League, appeared today before former Judge K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, with an appeal to have W. J. Kenworthy reinstated as manager of the club. Kenworthy was suspended several weeks ago on a charge that he had tampered with a baseball player.

James R. Brewster, identified with the Seattle club of the league, and J. C. Mosher, attorney for the Portland club, also appeared before Commissioner Landis in connection with the case. After several hours' conference, Judge Landis indicated that the matter had been taken under advisement, but no decision might be made for two or three days.

PACKARD CAR RUNS
16.4 MILES WITHOUT OIL
and Not the Slightest Difference
Because for 3000 miles it had been previously lubricated with OILDAG
(Established in 1908)
The World's Best Lubricant

Here is the Proof—

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: April 29, 1922.

This is to certify that on this date, we, the undersigned, witnessed the driving of a Packard Single Six No. U3349, a total distance of Sixteen and four-tenths (16.4) miles, after the lubricant had been drained from the motor and the plug removed, leaving the oil sump dry. Previous to this dry run test this car had been driven some distance on OILDAG.

The car was driven on its own power through the downtown traffic and the residence section of the City of Los Angeles at speeds varying from Fifteen to Twenty-five miles an hour, or as fast as traffic regulations would permit.

During the run the car acted as though the proper amount of lubricant was in use, although the oil gauge was at Zero and the motor cooled perfectly; in fact, the MOTO-Meter showed cooler at the finish than at the start.

At the end of the run (which lasted one hour and ten minutes) (1:10), we examined the motor carefully and thoroughly and found it in perfect condition and showing no ill effects whatever from the run apparently due to the fact that GRAPHOID surfaces had been formed by the use of OILDAG.

We announced on Friday that we would run a Packard car under its own power, with full passenger load, 15 miles with the crank case and bearings dry—that not a drop of lubricant would be used during the test. This run was made Saturday before a representative committee of business and scientific men, who thoroughly examined the motor both before and after the test. They found there was practically no variation in the heat of the motor or in its mechanical action despite the fact that the car was operated at an average touring speed throughout the run.

These tests are made from time to time to convincingly prove that graphoid surfaces are formed by the consistent use of Oildag, and are not made to advocate running without oil.

The Frictionless Surfaces thus formed remain indefinitely, provided Oildag is used continuously—used the same as ordinary oil. Oildag permits you to travel farther on a gallon of gas, gives more power and makes your engine better the longer it runs.

EUROPE NEEDS OUR FOODSTUFF

Expert Can See No Decline in Purchases

Foreign Wheat Demand is Bound to Gain

Agricultural Recovery is Somewhat Slow

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ROME, May 2.—Albert B. Dennis, former American commercial attache at Rome, who is now investigating European food conditions, as special representative of the Department of Commerce, has arrived here to attend a general meeting of the International Institute of Agriculture as American delegate.

IMPORTS HEAVY

"Despite the hard times and progressive decline in the currencies of Central Europe," he said today, "there is no lessening in the purchases of overseas foodstuffs. Europe imported in eight months of the present cereal year an excess of 40,000,000 bushels of wheat over the same period last year, after an exceptionally fine native harvest. A good market for American wheat seems assured for at least a year, a cold late spring increasing consumption and postponing maturity of the next harvest.

"Russia formerly sold abroad over 150,000,000 bushels of wheat annually, but now is an importing country.

"Overseas wheat will for some years continue necessary to fill this great vacuum in production.

"The subdivision of great estates among the peasants has seriously impaired the wheat-exporting capacity of Rumania. Neither in acreage nor condition does the present export promise a harvest equalling that of last year; it seems that the demand for imported wheat is bound to strengthen. Certainly there is nothing to warrant the belief that our foreign foodstuffs trade is likely to decline.

RECOVERY SLOW

"Except for Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary, no great progress is taking place in the way of expansion of European agricultural resources. In all European countries where beet root is grown successfully, except England, Greece, Turkey and Norway, the recovery is unexpectedly slow. A year ago it was freely predicted that Germany, which before the war exported to England alone 1,000,000 tons of sugar annually, would recover during the present season almost her former export strength. It now looks as though Germany would be only able to supply her own needs."

CONGRESS VOTES AID TO FLOODED FARMERS

MISSISSIPPI RESIDENTS TO GET EMERGENCY FUND FOR REHABILITATION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The Senate and House today unanimously approved a resolution providing a second emergency fund of $200,000 for flood relief work in the Mississippi Valley. The measure was sent to the White House, where it was expected President Harding would give it his prompt approval.

At the same time the House Agricultural Committee made a favorable report on another appropriation of $1,000,000 to be used in the purchase of seed and live stock for farmers in the flooded area.

The $200,000 fund granted today is to take care of emergencies, which could not be dealt with legally under the $1,000,000 voted several weeks ago for flood relief along the Mississippi. Representative Madden, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, told the House that the $1,000,000 fund could be extended only in districts where the residents contribute one-third of the cost of levee construction. He stated that the supplemental fund of $200,000 was urgently needed in districts where the residents' one-third of the cost of levees has not been contributed.

SUSPECT FOUL PLAY IN VETERAN'S DEATH

AUTOPSY ORDERED; WIDOW OF FIVE MEN HELD IN CLEVELAND

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND, May 2.—An autopsy on the body of an ex-soldier who died suddenly nearly a year ago under mysterious circumstances was ordered by Coroner Hammond today. The body is that of the fifth husband of a woman who is being held pending an investigation.

Although charged with another crime, which has no connection with this case, the woman is suspected to having committed a series of murders in order to collect insurance totalling $11,000.

Three of the woman's husbands died mysteriously, according to County Prosecutor Stanton, while two of her children died from poison, which she explained had been taken accidentally.

The body of the fifth husband was exhumed day following an investigation. The vital organs were sent to the city chemist for analysis, but it was said it will be several days before a report is returned to the county authorities.

SANTA CLARA PUPILS GIVE MISSION PLAY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SANTA CLARA, May 2.—Presentation of the "Mission Play of Santa Clara" was a feature here of the Santa Clara centenary being held this week to mark the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the third and present Mission Santa Clara.

Sixty students of the University of Santa Clara took part in the play, under the direction of its author, Martin V. Merle, a Santa Clara graduate. The play depicts the romantic and stirring times through which the old mission passed in the days of 1846, when the United States and Mexico were at war.

CHILDREN MARCH TO SAFETY FROM FIRE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN RAFAEL, May 2.—Fire starting from a defective flue imperilled fifteen children in the nursery of the Presbyterian orphanage at San Anselmo today, and destroyed the orphanage, causing a loss of $100,000. The children responded to a fire drill and went quickly through the smoke-filled halls to safety.

The orphanage was established in 1898, and was maintained by funds supplied by the Presbyterian church.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALEM (Or.) May 2.—A license fee of $400 a year on each vehicle sent to Salem by bakery firms in other cities to sell bread from house to house is proposed in a proposed ordinance introduced at a meeting of the City Council. The ordinance is said to be directed mainly at Portland firms and is designed to protect local bakers.

SHARKS VICTORS IN SEA BATTLE

Fight With Porpoises Seen from Deck of Liner Frederik VII.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 2.—Thrilling stories of a deep-sea battle between a school of nearly 100 porpoises and a half-dozen big sharks were brought in today by passengers on the Scandinavian-American liner Frederik VII. Passengers who crowded the rail to witness the struggle said they saw at least forty of the porpoises slain before the vessel drew away from the battle ground.

One woman, sympathizing with the porpoises, urged the captain to stop and send out a boatload of sailors to kill the horrible sharks, but the captain insisted on maintaining strict neutrality.

GIVES VIEW OF GENOA MEETING

Chicago Editor Tells of Conditions Abroad

All Want Debts Cancelled and More Loans

Hugo Stinnes's Bright Idea for Russians

BY ROBERT R. McCORMICK,
Co-Editor Chicago "Tribune"

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, May 2.—In the three days I have been home nine people out of every ten I have met, including all the newspaper men, have asked me if I thought we should be represented at Genoa. From this I judge that the opinion of an American newspaper editor who has spent three months in the different countries of Europe will prove interesting to our readers in spite of the fact that the bulk of our newspapers are devoting their display space to the arguments of English writers.

All the countries of Europe want us represented at Genoa for two great reasons, common to them all, and for other divergent ones. The first one is that they hope to persuade us to renounce our right to repayment of monies lent to them and to advance them further billions of dollars without security and without reasonable hope of repayment.

I have just come from the centers where the cancelling of war debts is the chief topic of international conversation. This desire, instinct, in all debtors, was rendered articulate by the Hon. Reginald McKenna, once Chancellor of the Exchequer of the British Empire. It is now urged with a great deal of sympathy and sophistry, although not presented with the glowing eloquence with which William J. Bryan preached repudiation in America a quarter of a century ago.

STINNES EXCEPTION

The only exception to this common wish I have heard expressed is attributed to Hugo Stinnes, the evil genius of modern Germany, who urges that America should be required to collect the monies loaned to Europe and to turn over this money to Russia for industrial rehabilitation. Stinnes has the organization and the trade agreements to exploit a rejuvenated Moscovi.

Before accrediting one of our impressionable American statesmen to sit in with the great poker players of Europe, it would be well to decide in advance whether we are prepared to waive the debts.

This brings up the question—can the peoples of Europe pay their debts to the United States? The answer is a certain and vigorous affirmative. Whatever are the economic difficulties across the water, they are small when compared with ours during the period following our Civil War, and microscopic in view of the conditions following our revolution and the Napoleonic upheaval.

To be sure, European countries are not flourishing. They have suffered severely from the war. They have suffered from a peace based solely on military considerations, a peace which flouted all economic principles. These, however, do not constitute the real menaces to European reconstruction.

GOVERNMENTS WEAK

Because of the upheavals following the war there are no governments among the former warring powers which are strong enough either to raise by taxation sufficient revenues to meet the expenses of government or to keep the expenses of governments within the revenue they raise.

Their inexperience in government affords them no enlightenment as to the eventual effect of debasing their currency. Only outside pressure would seem to influence the people. The assertion of America's intention to collect her debts, followed by that of Great Britain, has had a marked effect, and may have started European public opinion to thinking in the right direction.

While considering the depreciated currencies, it is well to remember that the money of Germany is by no means the worst in Europe. It must not be thought that the reparations bills of the Allies alone are accountable for the fall in the German mark. If the reparations question was waived there is no reason to feel that the present German government would meet its operating expenses by taxes.

Not only is it too weak to coerce its citizens, but a number of the latter selling for export for dollars and pound sterling, and buying their domestic raw materials and paying their labor in a constantly depreciating paper, are profiteering at a rate that will turn green with envy even our wartime ship and airplane manufacturers.

INVITATION TO TAFT PLEASES PRESIDENT

ACTION OF GENOA CONFERENCE CONSIDERED TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN FAIRNESS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 2.—President Harding regards the proposed invitation to Chief Justice Taft to name the chairman of the mixed arbitral commission for control of Russian debts as one of the finest tributes ever given by the world to American fairness and impartiality.

Nothing that has developed during the last year has been more gratifying to the President, it was stated at the White House today, than this indication that the world believes Americans will deal squarely with every interest.

While the President is convinced that the other nations of the world would be more than glad to have the United States represented at Genoa he does not believe the proposed invitation to Judge Taft is in the nature of a bid to get the United States to participate. The question of acceptance, it was indicated, is wholly a matter for Justice Taft to decide, although the administration believes it would be perfectly proper for him to accept if it appears that he can be of service.

BEAR'S ALASKA CRUISE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—The United States Coast Guard cutter Bear left here today for her annual cruise in Alaskan waters. It is expected that she will be gone six months.

MANCHUS RUSH INTO BATTLE

is based primarily upon the fact that the treaties and resolutions affecting China, which were adopted at the conference, confer a maximum of benefit upon the Chinese people, with a minimum of sacrifice.

Fyw authorities in Washington believe there is likely to be a break in the continuity of government at Peking. Even should the future bring it about, that Dr. Sun Yat Sen, President of the South China republic, should become head of a united China with the capital at Peking, officials think it likely that at least the forms of a constitutional election would be gone through, with the result that no new formalities of action by foreign powers would be necessary.

In such an event the agreements of the former Chinese government would be binding upon the new regime, unless they were specifically repudiated.

SHANTUNG SETTLEMENT

Of all the Washington engagements the Shantung settlement has aroused most opposition in China. This feeling of antagonism toward the agreement, it is asserted, has been carefully nurtured by Sun Yat Sen. It is believed, however, that the South China President was prompted in this action by purely political motives and that he really believes the Chinese delegation drove an exceedingly good bargain, under the circumstances.

Dismissing the four-power Pacific treaty and the naval agreement, in which China has no direct interest, there remain two conference treaties and a number of resolutions to which China either is a signatory or which were designed by the agreeing powers to change conditions in China. These include the so-called nine-power treaty, dealing largely with the open door in China; the Chinese customs tariff treaty; and resolutions regarding such matters as the withdrawal of foreign troops in China, the elimination of foreign postoffices, the abolition of extra-territoriality or the right of foreigners to be tried in their own courts; and the restoration to China of certain foreign controlled radio stations.

While officials have no doubt as to the ultimate execution of all of the agreements made at Washington, it is freely admitted that there may be some delay in carrying out the terms of some of the resolutions. For example, China has already asked that the appointment of members to the commission provided for under the extra territoriality resolution be postponed and it seems certain that the various powers with interests in China might hesitate to withdraw their troops so long as conditions of evil war and anarchy exist.

FRENCH KICK OVER TRACES

discussion of all international obligations if America is willing.

Just how seriously the instructions Barrere got from Paris are going to affect the negotiations is difficult to predict, although they were a pretty strong jolt to the conference. If the French finally go ahead and give their consent, the document can be placed before the Bolsheviki, but even then several days must elapse before the Allies will know whether their proposals are acceptable to the Russians. There are excellent reasons for believing that the Reds will yield at the terms, although some technical objections may be raised first. If the Russians should reject the program, the conferees see no early hope of renewed negotiations for an understanding.

PLENARY SESSION TODAY

A plenary session of the economic conference will be held tomorrow to hear reports from the financial and transport commissions and to give some concrete evidence to the outside world that something is being accomplished in the negotiations here.

Lord Inverforth, chairman of the international consortium, formed to do business with any distressed country of Europe offering reasonable security, returned to London this morning, having fulfilled the organizing mission on which he came here. Under his direction, fifteen countries have subscribed £20,000,000 as the initial capital for the enterprise that is strictly a business and not a charity proposition.

As the work of the consortium develops its working capital will be increased and America would be welcomed as a subscriber. The original members were Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan. Now Canada, Holland, Czecho-Slovakia, Sweden, Norway, Spain, Switzerland and Denmark have joined, most of them subscribing £500,000 each to the capital.

SHIES AT CONSORTIUM

Lord Inverforth said that he regarded the present capital as sufficient to meet any demands which might be made on the consortium. There will be executive and general committees of the organization with each nation represented by one delegate in each. At present, Russia is shy of the consortium, but most of the conference delegates believe she will accept its aid in time.

Tchitcherin, chief of the Bolshevik delegation, who counts that day lost on which he fails to write a letter to somebody, sent one today to Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy. Under the guise of a protest against Georgian objections to soviet activities in the Caucasus, Tchitcherin attacked almost every nation represented at the conference. He assailed the Japanese for the military activity in Siberia and Korea, the French for their treatment of the Germans in the Saar Valley, the Rumanians for their work in Bessarabia, the Italians for the way they govern Tripoli, and the British for their management of Egypt and India. He said that the Japanese were preparing for military operations in Siberia and that Gen. Wrangel, ex-leader of the anti-Bolsheviki in Southern Russia, had made a deal with the Rumanian government for an invasion of the Ukraine.

JAPAN WILL KEEP TREATY

Tokio Statement on China Pleases Capital

Considered First Fruit of Nine-Power Pact

Means Carrying Out of Plan in Far East

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 2.—While the State Department withholds comment on today's dispatch from Tokio, announcing that the Japanese government will adhere to a policy of noninterference in China, no secret is made of the fact that the department and this government is profoundly gratified.

In the administration and in the diplomatic corps alike, the Tokio move is regarded as the first fruit of the nine-power treaty, otherwise the Chinese open-door treaty. The phraseology of the Tokio dispatch, which bears indication of being officially authorized, is somewhat of a paraphrase of the vital portion of the nine-power treaty. It says that Japan "will take no action in connection with the present disturbed conditions in that country (China) without consultation with the powers, especially Great Britain and the United States, if action seems necessary, and will observe the agreement not to supply either faction with arms and ammunition."

POWERS ARE BOUND

The first specification of Article I of the nine-power treaty binds those powers "to respect the sovereignty, the independence and territorial and administrative integrity of China."

The fourth specification of Article I binds them "to refrain taking advantage of conditions in China in order to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights of subjects or citizens of the friendly States, and from countenancing such action inimical to the security of such States."

But even more significant is Article VII of the treaty, which provides: "The contracting powers agree that whenever a situation arises which, in the opinion of any one of them involves the application of the stipulations of the present treaty and renders desirable discussions of such application, there shall be full and frank communication between the contracting parties concerned."

It probably would be an impropriety for this government even informally to compliment Japan on the declaration which comes from Tokio. It is to be assumed that Japan, of course, will keep her pledged word, and comment on her announcement that she is to do so might be considered discourteous and indicating that she had done something unusual.

WATCHING MOVEMENTS

This government is maintaining a watchful eye on developments in China but manifestly has not been disturbed by any thought that Japan would seek to take advantage of the condition of civil war that now exists in China. In fact, the imminence of that civil war was well understood at the time of the Washington Conference. It was regarded as inevitable. Treaties were drawn in anticipation of the event. That the treaties are working out as intended, therefore, is not a matter to amaze this or other governments.

But, going behind the record, it is accepted as a fact that Chang Tso Lin, whose troops are at war with those of Wu Pei Fu, long was in the pay of Japan and under the control of the General Staff of the Japanese army. No evidence exists that the relationship continues. The events indeed point to the fact that Japan has cut off whatever relations she may have had with the former bandit chief.

Newspaper and official cables from China both indicate that Chang has suffered at least an initial defeat at the hands of Wu and that Wu appears to possess superior military strength. Certainly, it is argued in Washington, if Japan were supporting Chang, this would not be the case.

FIGHT CHICAGO RENT PIRATES

More Than 15,000 Tenants Refuse to Move

Court Calendars Already Are Crowded

Believed Dictatorship is Nearly at End

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, May 2.—With the declaration that more than 15,000 families had flatly refused to move from their homes on Monday, Municipal Judge Barasa of the renters' court today prepared to handle the crowds that will start pouring into his court for hearing.

By Friday it is believed that nearly a thousand cases will be placed on the call each day. To handle the crowds, the judge will remove benches, so that every square foot of space can be made available.

The 15,000 estimate was made today by E. A. Potter, manager of the Chicago Tenants Protective league, following a survey of the moving situation. He declared that there were thousands of families who had effected agreements with their landlords but that the 15,000 represented the approximate number who had not signed new leases, paid their May rent in part or in full, but intended going into court.

CALENDAR CROWDED

Although only twenty-four hours have elapsed the calendar in Judge Barasa's court has shown a large increase in cases. A majority of them are for families who have not given up their apartments or flats because they said they could not find a new home that they could afford.

Belief that the housing shortage situation was gradually becoming less acute was expressed by Thomas E. Donnelley, chairman of the citizens committee to enforce the Landis wage award.

"There is no question in my mind that the shortage of houses is practically at an end," he asserted. "One leading contractor told me of a situation which proves that the landlord's dictatorship has collapsed. A large apartment in a high class North Side residential district was scheduled for occupancy Monday.

LANDLORDS ANXIOUS

"Delays held back construction and it cannot be ready for several weeks. To hold the forty tenants who have signed contracts to occupy the building, the landlord offered to pay their bills at hotels until their apartments were completed."

The building permit department in the city hall showed that a total of 1,585 new apartment buildings and 701 residences were authorized for the month of April and that a total of 6,284 apartment building permits and 1,898 private home permits have been issued since January 1.

"Things have not been going well lately," said the defendant stoically, "and I guess a long vacation will do me good."

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

J. J. Forsythe, a wealthy recluse, whose hobby is orchids, receives threats on his life. The threats always came in the same way. Finally one arrives stating the 13th of the month as the day he will die. He calls in a firm of detectives. Andrew Cairns is given charge. He appoints a strong guard at Forsythe's home. Cairns himself remaining at his client's side. As Forsythe is in the act of signing a letter, a request for an autograph, he suddenly dies. The coroner's verdict is death from natural causes. Cairns is convinced that his client was murdered. Permission of Miss Carroll, Forsythe's sole heir, to investigate the case at his own expense is secured.

The fact that the request for the autograph came from St. Louis, and the address from a quarter in the negro section, arouses Cairns's suspicion. He goes to St. Louis, and there meets a negro woman fortune teller, "Quando." Later he is attacked by two negroes at her instigation, but he escapes. Upon returning to New York he interviews a wealthy orchid fancier and learns Forsythe obtained the gem of his orchid collection, a Butterfly Orchid, in British Guiana. Cairns sails for that place, and there learns of a man named Hardin and another named Barnes, both of whom were known to Forsythe. Barnes, according to the British consul, had once saved Hardin's life. "Where was that?" asks Cairns.

"Scipio, Mo. A swamp village that makes barrel staves and buys more quinine for swamp fever than any other town of twenty times its size, bar none," said Selwyn. "Barnes picks him up, out of the sweep of death's scythe, as it were, straightens him out, gives him a talking-to, hands him a little money, persuades Hardin's wife to take him back, and makes a man out of a misshapen bit of swamp timber. That part of it's gospel. I got it from Mrs. Hardin. She's dead long since.

"And then Barnes, 'cordin' to Hardin, gets up against it, financin' a crook partner on some notes. He gets a tip there's a wildflower out there in the jungle some crazy gazebos are willing to pay thousands for, and he has no money, you see. Hardin has got a little drug store in St. Louis and he goes the limit to back Barnes. And they both lose out. I just come into part of their lives, you may say, but Hardin and Barnes both sound mighty good to me, though I guess the parrots have said prayers over Barnes's remains for many a day."

Cairns left, jubilant. He knew where Hardin's drug store had been in St. Louis. It was on the corner of the street where Quando spun her web, where he had bought the paper and envelopes that matched up with the autograph-seeker's stationery. And Paxton was Hardin, still on Forsythe's trail, convinced, even as he, Cairns, had been, by the talk of Nami and his fellows in the jungle.

But what had Quando to do with Hardin? Why she had so fiercely defended him, even to putting her own son's neck in jeopardy, Cairns could not conceive any more than he could conceive how Hardin had wrought Forsythe's death.

Meanwhile, like a hound that has once muzzled up the well-laid scent, he rushed along the trail, pausing only to see Claire Carroll for a brief visit and recapitulate his wanderings and his deductions. Rainey he saw not. But Blatchley came to him in New York before he started for St. Louis and begged to accompany him.

"If Forsythe deserved his death, if he committed a crime and it can be proven," he said, "then it gives clear, fair reason for Claire refusing to touch his inheritance, blood money won by treachery. I am a stubborn fool, Cairns, and I think I prejudiced Forsythe, though he gave no reason for it save not liking this homely mug of mine. But the one person in all the world I care for has read my soul and, without hers to march with mine, life means very little.

"I have enough for both, enough for all she wishes. She has told me all that you have said and done, and it means to me a new hope. Let me come with you. I can make the inquiries in St. Louis that you cannot, handicapped with Quando and her brood. More than that, I hold a sympathy for Hardin, poor devil, that I am sure you share, and I want to be his counsel.

"First, the thing must be solved. It is not fit that such a death should go unsolved. Men may not be done away with in such mysterious fashion. It is meet that Forsythe's money should go toward that end. I was sceptical, I admit. Even now I cannot see how the thing was accomplished, but I believe that Claire's instinct, like your own, is finer than mine, and I want to help. May I?"

Cairns gripped his hand.

"I have liked you in spite of prejudice myself, Blatchley," he said. "I believe in Miss Carroll's fine instinct. Aside from this matter of Hardin and Forsythe, I will subscribe to her choice of a man."

So the two set out together.

Blatchley came back to the hotel in St. Louis flushed with success.

"That little, twisted, shrunken Hardin holds the soul of a hero," he said. "More than that, I believe you will be inclined to justify Quando in her fierce defense of him."

"She is still an aboriginal," said Cairns. "Her more or less mystic calling has had an atavistic tendency. She is back four generations to the days of the slave-drives on the Congo or the Cimarron, where her great grandmother was a sorceress. She would give her heart's blood or that of her children where she thought fealty belonged. Tell me about it."

"She had two sons," said Blatchley, settling himself with a pipe. "One, Slim Sam, you have encountered. Humpy you have yet to hear of. The poor crookback was the apple of her eye. I have learned nothing really vicious of the lad save that the ignorant negroes used him as a mascot for their luck and encouraged him to hang around their gambling haunts, where they could rub his hump. The only money he ever saw came to him that way, flung to him when the gamblers won. Other times he got kicked and cuffed. But he was no beauty, as you may guess, and the police had their eye on him as a dive man and the white children 'round the neighborhood used to scream and run when Humpy, with his high shoulder and his shuffling gait and his harelip, crossed them on their way to school.

"There came a race riot in the city. Some white girl had been more frightened than hurt, I gather, but the cry mounted, a shot was fired, and, fleeing the mob, poor Humpy was hunted down the street. Slim was knocked down, trampled, wounded in his defense, and his mother, who would have made them all quail, I venture, was away.

"So Humpy, brickbattered, breathless, bleeding and mortally afraid, darted into the drug store on the corner, then owned by Hardin. The present owner told me all about it. And Hardin defied the mob. Set the hunchback behind his prescription case and, snatching bottles of acid, held back the crowd until the riot patrol showed up.

"It was proved that Humpy was far from the scene of the incipient riot of the affair, but he never dared show his face in that neighborhood again and Hardin, never too prosperous and always trying to save money to go and seek for Barnes, was tabued. Save for his colored clientele, he could sell nothing. So he sold out cheap and went to British Guiana.

"Do you wonder that Quando would sell her soul to Satan for Hardin?"

"She'll never be bothered by me," said Cairns. "Where is Hardin now?"

"I don't know, but I can make a guess."

"In Scipio?"

Blatchley nodded.

CHAPTER VIII
AT SCIPIO

The real estate of Scipio is an uncertain quantity. Sometimes the town can temporarily boast of so many hundred acres; then the river goes on a rampage and turns much of it into a pestilent breeding place of mosquitoes, where the frogs croak in recurrent victory. Much of it is always swamp, where cypresses grow in the ooze and pines struggle on the ridges; where snakes lurk in the palmetto scrub, half water things, half land reptiles. The men and women and the children are pale and anemic, malaria-stricken, hook-wormed, lacking ambition.

To Scipio came Cairns and Blatchley, seeking Hardin, not in animosity (though Blatchley's search was tinged with a dawning hope as to his final acceptance of Claire Carroll's renunciation of Forsythe's money,) but from a rigorous sense of justice, two men appointed to solve a mystery.

A rickety buggy, drawn by a bony steed, driven by a negro who had waxed fat on catfish where his whiter fellows pined on better food, took them to the ramshackle hotel.

The porch of the forlorn hostelry, the gallery as it was called, though it slanted down to the sticky mud of the main street, was evidently the appointed meeting place of the town. And the loungers, 95 per cent of the population, were assembled there to observe the strangers whose coming had been the cause of universal midnight speculation.

The landlord introduced them to the Sheriff of the county, a slab-sided man with a mustache like the horns of a Texas steer, down drooping to coincide with the spirit of Scipio. But he brightened to the strangers and invited them to have a drink. To the three rounds of awful ginger ale they swallowed he kept pace with slugs of ferocious whisky and "'lowed he'd fooled the malary fo' the mawnin'."

Once more they went out to the decrepit "gallery" and sat on slumping armchairs of wood, scarred by the witless cast knives of the generation. The Sheriff, once imbued with the idea that the strangers wanted official talk with him, shooed away the reluctant multitude to a nonhearing distance.

"Naow we-all can palaver," he said. "Was you-all lookin' for investments? Tax lands, mebbe? Reclaimin' swamps? They's a good chance for that work in Scipio. This mud can grow most ennything if it gets a chance to dry—and stay dry," he added in afterthought.

Cairns, looking at the drenched prospect, did not doubt the statement openly but refuted that reason for their presence.

"We are looking for a man named Hardin," he said.

The Sheriff was shocked out of his good-natured lounginess. As he sat up in his chair a figure caught his eye squatting by the far rail of the veranda like a great toad.

"You Humpy, git!" he cried.

Even as Cairns and Blatchley exchanged glances the misshapen lump of humanity sprang up and fled with incredible speed before the Sheriff's command and accusing eye. The figure was a hideous travesty on humanity, one-sided, legged like a stool, for all its swift shuffling through the mud. A great head lolled on the wide uneven shoulders and a harelip distorted the black face. Humpy ran at an angle tangent to the gallery and his eyes leered at the group with a weird intensity as he scuttled off.

"Allus listenin'," said the Sheriff. "He'll tell Hardin we-all or you-all are lookin' for him. He's Hardin's cook, when he has anything to cook. I 'low Humpy catches mos' of his grub an' steals the rest. He's Hardin's dish-washer, if they have enny dishes, makes up what Hardin calls his bed, does all the chores, earns Hardin's 'baccy by runnin' errands, an' generally worships Hardin an' the Butterfly Flower."

"The Butterfly Flower?"

"Yep. It's a long yahn, an' a dry one. Shall we moisten?"

Once more they endured the nauseous, soapy ginger ale while the Sheriff gulped down without apparent effect his meed of whisky. Then they repaired again to the chairs.

"This Hardin is crazy," prefaced the Sheriff. "Not thet he's wuthless, by a long shot. He was bo'n heah. Was a druggist up ta'ther no'th an' has traveled. He has no liceense, but we don't botheh him none. We ain't no regiar deoter jest now, an' Hardin certainly knows swamp fever. Plucky, too. Sucked moccasin-pisen from the landlo'd's kid a while back. He doa' git paid much. Scipio bein kind of shy on ready cash until the levee's fixed.

"This Humpy came down from no'th with him a spell ago. Hardin had wrought Forsythe's death.

Meanwhile, like a hound that has once muzzled up the well-laid scent, he rushed along the trail, pausing only to see Claire Carroll for a brief visit and recapitulate his wanderings and his deductions. Say, it's shuah a queer thing, looks like a red butterfly when it's in bloom, an' it's shuah Humpy's god—Hardin's too, I reckon. Though you can't make much of his talk. There ain't enough of it. An' w'en I say the Butterfly Flower is Humpy's religion, Hardin comes first and fo'most. There's bin some talk of Hardin havin' saved the life of the pore squat sometime or other, an' Humpy suah worships him. He'll tip off to him that we-all are comin' out."

"That shouldn't make so much difference, should it?" asked Blatchley. "Hardin doesn't necessarily know what we are after. He's not liable to skip out, is he?"

"If he has done this thing we suspect him of," said Cairns. "If he has got the death of Forsythe on his mind, whether he considers himself guilty or not under the circumstances he will be on the lookout for any strangers. By this time Quando will have got word to him and she may have sent my description. I think we had better be getting out after Hardin."

He turned to the Sheriff, who was looking somewhat blank, and both he and Blatchley showed their credentials, and then Cairns told as much of the story as they deemed wise, for they would have to work through the law and its local representative. The Sheriff gnawed off a fresh quid and chewed on it for a few minutes in contemplative silence.

BOND SNARL HALTS TRIAL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WAUKEGAN (Ill.) May 2.—Gov. Small's trial on charges of conspiring with Lieut.-Gov. Fred E. Sterling and Vernon Curtis, Grants Park banker, to embezzle State funds, halted today, while the Governor signed his name to 2000 $1000 road bonds. The jury played baseball and went fishing and judge and lawyers played golf.

At a short morning session the defense completed a tentative panel to fill the jury box, but the State charged three of the four prospective jurors and at adjournment had seated two to replace them and was still trying to get the third.

The lawyers for State and defense are still hopeful that the jury may be completed tomorrow and the actual trial started Thursday.

BIG GUNS ROAR AS FOG CLEARS

Pacific Fleet Indulges in Target Practice

Squadron Maneuvers Fifty Miles at Sea

Destroyers and Seaplanes Play Part

Hazy weather, which prevented the eleven big dreadnaughts of the Pacific battle force from launching their week's program of squadron maneuvers and battle practice Monday, cleared at noon yesterday and all three battle divisions of the fighting force put to sea shortly after noon for their first day's practice.

Steaming straight out to sea for a distance of fifty miles, the big ships began maneuvering in battle formation shortly after 4 o'clock and target practice under battle conditions, with from three to four ships firing at one time, began soon thereafter.

PLANES PLAY PART

Destroyers and De Haviland planes worked with the fleet in spotting targets and reporting hits back to the ships via radio. The destroyer force will play a big part during the week's practice in fleet maneuvers and as auxiliaries to the big fighting ships.

The dreadnaughts Arizona and Nevada, the former scheduled to sail Friday for Puget Sound navy yard for overhaul and the latter destined to leave on the same day for Norfolk, Va., for new guns, will be among the first of the ships of the fleet to complete squadron gunnery work and torpedo defense practice, in order that their sailing schedules may not be interfered with, fleet officers said yesterday.

UNDERGO REPAIRS

Next week several of the nine remaining ships of the fleet will ride at their anchorage along Mine-o'-War Row at Los Angeles Harbor, undergoing machinery upkeep and gun drills. One of the divisions will undertake torpedo firing practice during the week. The following week the same program will be carried out, another of the three divisions going in for torpedo firing, and during the week after that the third and last division will complete its torpedo practice. During these two weeks the other divisions will undergo machinery upkeep and the crews will be put through gun drills.

The big battleships, less the Arizona and Nevada, will remain intact at its local base until early in June, when the New Mexico is scheduled to go to Puget Sound for machinery overhaul. The Arizona is scheduled to leave Puget Sound for the local base June 14.

More Harbor Bonds Will be Sold Tuesday

Sealed bids for $1,600,000 harbor improvement bonds will be opened at the meeting of the City Council at 10:30 a.m. next Tuesday. The bonds are to bear not exceeding 4½ per cent interest. The Council yesterday adopted the formal order asking for bids. This is the second $1,600,000 block of the $4,500,000 issue of bonds for harbor improvement work authorized by the voters last June. With the proceeds from the sale of the first one-third of the bonds, the Board of Harbor Commissioners has constructed new docks and terminals and carried through other construction work at the port, and the second block of bonds is now to be sold in order to continue the carrying out of the improvement program.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off all the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—[Advertisement.

PORT NOTES

Announcement was made yesterday by local representatives of the French Line that, beginning July 1, the company's steamers will eliminate all calls at Central American ports. This policy will be adopted in order to expedite the direct service between French ports and ports of the Pacific Coast, it was explained. With the change, American ports of call eliminated the line will maintain a thirty-day service between Bordeaux and Los Angeles Harbor, thirty-five days from Le Havre, forty days to Antwerp, and forty-five days to Hamburg. In January of next year, when shipments decrease, the fifty-day service will again be resumed, it was said.

Word was received in local shipping circles yesterday that the new United American Line motorship Californian, due to sail from New York this week, will be unable to depart until about the 18th inst. Delays in construction work is responsible for the vessel to sail on schedule time on her maiden voyage to this port from the Atlantic. The Californian is of 11,500 deadweight tons and her cargoes will be handled locally by the Williams Dimond Company, agents.

In spite of a two-day battering by high seas off Malita, Ecuador, the General Steamship Corporation steamer Deridaw, which ran aground several days ago, is unimaged, according to cable advices reaching local marine men yesterday. The Deridaw sailed from the local port for Valparaiso March 28 with a general cargo. The vessel will proceed to her destination, unload her cargo and return to this port early in June.

The Standard Oil tanker Capt. A. F. Lucas arrived in port yesterday from the Columbia River, where she took on a cargo of gasoline. The tanker is now loading for Seattle and will sail for that port this morning.

The government tug Tavernalia, which arrived at this port Saturday night with the disabled steamer Wildpool in tow, sailed yesterday for her station at Balboa, Canal Zone. The Wildpool, whose engines her cargo above, was towed out for San Francisco yesterday by the tug Sea Salon. She will be placed in dry dock for repairs at the Bay City.

The Union Oil Company has established what is said to be the largest pipe storage plant in Southern California at the Outer Harbor. Specially constructed racks and an office have been built by the company on one of the docks of the Outer Harbor Wharf and Dock Company and preparations are being made for the storage of 15,000 tons of iron pipe. The Isthmian Line steamer Steel Worker is now unloading the first cargo of this huge shipment of pipe from Baltimore and other vessels of the same line will arrive here at intervals during the next few weeks with the remainder of the shipment. The first consignment consisted of 1600 tons of the pipe. The Union Oil Company, it is said, will use the storage plant as a supply station for all Union Oil Company activities through out Southern California.

The $40 and the S-39, two of Uncle Sam's newest and largest submarines, sailed from the local port yesterday for New London, Ct., via the Panama Canal. They will be stationed at the navy's largest submarine station at New London and will become units of the S type submarine division there. Both vessels were manned by officers and men from the local submarine base. Lieut. J. W. Chambers, formerly in command of the S-4, which sank in Los Angeles Harbor September 20 last, with the loss of the lives of two of her crew, left as navigating officer on the S-39.

DOG POISONER BUSY

Strychnine on Figs Reported Found by Residents

A dog poisoner, who kills pet dogs and cats by feeding them strychnine on figs or injecting the deadly drug with a hypodermic needle, has aroused considerable anger among residents on East Avenue 66, who yesterday requested aid of the Lincoln Heights police.

Detectives Seiger and Lofthouse and Patrolman C. H. Cleaves are searching for the mysterious poison-monger. Mrs. W. A. Nelson, 218 East Avenue 66, reported that her valuable dog had died from strychnine poisoning. A veterinarian reported that a hypodermic needle was used. Poisoned figs were discovered in Mrs. A. Rustron's yard, 214 East Avenue 66. Other persons reported finding poisoned figs on their premises.

LAW TO AID SHIPS URGED BY BARRETT

Subsidy Act Declared to be Necessary to Keep American Flag on Seas

An emergency situation, involving the whole question of American commerce on the high seas, confronts the people of the United States, yesterday declared John Barrett, former director-general of the Pan-American Union, in an address before members of the foreign trade committee of the Chamber of Commerce asking for support of the Subsidy Act, presented by the Shipping Board. In part, Mr. Barrett said:

"Today vessels flying the American flag, are, as a result of the large number of vessels built during the war period, frequenting the ports of the United States and all the world as never before.

"However, there is a grave danger that in another five or ten years the port of Los Angeles, as well as the ports of the Atlantic and Gulf coast, may witness a change which will be almost a catastrophe. That will be the gradual and even final disappearance of the American flag from our new merchant marine. Unless Congress shall in the near future pass the Subsidy Act, it will be absolutely impossible to maintain a large fleet of American merchant vessels flying the American flag upon the high seas in competition with those of Japan, Great Britain, France, Spain, Italy and Germany.

"Without passage of this Subsidy Act not one big American ship can operate between Los Angeles and the Orient, on the one hand, and Latin-America on the other, in successful and permanent competition with Japan unless our old shipping laws shall be otherwise fundamentally and unfortunately changed and high-paid United States labor supplanted by lower-paid Asiatic labor. Why then should either labor or capital oppose this new subsidy proposition, which affords the fullest protection possible to the government, to taxpayers, and to both capital and labor employed?

"The situation is so serious and so vital to the future, not only of every port and of every manufacturing, exporting and importing interest of the United States, but particularly to this Pacific Coast that there should be the fullest co-operation of the Coast in favoring the passage of this important measure now before Congress."

NEW SHIP COMPANY IS ORGANIZED

Los Vecinos, Limited, to Operate Two Steamers in Latin-American Trade

Announcement was made yesterday of the formation of the Los Vecinos Company, Ltd., to operate passenger and freight ships between Los Angeles and Mexican and Central American ports. The concern has been incorporated in California as a common law trust with a capitalization of $5,000,000.

John C. Allen, organizer of the company, and its president and general manager, announced yesterday that on his recent tour of Mexico and Central America 800 Latin-American business men and planters had subscribed to the stock, which also will be put on the market here. The project includes industrial development of the West Coast as well as steamship service.

Mr. Allen has had many years' experience in Latin-America. He is head of the Latin-American Trade Bureau, and publishes the Spanish language magazine "Los Vecinos," both concerns having offices in the Chamber of Commerce Building. Joseph McMillian, formerly superintendent of the Pacific Electric Railway, and now manager of the California and Mexico Steamship Company, is the new company's vice-president and assistant general manager. The vice-president and secretary-treasurer is E. W. Widney, the City Prosecutor. Juan Zubiaga, formerly a planter of the Tampico district, and now resident here, is also a vice-president, and will have charge of the Latin-American relations when the company is in operation.

Mr. Allen says the plans call for a service to all ports as far south as Buenaventura, Colombia, and later on into Peru and Chile. Oil-burning boats of about 2500 tons deadweight capacity will be employed, and probably will be built along special lines. The ships will be constructed so that the shallowest harbors on the coast may be entered, and with bone-dry holds for the accommodation of coffee and other perishable products. The service will be initiated with two ships.

Freight Service to be Extended by Ship Firm

An extension of the Pacific Steamship Company's coastwise freight business, with service extending from Balboa in the Canal Zone, to Cape Nome, Alaska, is announced by A. F. Haines, general manager of the company, following the purchase of four steel freight carriers on the Atlantic Coast.

The vessels, the Dawnlite, Daylite, Moonlite and Sunlite, according to the plans of the company, are to be reconditioned and converted into motorships with full Diesel engines at an eastern yard and then brought around to this coast for freight service. Working in conjunction with the company's passenger vessels of the Admiral Line, a fast freight service up and down

Grain Market Closes Strong at Top Prices

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, May 2.—Strength in May wheat was the outstanding feature of the grain markets today. At no time was there any great pressure here, Kansas City or Minneapolis. The finish was at the top with a net gain of 2¼ cents here while Minneapolis was up 2¾ cents and Kansas City 2¾ cents. Deferred deliveries while averaging higher, held within narrow limits and finished unchanged to ¼ cent higher. Corn was unchanged to ¼ cent lower; oats ¼ to ½ cent higher and rye ½ to ¾ cent higher.

Buying of May wheat was headed by a cash house which sold July and there was also charging by commission houses. At Minneapolis millers were the best buyers and there were reports of a much improved flour demand from the north. Export sales of May-July differences here widened to 15¾ cents at the last.

Local traders were inclined to keep close to shore in the deferred deliveries. There was little in the general news to induce any great activity, trading on either side. Export demand for near-by winters conditions fairly brisk. Houses with seaboard connections took July against the buyers. Crop reports attract little attention, showing no change from those prevailing of late.

Corner interest held within relatively narrow limits. Selling at and 06 cents for July corn on reading orders checked an early advance and outside trade was not sufficiently large to absorb the offerings. Cash houses bought May corn and oats and sold the July. Shipping demand was only fair. Receipts, 202 cars corn and 72 cars oats, with sample values about unchanged as compared with the May. Country offerings of corn to arrive were small despite the recent upturn in prices as farmers are busy with field work and cannot get time to haul.

Trade in the rye mainly of a local character and the range of prices the smallest in some time. Export demand was in evidence at the seaboard but sales were not large.

VIGOROUS ADVANCE IN COTTON MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, May 2.—Prices advanced vigorously in today's cotton market and gains of from ½ to ¾ cent a pound were scored. There was heavy buying from Wall-street interests, room shorts and the trade. That the public was interested on the bull side was evident, many operators who had recently been active in stocks and grain entering the cotton market for the first time in months. The list reached a level 50 to 65 points above the previous close before a slight seldseason reaction occurred. Immediately following the noon-taking prices receded up a level of 50 to 81 points net gain. In the last hour the market was stronger than in many months, an acute scarcity of contracts led to an advance of more than 100 points in May which touched 19.70 cents, compared with 18.09 cents last night. Other options rose 66 to 84 points. The close was a few points under the top, 63 to 91 points net higher.

Spot cotton steady, 95 points advance, 19.90 cents for middling upland.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 18.50c, 75 points advance; New Orleans, 17.85c, 75 points advance; Savannah, 18.25c, 88 points advance; Augusta, 17.25c, 88 points advance; Memphis, 18c, 50 points advance; Houston, 18.55c, 75 points advance; Little Rock, 18c, 75 points advance.

Gigantic Development Plan Announced by First National Group; Sixteen Banks Merged

Consummation of a most impressive development plan was announced yesterday from the office of Henry M. Robinson, president of the First National Bank, and the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank as a result of which an elaborate and far-reaching system of branch banks in thriving Southern California cities becomes a part and parcel of the Los Angeles group, and greatly extends the foundations for one of the most powerful financial institutions in the country.

The banks immediately listed to come within the purview of the new organization are the Bank of Santa Maria, Commercial Trust and Savings Bank of Santa Barbara, Fidelity Trust and Savings Bank of Fresno, First National Bank of Hollywood, Hollywood Savings Bank, Alhambra Savings and Commercial Bank, First National Bank of Redlands, Redlands Savings Bank, National Bank of Tulare, Savings Bank of Tulare, First National Bank of Visalia, Producers Savings Bank of Visalia, First National Bank of Oxnard, Oxnard Savings Bank, City National Bank of Long Beach, Lindsay National Bank.

The whole story is best told by Mr. Robinson and forms what is perhaps the most interesting financial accomplishment in the history of Los Angeles banking.

PLAN OF OPERATION

"During the last two years," says the president, "a thorough study has been made of general conditions prevailing in Southern California. As a result of this study and survey the boards of directors of the First National Bank and the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank have authorized a plan for the carrying on of branch banking within this area, and which has received the unanimous approval of both boards, the executive officers and more than 70 per cent of the stockholders of the two banks.

"Branches outside of the city can only be established under the State law. In order, therefore, to take over the banks (which it is contemplated will become part of this system, and which are now operating successfully within the area,) certain adjustments are necessary to clearly set forth the stockholders' ownership in the enlarged institutions.

"We are providing a form of security which will evidence for stockholders their common ownership in their three institutions, viz.: The First National Bank, the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank (the State bank,) and the First Securities Company. It is in the form of a beneficial certificate with a determinable book value. The stock of the three institutions will be deposited with a corporate trustee. The trustee will issue to each stockholder a beneficial certificate certifying that he is the owner of a certain number of shares in the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank (the State bank.) The beneficial certificate will also recite that he is owner in common with all other certificate holders of a proportionate interest in the capital stock of the First National Bank of Los Angeles and the First Securities Company. These certificates will thus represent at all times the interest of the stockholders severally in the three institutions, irrespective of any changes in the capital stock of any one of them.

"Certificate holders will retain the same control of their institutions that they would as stockholders, and the trustee must vote the stock in accordance with the direction of the certificate holders.

COMBINED ASSETS

"Based on the statements of the three institutions as at March 10, 1922, the date of the last call of the Comptroller of the Currency, the combined capital assets of the three institutions were as follows:

First National Bank—
Capital stock	$5,000,000.00
Surplus	2,000,000.00
Undivided profits	2,500,000.07	$7,500,000.07
L. A. Trust & Savings Bank—
Capital stock	$500,000.00
Surplus	500,000.00
Undivided profits	471,830.69	1,471,830.69
First Securities Company—
Capital stock	$5,000.00
Undivided profits	95,000.00	100,000.00
Combined capital assets, March 10, 1922		$13,043,830.07

"On the basis of the issued shares of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank outstanding at that time, to-wit: Thirty-five thousand shares, which corresponds to the $5,000 outstanding shares of First National Bank stock, the book value per share was approximately $395.

STOCK DIVIDEND

"Through a declaration of stock and cash dividends it is proposed to readjust the figures shown in the preceding paragraph, in order that the book value of the beneficial certificates (specifying one share of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank) may be exactly $300. The State Bank will declare a stock dividend of 7000 shares, which will make a total of 42,000 shares outstanding on the consummation of the proposed readjustment. The cash dividends to be made by the two banks will be applied substantially as follows:

To increase the capital stock of the First Securities Company	$ 440,000.00
To take over from the First Securities Company, for account of the present shareholders, the bank stocks acquired by it to date	1,000,000.00
(Beneficial certificates received by the First Securities Company in exchange for above stocks will be distributed to the present shareholders.)
To acquire beneficial certificates representing 167 shares for distribution to present shareholders as in No. 2; for the purpose of the bank acquired by the First Securities Company, viz., balance to be distributed in cash to present shareholders	243,000.00
Total	$1,683,000.00

"The combined capital assets of the three institutions, therefore, after the consummation of the proposed readjustment, but before taking in any new banks, will stand as follows:

First National Bank	$ 7,500,000.07
L. A. Trust & Savings Bank	1,940,000.00
First Securities Company	500,000.00
Combined capital assets resulting	$13,000,000.00

"Dividing combined capital assets of $13,000,000 by 42,000, the then outstanding shares of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, show a book value for the beneficial certificates of exactly $300. There will be a small cash dividend declared to the stockholders, the exact amount of which cannot be fixed until the earnings for the quarter ending July 1 are determined and adjustments with the First Securities Company are made. This cash dividend will be paid in order that the combined assets as of July 1 may be exactly $12,600,000.

CAPITAL STOCK INCREASE

"In the acquiring of the other banks now under contract there will be an additional increase in the capital stock of the State Bank and this stock will be issued and deposited with the trustee at not less than $300 per share, and beneficial certificates based on such increased stock will be issued to the owners of the banks to be acquired. The initial increase authorized for such purposes is 25,000 shares, with a provision for further increase of 25,000 shares upon consent of two-thirds in interest of the certificate holders. It will take approximately 20,000 shares at $300 per share to acquire the banks whose shares are now under contract, so that when the outlying banks have been taken in, the combined capital assets of the three institutions will then be increased by approximately $6,000,000, all of which increase will appear in the assets of the State Bank.

"The effect of the above changes on the individual shareholders will be as follows: Through the increase of stock in the State Bank and the acquiring from the First Securities Company of beneficial certificates obtained by it in exchange for its holdings in banks to be taken over by the State Bank, and through the application of part of the cash dividends declared, the trustees will be in a position to deliver to the holder of, say ten shares of the present stock of the First National Bank, a beneficial certificate specifying thirteen shares of the State Bank and a proportionate interest in the stock of the First National Bank and the First Securities Company. In addition, the present stockholders will receive a cash dividend, estimated at something over $6 a share."

MARKET PROFESSIONAL

Public Interest Lessens but Prices Advance; Cotton; Exchange; Foreign Trade.

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, May 2.—Signs of diminished interest in the stock market were visible enough today. Although prices were generally higher the advances of a point or more were scattered, spasmodic and plainly a consequence of professional activities. The bond market was also strong with a couple of foreign loans going into new high ground; but the distinctly more interesting movement of the day was in the foreign exchange and cotton markets.

The cotton market, like the wheat market of February, has this week moved under the double influence of at least temporarily adverse weather conditions surrounding the new crop and of sudden realization that the trade had been forgetting some essential facts in the old crop's supply and demand position. It was Monday's government estimate on world consumption and carry-over which awoke the market to these facts, which it might have known before and the result was today's violent advance, carrying cotton prices 86 to $7 a bale above last week's close. The New York spot price this afternoon reached 19.90 cents a pound, the highest since the 8th of last October, and only five-eighths of a cent under last fall's high mark. It has been as low as 16.45 this year.

In sterling exchange today's movement though neither as sudden nor as violent as the rise in cotton prices, was, in its way, equally impressive. The high rate of $4.43¼, at which the market closed, represented only half a cent rise over Monday, but it marked a valuation not reached since the day, March 1, when it went to the season's high point of $4.44¾. This upward movement may have reflected London's feeling over the later course of events at Genoa (the other exchanges did not move with sterling,) or it may in some way have resulted from the mood inspired by the British Finance Minister's budget speech. It is not altogether clear, however, in what way reduction of a shilling in the pound on the income tax should affect international exchange and Sir Robert Horne also declared plainly that the government "would meet without question" the interest on its debt to our treasury. On general principles, this should mean large sales of drafts on London during the next few months. Yet it will not have been forgotten that when an exactly similar incident occurred at this time in 1920 in the Chancellor's pledge to Parliament of cash redemption of the Anglo-French loan, and when inferences adverse to the sterling market were drawn accordingly, the rate forthwith rose above the four-dollar mark for the first time since the war.

Two interesting sidelights on the economic drift of things during April were contributed today. One was the Dun's Review average of commodity prices, which showed for the last month the largest increase of any month since October; the average on May 1 being, except for the March 1 figure, the highest since April, 1921. Accepting this index number as the measure, it will be found on comparison that the general average of prices is 5 per cent above the low level of the recent reaction reached July 1, last year; 36 per cent below the period's high level reached May 1, 1920, and 39 per cent above the average of Aug. 1, 1914.

The other statement was the Commerce Department's report on our foreign trade in March by countries of origin or destination. In this the matter of particular interest was our trade with Europe. Exports to that continent in March were the largest of any month since October; our imports from Europe the largest since September, 1920. But the ratio of increase in the exports is the greater, so that the March surplus of exports over imports, $94,000,000, exceeds substantially that of any of the four preceding months. This has some bearing on the foreign-exchange situation even though the export surplus is smaller by $28,000,000 than in March of 1921, and by $246,000,000 than in March, 1920. In the month's trade with England, France and Germany our export surplus increased over February. With Italy it decreased, being, in fact, smaller than in the corresponding month before the war.

BUSINESS NEWS

California Oil Prices Stabilized; New Union Oil Issue Moves Quickly.

The most engrossing topic in the California oil industry today is the probable course of crude oil and gasoline prices in the immediate future. The guesses made are many and varied, but the one most often heard is that prices are due to hold firm at their present level to the end of summer. As to what will happen after then, opinions differ.

The chief drawback to an increase in price is the great surplus of oil stored in this State, which has been increasing month after month without a setback. On the other hand, the increased automobile consumption of gasoline that comes with the summer months should serve as a check to any downward price movement. These two factors appear to have offset each other for the time being, and have left California prices in a fairly well-stabilized condition.

Statistics show that the constantly increasing surplus has been almost as much due to underconsumption as overproduction, and with the approach of summer and the general industrial revival this depressing element stands a good chance of being obviated. Average daily shipments during March amounted to only 284,945 barrels, compared to a daily average of 310,941 during the prosperous year of 1920. It is partly due to this cause that stocks have accumulated to the point where they are now 80 per cent larger than they were a year ago. A return to normal consumption should serve to cut down this surplus rapidly, oil men say.

Perhaps the most promising element in the whole situation from the oil man's standpoint is the willingness of the Standard Oil Company, which is the ultimate arbiter of oil prices in this State, to buy all of the oil that is offered. This evident conviction, backed up by cash, expressed by the largest petroleum marketing company in the world, that the present excess of production over consumption is merely temporary is very cheering to the oil operator. The faith of the Standard Oil directors in the future demand for oil and in the fact that all the oil in sight may soon be needed to meet the demands of reviving business, appears to be unshaken.

The strength of the oil stocks in the New York market lately is taken also by the oil interests to be an indication of the rapid recovery being made in their industry. The activity of the great oil companies in exploring new fields and in further development has continued almost unabated and the confidence displayed by these large concerns has served to stiffen the morale of the whole industry.

MUNICIPAL SALES

More new municipal issues are coming out as the realization spreads among officials of the various borrowing communities that the time is now ripe for the flotation of their long-term obligations at the most advantageous interest rates. This week the flood of new offerings from California municipalities has been particularly heavy and the purchasing departments of the local bond houses have been working overtime bidding them in.

Santa Ana was this week's heaviest borrower, floating two long-term, 5 per cent issues to finance the construction of a new sewage system. A $149,000 issue, due from 1923 to 1957 was bought by Stephens & Co., for a premium of $3679.50, or a yield basis of 4.51 per cent. The same house bought a $172,000 issue, due from 1923 to 1954, for a premium of $9437.66, or a yield basis of 4.42 per cent. Several other local houses joined in the bidding.

Mitchum Tully & Co., of San Francisco, was the successful bidder at the sale of $377,000 Stockton School District 5 per cent bonds, offering a premium of $14.-677. An issue of $120,000 Los Gatos School District 5 per cent bonds was bought in by the First National Bank of Los Gatos for $6061.

Visalia School District sold $110,000 of its 5½ per cent bonds to Blyth, Witter & Co., for $11.-823. A joint bid of $10,893 premium offered by Bond & Goodwin & Tucker, and the Mercantile Trust Company of San Francisco bought $90,000 Dinuba School District 5½ per cent bonds. The First National Bank of Porterville bought $30,000 Porterville School District 5½ per cent bonds for $9800 premium.

UNION OIL BONDS

Heavy oversubscription and rapid enchancement in value were the first day's market history of the new Union Oil twenty-year noncallable 6 per cent bonds. The books for the new $10,000,000 issue were opened at 9 a.m. yesterday and were closed within a few hours by the selling syndicates which included the William R. Staats Company, Blair & Co., Bond & Goodwin & Tucker, the First Securities Company and Dillon, Read & Co. A large percentage of the bonds went into the hands of Southern California holders, the issue being oversubscribed $7,000,000 in this district alone. The bonds met with an active demand in the East and closed at 102 bid in informal trading on the New York Curb, according to a message received over Blair & Co.'s private wire.

NEW BOND MANAGER

Harold B. Cutler of the bond department of the Security Trust and Savings Bank was yesterday appointed manager of the bond department at the Guaranty office of the Security. The new manager is a member of the California bar, and is said to bring a wide knowledge of the business and a discerning outlook to his new duties. He has been in Los Angeles two years, and is familiar with local conditions. Before that he was attorney and trust officer of the Capital Trust and Savings Bank of St. Paul, Minn.

EDISON DIVIDEND

The regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent has been authorized by the Southern California Edison Company on its common stock of record April 30, payable on May 15.

THE COUNTRY OVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) May 2. — There is general quiet prevailing in the flour milling industry of the Northwest, according to millers. The oriental demand has been shut off to a large extent by the advance in wheat prices. This advance has made it possible for Australian flour to compete in the Orient with the American product. The prices of Australian flour run from 50 to 75 cents a barrel or $5 to $8 a ton cheaper than American brands.

Even the reduction in trans-Pacific freight rates on flour from $7 to $4 a ton has not sufficed to relieve the situation. Domestic demand is improving, but about 75 per cent of the Pacific Coast flour mills have suspended or curtailed operations.

Importations of plate glass and window glass from Belgium are reported by dealers to be the heaviest ever known. Sales by dealers have been better in April than in March or at the same time last year. The glass is brought to Pacific Northwest ports by way of the Panama Canal.

The wholesale grocery trade is improving steadily with collections fair.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) May 2.—Spring still is playing hide-and-seek with this section. Cold and rainy days have outnumbered the balmy days which stimulate retail trade and the effect has been felt keenly by dealers in wearing apparel. Merchants are afraid there will be a plunge from late winter into an early summer which will eliminate a certain part of the regular spring trade. Wholesalers also are suffering to some extent as retailers have been buying cautiously and only for immediate needs.

Wholesale grocers in this district say they have completed the process of deflation and are on a normal basis with the exception of operating costs, which they assert still are too high.

Reports of the Kansas State agricultural officials show that the winter wheat crop of that State was hit harder by the winter drought than was expected. The condition is given as 73.9, the next to the lowest figure ever reported for April.

CLEVELAND (O.) May 2.—Increased demand for iron and steel, together with a slight curtailment of production resulting from the coal strike is sending prices for steel products materially higher. At present the open-hearth furnaces of the Mahoning Valley are working at 33 per cent capacity, while sheet mills have attained an output of 34 per cent. Prices for scrap were advanced 25 cents a ton to $14 and $14.25. One interest has advanced sheets $7 a ton and has named $2.25 Pittsburg as the price for plates, which is regarded as a withdrawal from the market.

Pig iron has risen more than $2 a ton in the last week and the average for fourteen steel products has risen 89 cents a ton. The average now stands at $35.44, an increase of $2.64 in a month and compares with $27.74, the average in April, 1913.

Consistent Earnings Assure Dependable Incomes

THE bonds of the Western States Gas & Electric Co., qualify as sound investments because they are backed by consistent earning power. This feature assures the safety of your principal and the certainty of your income.

For the nine years 1913-1921 the average annual net earnings of this Company were approximately two times the average annual interest charges on its total interest-bearing debt.

But this is no indication that the Company's business stands still. It shows consistent increases year after year. For example, its net earnings have for the past nine years increased successively as follows:

'13	'14	'15	'16	'17	'18	'19	'20	'21
7%	7%	9%	6%	6%	3%	20%	8%	6%

In such a record you can read good management, sound financing and a steadily increasing demand for the products of this Company.

We recommend for your safe investment Western States Gas & Electric Co. First and Unified Mortgage 6% Gold Bonds, Series "A," due 1947, at 96 and accrued interest to yield 6.35%. For full information write, phone or call at our office today.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 2.—The stock market opened today's session with a continuance of the recovery from last week's partial [illegible] frequent periods of hesitation on reduced dealings. Sales of about 1,100,000 shares were almost the smallest of any full session since the early part of April.

Early advances were confined to steels and European oils. The latter were especially strong on overnight cables, which stated that the Royal Dutch Shell trading group had been granted large concessions by the Russian soviet government.

Later denials of these advices from various sources gave the foreign oils and kindred domestic issues a moderate setback. This reaction was neutralized in a measure by fresh buying of equipments, motors, independent steels, coppers and shippings.

Rails again were a negligible factor, their lassitude ascribed to further declines in carloadings and unofficial reports indicating that the Interstate Commerce Commission soon would declare drastic cuts in freight rates. The only transportations to manifest strength were Chesapeake and Ohio and Chicago and Eastern Illinois new stock.

Some of the day's maximum prices were registered in the final hour. Leaders such as Studebaker, Baldwin, Mexican Petroleum and coppers then were brought forward in a drive against the shorts at gains extending from one to almost three points, with Associated Oil the outstanding feature on its sudden rise of seven points.

Eliminating the coal strike, industrial developments were encouraging. Iron founders in the Chicago district announced another advance of $1 for pig iron, production of fabricated materials by leading steel manufacturers rose to 86 per cent of capacity and the smaller independents were reported to be operating on a 65 per cent basis.

An echo of last week's tighter money rates was sounded in the last quarter hour of the stock market, when call loans rose to 5 per cent after having opened and held at 4 per cent with unusually free offerings at the lower quotations.

Sterling or British remittances were the only foreign exchanges immune from irregularity. Demand bills on London resumed their upward trend, but practically the entire continental list eased, the Dutch rate being the one exception.

Mr. William H. Coverdale, President of the Company, has summarized his letter of May 2, 1922, as follows:

HISTORY AND BUSINESS—Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., was organized in 1913 by the consolidation of ten companies, all long-established and successful concerns, including the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company, established in 1847. Through extensions and additions, it has since become the largest Company in the Dominion engaged in inland water transportation of bulk and package freight and passengers.

It owns a fleet of ninety-six steamers having a gross tonnage of about 223,000 tons, and terminals, wharves, docks and warehouses at some fifteen points between the City of Quebec and Fort Williams at the head of the Great Lakes. In addition, the Company owns and operates boiler and engine plants, and shipbuilding and repairing plants, and through a subsidiary towing and wrecking companies and a coal sales company doing a large wholesale fuel and bunkering business.

While the Company's revenues are derived from well-diversified classes of business, including practically the entire Canadian tourist business on the Great Lakes, from which about one-third of its transportation revenue is derived, the most important freight item is grain. The Company moved on the Great Lakes, during the season of 1921, 31% of the total Canadian wheat crop through the Canadian channels.

The Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River together form the world's most important inland waterway which unites, by the oldest and cheapest method of transportation, the grain-producing territory of the west with Trans-Atlantic trade routes, and the Eastern manufacturers with the Western consumer.

EARNINGS—The Company has earned as follows for the period from 1916 to 1921, inclusive, available for interest and after taxes, depreciation and all other charges:

1916 ..... $2,850,000	1919 ..... $2,697,000
1917 ..... $2,577,000	1920 ..... $2,554,000
1918 ..... $2,709,000	1921 ..... $1,417,000

6-year total $14,804,000
6-year average $2,467,000

Annual interest charges on present issue and $5,275,466 Debenture Stock (interchangeable with First Mortgage 5% Bonds) $683,750.

ASSETS—After giving effect to this financing, the balance sheet of February 28th, 1922, shows fixed assets (including net value of investment) of $27,656,262, including $8,388,539, representing real estate, buildings, docks, wharves, shops, tools, etc. This is after depreciation reserve of $6,595,461 and a special reserve of $3,873,595 against ocean tonnage and is substantially below values fixed by the Canadian Appraisal Company in June, 1921. In addition the Company has net quick assets of $2,429,883, making total net assets of $30,086,145 against total 5% Debenture Stock (interchangeable with First Mortgage Bonds) and First Mortgage Collateral Bonds outstanding in the amount of $11,275,466.

SECURITY—This issue will be secured by deposit of $8,400,000 First Mortgage 5% Bonds, due 1943, being 61.42% of a total closed issue of $13,675,466 (the balance being outstanding in the form of Debentures or First Mortgage Bonds, which are interchangeable.) As, however, the face value of the First Mortgage Bonds held as collateral for this issue exceeds the face value of the issue by $2,400,000, or 40%, this issue has to the same extent greater security (through its collateral) than the outstanding First Mortgage Bonds in the hands of the public.

Legal details in connection with this issue are subject to the approval of Messrs. Cotton and Franklin, New York, and Messrs. Brown, Montgomery and McMichael, Montreal. Physical properties and past operations have been reported by Coverdale and Colpitts, New York. Auditors Messrs. Marwick, Mitchell & Co.

Imperial Cotton Mills Adds Five Local Men to Enlarged Board

The board of directors of the Imperial Cotton Mills Company, at a meeting held late yesterday afternoon, completed the reorganization of the board by the addition of William Lacy, president of the Lacy Manufacturing Company; R. B. Hardacre, vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank; J. M. Bandini, vice-president of the Merchants' National Bank; Edward M. Fowler, cotton statistician, and Ashmun Chandler, attorney.

The other members of the board are: F. M. Douglas, president of the Cotton Mills Company; Irving Hellman, president of the California Brewing Company; Benjamin L. Dean, manager of the production; F. L. Williams, director of sales, and Glenn B. Chadwick.

The directory meeting was a feast of optimism, reports of the finance committee, of the production committee and of the sales committee, all indicating that the forces of the mills, in advance of beginning the weaving of cotton textiles for the fall trade to Los Angeles by August or September of the present year, are in a position to operate on economical lines. It was announced that a market is ready and waiting for the product of the mill, and that it will have no difficulty in signing up orders and contracts for a year's product within a few days, but that the business must wait on actual operation of the plant. Reports relative to the plant of the Mathis Brewery, which has been purchased by the Cotton Mills Company, was reported as progressing satisfactorily and the purchase of modern machinery for the manufacture of mediums was reported by the production manager.

The officials authorized the statement that there seems to be no obstacle in the way of the Imperial plans to have the mills in operation by September 1, with a waiting and receptive market for all the denims, ducks, drills and sheetings that the new mill can possibly turn out for the first year or more of its operation.

Don't Envy Beauty! Cultivate It—
Says Mme. Anna Bergeron
Women whom men admire and other women envy always have a good complexion. Striking beauty will lose its charm if the skin becomes dry and lifeless, or harbors blackheads, wrinkles or pimples. Cracked lips, rough hands, blackheads and pimples are nearly always caused by neglect of the skin, or by the use of something that is not agreeing with the skin, for the needs of the skin in the west are very different from the east.
The Key to Beauty toilet preparations are compounded to prevent the bad effect of western out door life and hard water, and positively will not grow hair.
Mme. Bergeron's beauty salon, top floor Haas Bldg., cor. 7th and Broadway, where every blemish that mars the beauty of a good complexion is removed including superfluous hairs, moles and birth marks by electrolysis. Inquiries and mail orders receive prompt and courteous attention. Phone 12937.
Mme. Anna Bergeron, for 25 years a specialist in scientific care of the skin. Her preparations are sold at all the leading stores, proof that she is recognized as one of the West's most efficient beauty experts.

Give Lungs Vapor Bath
Fight Disease Germs With Fumes of "DEO"
Common sense will tell you that fresh air and exercise will do more to strengthen your weak lungs than a shipload of medicine. Oxygen in the air is the great scavenger of Nature—the purifier of the blood—the enemy of disease. Exercise adds strength of the lungs, just as it does to the arms or the legs. Lack of exercise is a source of weakness and decay.
One of the best forms of exercise for lung sufferers is to inhale the fumes of "Deo" for 15 minutes each night and morning. "Deo" is composed entirely of antiseptic, healing oils which vaporize at low temperature and quickly condense in fine particles when drawn into the lungs and air passages.
Gently heat a spoonful of "Deo" in a tin pan or cup and take in deep breaths of the pleasant, soothing vapor. Retain as long as possible and release slowly. In this way your lungs will get proper exercise, thus increasing expansion and permitting oxygen from the air to reach the innermost recesses of the respiratory tract. At the same time an antiseptic film of oil will be deposited over the raw, inflamed membranes where disease germs thrive.
"Deo," better known as Dennis' Eucalyptus Ointment, has been used for more than 30 years for the relief of coughs, colds, inflammation of the respiratory organs and kindred ailments. It contains nothing that can harm you in any way, and it may do you a great deal of good. A trial tube costs but 25c; large jar, 50c, at all druggists. You can have your money back if not benefited. Demand the genuine "Deo," made only by Dennis Mfg. Company, Berkeley, Cal.

MUSIC CLUBS UNITE IN PRAISE OF CLARK

As a token of their appreciation of his generosity to the cause of good music in Los Angeles, seventeen musical organizations joined last Saturday night in presenting W. A. Clark, Jr., with an artistically embossed sheepskin, upon which was set forth the "seventeen opinions," which the founder of the Philharmonic Orchestra has won from all music lovers of the city.

This message said in part: "The entire community has profited by your initiative, and its standards have been raised and stimulated to nobler planes by what you have done for music here.

"Not only have you given freely materially, but in a spiritual sense music circles have been enriched by your high aims. We want you to know how appreciative we are of your endowments, and to express as a body our gratitude for all you have done for the cause of music in this city of your adoption.

The organizations signing the resolution were: Dominant Club, Ebell, Ellis, Friday Morning, Gamut, Hollywood Club, Los Angeles Oratorio Society, Morning Musical, Musicians' Club, Music Teachers' Association, Orpheus Club, Organists' Guild, St. Cecilia Club, Wa Wan Club, Three Arts Club, Woman's Lyric Club and the Woman's Symphony Orchestra.

WILL CONTEST MUST REPEAT FIGHT

Widower Must Repeat Fight for Hughes Estate

Attorney Offers Rough Draft of Void Document

Undue Influence Asserted by Mrs. Doane

Among the late Mrs. Laura S. Hughes' effects was found the rough draft of a will addressed to her by the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, Mrs. Hughes' bequests once more will be the subject of a court battle for her $250,000 estate which was awarded to her by a jury in Judge Crail's court.

Mrs. Doane began her second contest today with the filing of the will in the rough-draft will which has been filed for probate in bank. She asserted undue influence on the part of Bonnie Hughes Ashby, niece and heiress of Oakland; Allie Thompson, Dorothy Thompson, of Oakland; R. W. Thompson, cashier of Los Angeles, Jay Hughes, cashier of the Los Angeles First and Savings Bank, and Mrs. C. A. Spence of Oakland.

WILL FILED IN OAKLAND

Mrs. Hughes died June 21, 1920, at the home of Miss Bonnie Ashby in Oakland. Her estate, valued at $250,000, consists largely of two pieces of real estate located on the northeast and Southwest corners of Fifth street and Broadway.

The will, leaving the estate to the niece and nephews, to the exclusion of the daughter, was dated June 7, 1919, and was filed for probate by them. Mrs. Doane filed objections and the will was denied probate by a jury in Judge Crail's court.

WILL FILED ROUGH DRAFT

The testimony at this trial disclosed that a rough draft of the will had been submitted to Mrs. Doane at the home of her niece. As she was seriously ill she was prevailed upon to sign the rough draft and it was submitted to the bank. They drew up another will, which was signed by her before her death and witnessed by her. It was this will which was thrown out. Recently Mrs. Doane filed the rough draft and asked that it be admitted to probate.

Mrs. Doane, who is represented by attorneys Ford and Bodkin, asserts that the nieces embittered her mother toward her by false reports and failed to notify her of her mother's serious illness.

CLUB OPENS FRIDAY

Mrs. Doane is to be the principal speaker at a public speaking will be held Friday evening, May 5, at a meeting of the Los Angeles Woman's Club, to be held in Music Hall, 233 South Hill street.

DELAY CASE IN EFFORT TO AGREE

Sutherland Estate Suit Against Miss Moore is Continued One Week

In view of a proposed compromise in the case in which Miss Mary Moore is charged with having in her possession cash, bonds and stocks claimed by the estate of Ray L. Sutherland, deceased, valued at $19,000, a continuance was asked and granted for one week by Judge Rives of the Probate Court yesterday.

Miss Moore had testified that Mr. Sutherland had wanted her to take the property and do with it as she pleased. Among other things she said she received an engagement ring from Mr. Sutherland, although at the time Mr. Sutherland had a wife from whom he was separated. Both Miss Moore and her brother, a prominent business man, declared they did not know at first there was a Mrs. Sutherland. The brother has charge of the property in the interest of his sister, it is asserted.

Matters were expected to come to a sensational head yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Gertrude Sutherland, the widow, came to court prepared to be a witness. She had charged in her cross-complaint to her husband's divorce action that Miss Moore came to her home and posed as Ann Harrington for the purpose of spying on her. She also charged that there was a conspiracy on the part of her husband to compromise her. This was denied by the parties in the case.

When Mrs. Sutherland saw Miss Moore in court she greeted her: "Hello, Ann Harrington."

Miss Moore turned the thrust aside with a pleasant remark.

"My husband was worth $70,000," declared Mrs. Sutherland. "When he died, I got nothing."

HEIRESS ARRESTED ON THEFT CHARGE

ACCUSED OF STEALING THREE DRESSES FROM STORE; BAIL GIVEN

Accused of stealing three dresses, valued at $227.50, from a local department store, Della Quien, said to be one of several heirs of the Ballerino estate, was held to answer yesterday by Justice Baird.

It is charged by Deputy Dist.-Atty. Costello that the young woman was watched in the store as she is said to have secreted a dress in a handbag, and later was arrested outside, when three dresses were found in her possession. She was released on bail.

PITY THE POOR OL' BOOTLEGGER

He Has No Blankets in Jail 'n He Gets Cold

Orange County Sheriff is Asking for Help

Wants Government to Get Some More Cover

An appeal was made yesterday to U. S. Atty. Burke from the Sheriff of Orange county asking that some arrangements be entered into whereby the government might furnish blankets for bootleggers who have been sent to the Santa Ana jail by the local Federal courts.

The supply of fifty-three blankets has been used up and the prisoners continue to pour in. The matter has been referred to U. S. Marshal Sittel for adjustment.

With the local County Jail so full of bootleggers that their feet stick out of the windows, the local courts have been sending violators of the liquor laws to Santa Ana. But the jail there is full to overflowing and the supply of blankets is not equal to the demand.

Some figures obtained yesterday indicate congestion of the Federal courts through prosecutions for violation of the constitutional amendment and the Volstead law. At the session of U. S. District Judge Bledsoe's court Monday there were 192 cases called for setting, fifty-two for arraignment and plea, and of that number only eight pleaded guilty. That means that 236 liquor cases were called in the various proceedings in a single afternoon.

With the new plan of filing information direct in liquor prosecutions there has been a big reduction in the expense connected with the preliminary hearings of the accused before U. S. Commissioner Long, and the result from that angle has been that the commissioner, who, up to the beginning of the new rule, had a constant stream of examinations, is now almost out of a job. Those who are able to give bond on the informations are not worrying about a hearing before a jury, it seems, but there are many instances where the accused are in jail and would plead guilty if they knew what evidence the government had against them. This could only be had by a preliminary examination before the commissioner. So, while the new arrangement is a good thing for the prosecution from a financial standpoint, it is a burden in many instances on the defendants.

Another feature of the innovation is that it has deprived a score or more of the local police of an opportunity to get extra fees.

500 MORE POLICE TO BE ASKED

Commissioners and Chief Decide to Send Request to City Council

Chief of Police Oaks and Police Commissioners De Coo and De la Monte yesterday announced that they will request that the City Council include in the budget for the fiscal year, beginning July 1, next, an appropriation for 500 additional policemen, and the Chief and the commissioners will personally appeal to the Council to increase the force. The estimate sent to the budget committee by former Chief Everington did not include appropriations for more policemen, and at a conference yesterday the Chief and the commissioners decided to at once revise the former estimate and send a supplementary estimate which will include the request for at least 500 additional men.

Mother of Roof Company's Head Dies Suddenly

Sylvester Weaver, former president of the Chamber of Commerce and head of the Weaver Roof Company, left last night for Seattle to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Jane Laflin Weaver, who died of heart failure in the northern city last Saturday night.

Mr. Weaver did not learn of his mother's death until he entered his office Monday morning, when he found a stack of telegrams under his door.

Mrs. Weaver was 68 years of age and apparently was in the best of health when she was suddenly stricken. With her husband she was a resident of Los Angeles until 1905 when the family moved to Seattle. She leaves her husband, Francis Weaver; her son, a daughter, Miss Edith Weaver; and two sisters, Mrs. Addison Laflin of San Francisco, and Miss Jessica Weaver.

Funeral services will be conducted in Seattle tomorrow.

SEEIN' THINGS

[Why not share your chuckle with others? When you see something unusual, drop a note about it to the City Editor of The Times. Then we all can smile.]

M. D. motored to this advantage yesterday. She learned from a roadside sign, "Goose Eggs for Sale at White House." Musta been leftover from the last administration, M. D.

P. B. W., Pasadena's sharp-eyed son, shocks us with this: "Graduate nurse, excellent cook, specializes in children, wants position." John, put in a call for the Humane Society!

M. E. C. lamped this sign nailed to the wall of a "soft drink parlor" overlooking an open-air parking place: "When full here, park at Laguna Auto Park." We always thought they just flopped in their tracks under such conditions.

E. R. V. clipped this from The Times: "Suit case lost by working girl containing dress and shoes." Fulla jazz, anyhow.

• • •

J. B. B. wonders if this, flanking a flower stand on the Foothill Boulevard, is a quotation or a sign: "Cut Flowers for Sale On Your Way." "Sail on, sail on, and on and on."

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

TREASURER AT VENICE IS MISSING

Trustees Check City Funds Following Disappearance of Municipal Official

Dist.-Atty. Woolwine has ordered an investigation into affairs of the City Treasurer's office in Venice, following the disappearance of James T. Peasgood, who for more than eight years has been in charge of the funds of the municipality. Asst. Dist.-Atty. McClelland has been assigned to the case.

City trustees of Venice last night examined a safety deposit box in the First National Bank in the resort town that has been used by the Treasurer, but refused to make a statement as to the result of their investigation.

Mr. Peasgood, who has been a resident of Venice for many years, and who was a teller in the First National Bank there prior to being chosen City Treasurer, has been missing from his home since Saturday morning when, according to a statement by Mrs. Peasgood, he started for his office at the regular time. Friends of the man insist that he is on a fishing trip in the northern part of the State.

An expert accountant began an investigation of the Treasurer's books last Friday. The investigation, say city officials, was part of a complete check of financial affairs of the municipality to be conducted by order of the new board of trustees.

Pending further action George Nettleship has been appointed to assume the duties of City Treasurer.

ENDS "FAST" LIFE

Suicide's Note Warns of Danger of Dissipation

"Let this be a warning to others. This is the end of a fast life. I am in hopes that others profit by my experience."

Scrawled with a pencil on a rough sheet of writing paper, the above terse note was found early last night beside the body of Henry Irving Denning, aged 26 years, a painter, in his room at 911 South Maple street. The cap of the gas connection on the wall of the room had been unscrewed and the room was saturated with gas fumes.

According to a birth record found by Detective Sergeant Ballestero, who investigated, Denning's mother was formerly Miss Geraldine Warner of New York City. No known relatives live here. Denning scribbled a second note stating he wished Mrs. Ida E. Hasbrook of Modina, N. Y., notified of his death.

HOLLYWOOD "NIGHT LIFE"

Home of Motion Pictures Proves to Be Model City as Shown in Homes of Film Stars

Night life in Hollywood will soon be unveiled to the world at large when a feature motion picture depicting the home life of film celebrities will be released for exhibition in theaters throughout the country.

The production was conceived and is being financed by Mrs. A. B. Maescher, president of the De Luxe Building Company, and perhaps the country's most successful woman contractor. It will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 before it is completed. Instead of depicting "Night Life in Hollywood" as the lurid, sensual Babylon, with its reported debauches of depravity and wickedness as has been so erroneously pictured, Hollywood is shown as a model city, beautiful and attractive, and populated with home-loving people.

VIEWS OF SPONSOR

In speaking of the production she is now sponsoring, Mrs. Maescher, whose interest in Hollywood is a heart interest, said yesterday:

"It is my belief that the material interest in any community is dependable on its reputation. If we wish to see Los Angeles' wonderful growth continue, we must work along the lines of absolute honesty with ourselves, having a constructive program of community enrichment so steadily and enthusiastically followed as to command notice and respect.

"We must realize the stern truth—there is an enemy at the gateway of our erstwhile garden spot of America. Today we are branded as a community of wasters and jazzers around the nation.

REPUTATION CRIPPLED

"Our reputation has been crippled and our old reputation must come back if we expect to enjoy in the future years the wonderful prosperity we have enjoyed in the past. To regain this reputation we shall have to co-operate and work together. If we love Hollywood we must do something more than wait for readjustments.

"In my first picture, 'Night Life in Hollywood,' which was written and is being directed by Fred Caldwell, I hope to present life in this wonderful community as it really exists, and through this picture I hope to make an appeal to the world that will kill for all time the idea so erroneously pictured by many throughout the land of a city of depravity and wickedness and, instead, plant forever the seed of goodness that will grow in the minds of the lovers of pictures in a big, clean idea of things as they are."

Because the De Luxe Building Company, of which she was the founder, has long been the apple of her eye, Mrs. Maescher has named her new film concern the De Luxe Film Company. Among those in the cast of "Night Life in Hollywood" are Miss Josephine Hill, Jack Donnolly, Gale Henry and Frank Glenden.

KISS HE DIDN'T GET COSTS JOB

Board Approves Chief Oaks's Dismissal of Officer on Artist's Charges

Patrolman Walter C. Smith yesterday lost his job, his club, his brass buttons and his shield, and all because of a kiss that he did not get.

The policeman, so the charge filed by Chief Oaks with the Board of Police Commissioners states, went to the studio of Mrs. Silva at 206 South San Pedro street and arranged to have his portrait painted by the artist. When the officer again called, so the charges state, he put his arm around Mrs. Silva and tried to kiss her, but she hurled him to one side. Then, she says, she called her husband, who reported the case to the Chief. The Chief fired the policeman. And the Police Commission said "O.K." to the Chief's action.

SON BORN TO MR. AND MRS. A. A. MICHELITTI

The staff of the Bank of Italy's Los Angeles organization was augmented yesterday, when a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Micheletti of 4203 West Third street at St. Vincent's Hospital.

Mr. Micheletti is assistant manager of the International branch of the Bank of Italy at Temple and North Spring streets.

HOLD TRIO ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Young Men Accused of Strangling and Robbing Woman Face Court Today

Valentine Ratecki, alias Walter Ray, 20 years of age; Adam Blaszyk, alias Adam Ward, 20, and John Shellst, 26, who were arrested in connection with the slaying and robbery of Mrs. N. M. Wheelock, were arraigned late yesterday before Justice Follette on a charge of first-degree murder and their hearing set for today. Mrs. Wheelock was killed Sunday in her rooming house at 620 West Eighth street and jewelry valued at $15,000 was stolen.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. McClellan issued the complaints against the young men at the request of Detective-Sergeant Herman W. Cline. The complaints were issued following the report of the coroner's jury, which found that: "Mrs. Wheelock came to her death through strangulation committed by Walter Ray, Adam Ward and John Shellst while endeavoring to rob the deceased. The jury believes it was a case of wilful murder and recommends that the above named defendants be prosecuted for the same according to law." Coroner Nance and Chief Dep. Coroner W. A. MacDonald conducted the inquest.

Mrs. Wheelock is asserted to have been lured to the men's room to look at a gas meter, and while there was bound, gagged and strangled. Miss Evelyn Schelhouse, 22, sweetheart of Ray, led officers to places where they took the three men into custody. She is being detained as a material witness. Police yesterday recovered several diamonds stolen from Mrs. Wheelock at an East Fifth-street store. Ward is said to have confessed to poisoning the diamonds. Ward and Ray have both confessed, according to Detective-Sergeants Cline, Longuevan and Bean.

Dispatches from Denver yesterday quoted Jesse H. Wheelock, life insurance agent, as stating that he was convinced Mrs. Nancy Wheelock is his former wife, from whom he was divorced twenty-nine years ago. He made this statement when told that Mrs. Wheelock had a cousin named McCreery, which, he said, was his wife's maiden name. He also verified the report that she was born in Iowa. The second wife, Mrs. Emma M. Wheelock, is visiting in Los Angeles at the present time, he said.

FOR VOCATIONAL PROGRAM

To outline the proposed vocational education program before the principals of the high schools of the city, is the purpose of a special meeting called today at 4 p.m., in the Security Building by the Chamber of Commerce and Board of Education. Los Angeles teachers and business men will discuss the policy of the board of directors adopted after conferences with committees from the chamber.

WEDS DESPITE FAMILY'S PLEA

Bride's Father's Strenuous Objections Futile

Secretary of Doctor Marries Her Employer

White-Logan Nuptials Recall Recent Sensation

The hushed whisper of gossip in a country town blared into audibility here yesterday when it became known that Dr. George Starr White, prominent Los Angeles physician, had married Miss Deborah Logan, his secretary, despite strenuous objection on the part of her father, Robert Logan, of Philadelphia.

According to news which reached this city and was confirmed by Dr. White, the wedding took place at Oxnard, April 16. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edgar T. Thorn, a Baptist minister. The bride gave her age as 22 years of age. Dr. White is 55. They are now honeymooning at 827 South Alvarado street, this city.

When asked if he and Miss Logan were married, Dr. White said: "Yes, we have been married for some little time," but declined to make further comment.

FAMILY PROTESTS

From Philadelphia came news to the effect that members of the Logan family "are simply wild" about the marriage. Three months ago, according to reports, Mr. Logan, father of the girl, and president of the American Anti-vivisection Society, came to this city and undertook to persuade his daughter to return with him to Philadelphia. Mr. Logan was reported to have said that Dr. White was exercising hypnotic influence over the young woman to keep her here.

Efforts to persuade her to return to the Quaker City proved futile, and the wedding took place shortly afterward. Mayor Dimmick of Ventura, and E. O. Black, a Ventura grocer, were witnesses at the ceremony.

The wedding is of unusual significance because of the sensational developments which resulted from the death of the first Mrs. White in September, last year.

Mrs. White was ill but a short time, and immediately after her death Alonzo D. Hitchcock, an attorney representing her mother, Mrs. Carrie A. Roseman of Yonkers, N. Y., demanded that an official autopsy be performed to determine the real cause of death.

POST MORTEM HELD

Mrs. Roseman declared that during her daughter's illness Dr. White refused to admit her to the house and was hostile to a physician sent there by her to attend the sick woman. Dr. White asserted that his wife was suffering from tumor of the brain. He had had her examined to determine

Bedtime story.

Entertaining the Pacific Slope with a delightful program of piano and vocal numbers, Homer Grunn, pianist-composer, and Gloria Mayne, soprano, broadcast their selections from The Times radio station last night.

Without coloring his compositions for instants of relaxation, Mr. Grunn went through the concert of his compositions giving every note its full touch. The renditions went over the ether beautifully, said reports from listening posts. His numbers were: "Flute God," "Mysterious Story," "Rain Dance," "Song of the Mesa" and "Springtime Waltz."

Upon his return from Germany, where he studied music and gave concerts, Mr. Grunn engaged with the Chicago Musical College for four years. He spent three years in Arizona, during which period he composed the Zuni Indian Suite and a number of other works based on Indian themes. Mr. Grunn is instrumental in organizing the Brahms Quintet.

Gloria Mayne, soprano, delighted her audience with "Wake up," by Philips; "Chanson Espagnol," by Dellbes; "May Day," by Freebey, and "He, Mr. Piper," by Curran. Her interpretations were heralded by enthusiasts as "full, rich and resonant." She was accompanied by Mr. Grunn at the piano.

Miss Mayne will open the Helen Hunt Jackson memorial festival at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Southwest Museum. She will appear in the title role of the prologue of the Indian pageant play entitled "Recovery of the Lost Song of Peace," by Miss Virginia Calhoun.

Miss Ruth-Ellen Miller, dramatic soprano, through the courtesy of Lillian Martin, thrilled the audience in the noon program, accompanied by Miss Meldon Scheu. Miss Miller rendered "By the Waters of Minnetonka," by Lieurance, with Miss Elsie Manion playing the violin obbligato. Miss Miller also sang "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by DeVork, and "Where My Caravan Has Rested," with Miss Manion playing a violin obbligato.

LESSON 32

By G. C. Farmer

The problem of loud-speaking apparatus confronts the citizen radio enthusiast who wishes to increase the volume of received signals to such an extent that they may be made audible in a hall or a room without each listener being obliged to use a separate receiver. Loud speakers are of little value when used in conjunction with a small set such as the crystal detector variety, or the single audion type. For good results at least an audion detector set and one or two stages of amplification are necessary.

Many types of home-made loud speakers can be constructed. Perhaps the easiest made is that one which utilizes the amplifying chamber of a phonograph cabinet. A Baldwin mica diaphram receiver, which gives a very clear articulation, is attached to the end of the tone arm in place of the usual reproducer. There is a device on the market that aids in making a close connection and very good results are obtained without the use of other instruments.

An old-style wooden phonograph horn anchored to a Baldwin phone will also serve splendidly as a loud talker. Two receivers are, of course, better than one. A good method of using two receivers with one horn is to employ a wax phonograph record of cylindrical form by cutting a hole in its center for the horn to fit in, and clamping the two receivers, one on each end. Felt can be used to advantage in making a secure air-tight chamber.

In case it is desirable to transfer or relay radiophone programs from the receiving station to another building or place, a loud-speaking circuit can be arranged to work in conjunction with the radio receiver. An ordinary microphone is clamped to the Baldwin phone. The leads from the microphone are carried to the desired location where they are connected to a five-ohm loud talker with horn. A six-volt battery is required to operate the low resistance talker. The attached horn, in order to distribute sounds clearly and forceably should be about eighteen or twenty inches in length and about ten inches in diameter at the large end. The talking bowl has lately occasioned some comment because its softness and clearness of reproduction. It can be constructed of wood, of a size about twelve inches in diameter and six inches deep. The inside, after it has been sandpapered very carefully should receive several coats of varnish or shellac, each coat being allowed to dry and afterward rubbed with steel wool or pumice. The last coat should be permitted to remain untouched. Two mica diaphram receivers can be attached to a metal or fiber band across the mouth of the bowl with the caps or openings facing inside. The sound is reflected back in a very satisfying manner.

Loud speakers are very convenient, and when once installed it is hard to go back to ordinary headphones.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. B., Oceanside: Can satisfactory results be obtained from party masts providing each receiver uses separate loops in the aerial? Is there any objection to a long lead from aerial to receiver, say 300 feet or more?

Answer: If the wires on the party masts are parallel and are used individually for different receivers there is liable to be some trouble occasioned from the receivers reacting on each other. Three poles can be utilized to advantage, however, by hanging three separate antennae in the form of a triangle. There is a strong objection to a long lead from an aerial for the reason the lead will act as part of the antenna as far as boosting up the natural period of the antenna is concerned while it will not aid in strengthening incoming signals.

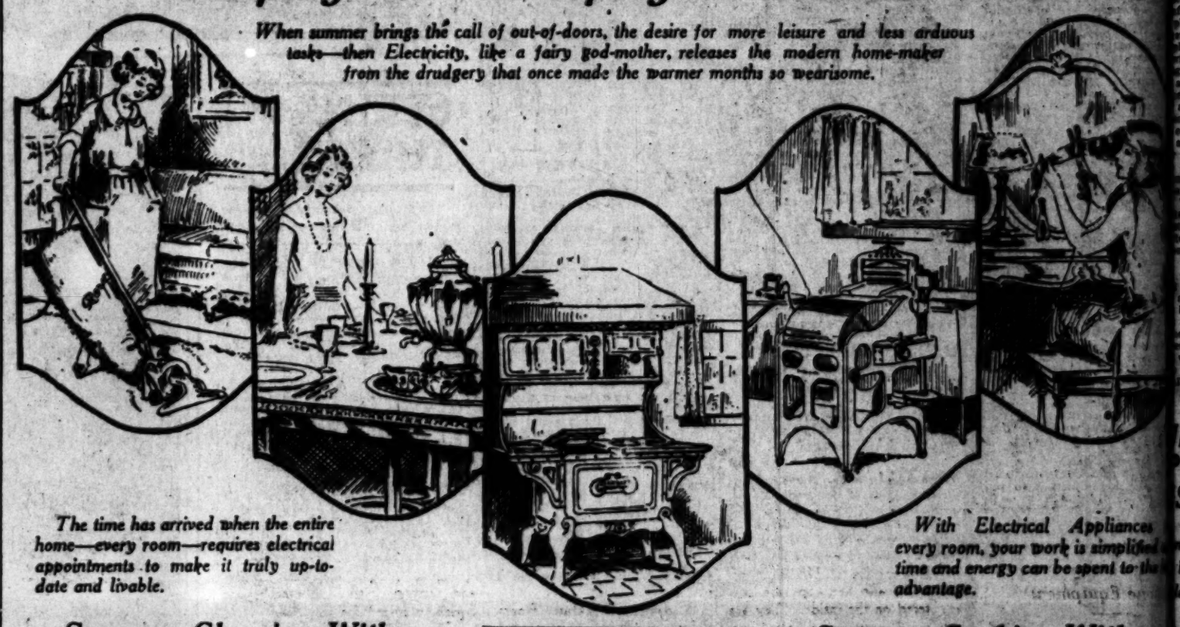
In a Host of Ways—In Every Room

Electrical Appliances

Simplify Home-Keeping in Summer time

When summer brings the call of out-of-doors, the desire for more leisure and less arduous tasks—then Electricity, like a fairy god-mother, releases the modern home-maker from the drudgery that once made the warmer months so wearisome.



The time has arrived when the entire home—every room—requires electrical appointments to make it truly up-to-date and livable.

With Electrical Appliances every room, your work is simplified, time and energy can be spent to the advantage.

Summer Cleaning With a Royal Vacuum Cleaner

No need to tell the modern woman that an Electric Vacuum Cleaner is one of her best year-around friends and that it saves many a fatiguing hour. Particularly during dusty summer days, is this true.

The Royal Electric Suction Cleaner is equally effective for all kinds of rugs, portieres and fabrics generally. It is so light that it can be easily carried anywhere and so thorough that it will remove surface dirt, hair, paper scraps and the like, and embedded dirt that even washing fails to dislodge. The Royal cleans by air alone.

Barker Bros.' "Vacuum Cleaner Headquarters" maintains a complete service department which is at your disposal from the time you purchase your Vacuum Cleaner.

Summer Meals Served Easily With Electric Devices

Daintiness is one of the essential requirements to make summer meals appetizing and this is just one thing to be thankful for when electricity comes into the Dining Room. The convenience and ease it brings are first to be thought of, of course.

Barker Bros. are prepared to equip your dining room completely with the most efficient and attractive Electrical Appliances on the market. Percolators from $10 to $35; Toasters from $5.50 to $8.00; Grills from $10.50 to $15.00; Waffle Irons from $12.50 to $20. These represent the best known makes—Hotpoint, Universal, Westinghouse, and American Beauty.

Electric Boudoir Conveniences Aid Personal Appearance

Milady's summer freshness is an important consideration. She must needs have a perfect marcel once in so often and her Electric Curling Iron sees to that; tired lines are eliminated from her face by her Electric Vibrator; her blouses and frills are kept dainty and crisp with a convenient little Traveling Iron.

For the man, an Electric Immersion Heater dipped into his shaving water of a morning, is the last word of convenience.

We have Curling Irons at $6.50 to $12; Vibrators, $12.50 to $25; Traveling Irons, $6.75 to $7.25; Immersion Heaters, $5.50 to $9.

Summer Sewing With the "Free-Westinghouse" Electric Machine

New clothes simply have to happen this time of year and with the wonderfully convenient and easily operated little "Free-Westinghouse" Electric Sewing Machine, it's a real joy to create them.

One of the chief beauties of the "Free-Westinghouse" is that the motor fits well into the arm and is a real part of the machine. It is equipped with a complete set of modern attachments, including a new type of ruffler and plaiter. The "long bobbin rotary," a feature exclusive to this machine, assures the woman who sews that the thread will not tangle in the shuttle, the needle does not unthread and there's no wastage caused by long thread ends. A gentle pressure with the side of the knee against the adjustable controller starts the machine and the speed may be regulated from 100 to 800 stitches per minute. The Westinghouse motor is of Universal type and operates on either alternating or direct current—105 to 120 volts; 25 to 70 cycles. 75,000 stitches for one cent.

Summer Cooking With a Standard Electric Range

The kitchen is the strategic point for summer labor-saving. Here is the place where longest hours and most tedious tasks are performed. An Electric Range would be a worthwhile investment purely from the standpoint of making summer cooking easier, but the beautiful, efficient STANDARD Electric Range has reasons of economy also, for its use.

Using the Standard Electric Range will keep your standard of living up and the cost down.

—Because it operates with 30% to 80% less electricity than other makes.
—Because a stop clock regulator prevents overheating and abuse of the range.
—Because the aluminum-lined ovens get hot in one-half of the time required by other makes.
—Because the Standard has the heat and food-saving Fireless Cooker for cooking.
—Because the Standard is an exclusive design electric range and not a made-over gas range. It fits in your kitchen most conveniently.
—Because it has full glass fronts on oven doors, a thermometer; open and closed hot plates; a satin finish and wonderful durability.

Summer Washing Burdens Lightened by Electricity

At no time in the year does one need more fresh clothes, linens and so on, than in summer, but—oh—the work it means for somebody! However, to the woman with Electric Washing and Ironing equipment, the warm months have no horrors. Of these appliances Barker Bros. have a comprehensive showing—the best makes; convenient terms.

The Aerobell Electric Washing Machine has extra large capacity and an extra heavy solid copper lacquered tub and embodies all the latest improvements which have been developed for Electric washers. Built to stand years of hard work, it is nevertheless attractive in design. Fully guaranteed and sold in Los Angeles exclusively by Barker Bros.

"The Sunnysuds" Electric Washer is so modest in price that it makes the very thought of a washboard seem absurd. It is a standard size, all metal washer of improved and simplified design and is practically noiseless. The motor is small size, self-lubricating, waterproof and cooled by the draught. The "Sunnysuds" is fully guaranteed—the price $110.

The "Utenco" Electric Ironer will iron georgette crepe de chine blouses and all delicate fabrics without harm. It takes care of a large ironing in a few minutes with results that would do credit to an expert hand laundress. A wonderful servant for the busy woman.

STAMPS TAKEN
The bright way to celebrate postal week is to borrow a stamp from the neighbor.

ALL IN THE HOUSE
A local woman is suing her husband for a divorce and is naming her two sisters as co-respondents. Anyhow, they tried to keep their scandal in the family.

WORLD BY WIRELESS
Mabel wants to know if we will still have wire tappers at their felonious work when all the world is wireless. Of course. We will have wireless wire-tappers by that time.

WHAT'S THE USE?
The Socialist party announces that it is prepared to affiliate for political ends with other parties or organizations. But who wants to affiliate with the Socialist party for any end or purpose?

NOTHING TO STAND ON
A jury awarded a woman $36,000 for the loss of her legs in an automobile accident. When a lady loses her limbs mere money can furnish no adequate recompense, although $18,000 seems like a goodly sum for a little bit of a leg.

GERMINATIONS
They have found typhus germs in Moscow. That was likely to be. Moscow is a rallying place for germs. If the germs ever have an international convention it will surely be held in Moscow. There are more germs in Moscow than there are Germans in Berlin.

FIND THE WOMAN
In the latest brutal tragedy—murdering and robbing of an aged apartment-house landlady—the detectives appear to have completed a quick and thorough job by following the French method and locating the woman without delay. The criminal had a girl and the girl had a tongue. The chain seldom fails.

GOING UP
If Los Angeles had $12,000,000 worth of building permits in April it must not be forgotten that the cities roundabout are doing their part. Glendale also shows $1,000,000 for the month and Eagle Rock had over $300,000. On the basis of population the smaller cities are even more remarkable than their great mother. The April construction figures for the Southwest will startle the nation. Nothing like it was ever known before.

SAFETY FIRST
No matter what Lloyd George or the Germans do, it is the present intention of the administration at Washington to have no official relations or diplomatic commerce with Russia save on a substantial basis. Russia must show a responsible government and be prepared to guarantee the rights and property of Americans before there can be any recognition or intercourse. That is the way it impresses Secretary Hughes. When Russia has her house in order and shows a determination to keep it that way Uncle Sam will be glad to call. Otherwise there is nothing doing.

THE PERFECT GAME
Looks as if they would have to make room in the Hall of Fame for Charlie Robertson, a recruit tosser of the Chicago Sox. In facing Ty Cobb's Tigers he achieved what, in the parlance of pitchers, would be called the perfect game. In the nine innings during which Robertson was in the box the opponents did not score a single hit or run; neither did a man safely reach first. It has been fourteen years since anything like this has happened and there had been but two prior instances in the whole history of big league baseball. Robertson has thrice tried for a permanent berth with the Sox, but has been sent back to the minors each time. This performance entitles him to a look-in. Only Cy Young and Addie Joss have furnished a like mark to shoot at.

RIGHTS OF THE JAP
The higher courts generally manage to nick the laws that are made to exclude or embarrass the Japanese. Now the Supreme Court of the State has declared unconstitutional the act which would prevent aliens from becoming guardians or trustees for minor citizens. Under the Constitution any person born in this country may own property therein. Japanese children were owners of lands that were held for them by their fathers, appointed as guardians by the court. It was to stop this that the special alien land law was passed by the California Assembly. The high court now holds that the parents are the natural guardians of the child and that the child born in this country of Japanese parents has the right of natural selection the same as any white minor. There can be no discrimination against the Japanese in making this choice. The purpose of the California act was a discrimination which was against the letter and spirit of the Constitution. If there is to be any attack upon the admission of the Japanese or any restriction of their rights it should be made from Washington and not Sacramento. That is the judgment of the high court of California. Under such ruling it is quite possible for a Japanese father to hold and control such property as may be legally acquired by or for a minor child. The Assembly will have to try it again—or pass it up to Washington.

A JAPANESE BERNHARDI
Umeshiro Suzuki, a member of the Japanese Parliament, has written a book on "The Future of the British Empire" which gives some interesting glimpses of the opinion held in army and governmental circles in Japan concerning the future of the four-power agreement and the Japanese attitude toward the United States.

If we are to judge by the thoughts expressed in this book, the Japanese are jealous of what they regard as the growing friendship between England and the United States. Suzuki writes in glowing terms of the benefits that accrued to his country through the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and expresses regret that Great Britain found it necessary to enlarge that alliance by including France and the United States.

It is evident that, if the Japanese could have had their way, they would have kept their powerful white ally to themselves and steered free of all "entangling alliances" with this country. Frequently he protests that any alliance between England and America cannot long endure. He says that England has sacrificed more than she has won and intimates that Japan has done the same.

Reading between the lines, one senses a feeling on the part of Japan that their Anglo-Saxon ally was guilty of an infidelity in making another alliance. His lamentations remind one of the wails of a jealous mistress.

From the Japanese point of view the future of the British Empire is closely allied with that of Nippon: the two empires are a bulwark against the encroachments of democracy, "which invariably leads to anarchy." He sees government in this country trembling on the verge of a plunge into a reign of terror "similar to that of the French and Russian revolutions."

If we are to believe Suzuki, the dream of the Japanese statesmen is to found a government similar to that of Great Britain, to become "The Great Britain of the Far East." The writer shows a surprising familiarity for a foreigner with the history of Great Britain. It is evident that he has read Green and Macaulay.

But the frequent references to the impossibility of an enduring alliance between Great Britain and this country lead one to suspect that the wish is father of the thought. It is plain that many of the Japanese public men still regard our country with a certain aversion. They seem to suspect a clash of American and Japanese interests somewhere in the Pacific and they hope to make it to the interest of Great Britain to be on their side.

Doubt of Anglo-American amity occupies most of the concluding chapter of the book. Suzuki says that it is "builded on sand and does not in any way form the basis of the peace of the world." He maintains that the time must come when Great Britain shall have settled matters in Europe, when she will be assured she has no foe at her back and can turn her attention to the United States. He says that "then this so-called friendship will be quickly overthrown," that an industrial and commercial rivalry will begin, "the end of which cannot now be forecast." But he intimates the consequent estrangement may mean war, and that the sympathies of Japan will be wholly with her British ally.

Then comes a covert warning of what would be likely to happen if the two Anglo-Saxon countries should unite and seek to control the world. He says the white race must abandon this dream, "for, however great the mentality of the white men may be, however superior may be their intelligence, they cannot run counter to the laws of nature and the will of providence."

Incidentally, in addition to being a member of Parliament, Suzuki is a general in the Japanese army and is in charge of the Japanese military forces in Tien-tsin. Apparently our interference with Japanese plans for the exploitation of China has caused him to regard us with distrust. He prefers the British policy of noninterference where Britain interests are not directly concerned.

PEGGY OF PARIS
Years ago the musical play, "Peggy from Paris" had quite a vogue. Just now another Peggy—none other than Peggy Joyce—is making even volatile Paris quiver with bewilderment. A girl who can amaze Paris must be a wonder and Peggy is all that. She has a roster of lovers as long as the tax roll and when they are not shooting themselves or each other in the name of jealousy they are drinking themselves to death in the name of sportsmanship. So far as Peggy is concerned life is just one blamed thing after another. Just at present she has no husband she can call her own, but she has a glittering assortment of other women's husbands. Any time a countess loses her count she can ring up Peggy's round-up with a fine prospect of getting a line on the missing lord. Peggy seems to take the count in every way but the one that counts. The judge who gave her her last divorce also gave her a bunch of money and she already had a barrel of diamonds and pearls cached in Paris. The government wanted to pinch Peggy for smuggling, but, according to last advices, she had her thumb up to her nose and was wiggling her fingers at Uncle Sam. As long as there are men in the world it may be taken for granted that things will be coming Peggy's way and the law will not touch her. She has a playful habit of defying everything and everybody and then taking a few hearty drinks to commemorate the occasion. At 4 o'clock last Sunday morning she was wandering among the dance halls with a lover on each arm and introducing them and herself to the assembled night owls. A little later one of the sweethearts—in a flood of jealousy or regret—blew out the few brains he had left. Peggy shed a tear, took a fresh drink and wired for Jack Dempsey. She has a system that works splendidly as far as she is concerned. It is very simple. It is to take what she wants when she wants it and let the men settle for it. She is the most frolicsome vampire of her time and a few wrecked lives or blighted names mean nothing to her impulsive mind. Fate will never be able to get even with Peggy.

THE UNDESIRABLE
Emma Goldman is at Prague, but she has to wear a muzzle or talk in whispers. Her affinity, Alexander Berkman, has also been parted from her. One may not even be a Bohemian in Prague in these days. There is no welcome for Emma in any country of Europe. She is an undesirable citizen and now realizes the folly of her speech. She would play deaf and dumb could she but be back in that dear old America once more.

The Awakened Giant

GETTING AN EDUCATION
When superior education becomes the common education the world and his brother will be getting somewhere. A reporter for The Times got up one morning at daylight in order to be the first to interview William Jennings Bryan at the outset of a political campaign. The reporter asked Mr. Bryan what he thought of the Democracy postulated by Walt Whitman and also that foreshadowed by Hall Caine in his magical and sympathetic interpretation of the Lord's Prayer in Caine's novel, "The Eternal City." Mr. Bryan had read neither of these authors. Mr. Bryan is not an educated man and the highest order that he has ever received is that of Dato conferred upon him by the Igorrotes of the Philippine Islands.

The same reporter was once sent to congratulate Gen. John T. Wilder on one of that fine old warrior's birthdays after he was well along in the eighties. Wilder was a big man in body and in brain power and held an important government position. He was one of the earliest and largest factors in the development of iron and steel in the Southern States. Finding him hale and hearty and tremendously engaged with the work in hand, the reporter asked him what he thought about life. "I think it is a fraud," he said. "In another twenty years I would have an education. Already I am beginning to strike my stride. I have barely learned enough to do some decent work, but in less than twenty years the race will expect me to retire and leave my business to my son, a callow youth of 50 whose education is just begun and who scarcely suspects the principles involved in the making of steel. If you want to take the people a message from me, tell them to get an education and tell them to try to find some system by which an education can be acquired in time to do something about it before they are obliged to quit."

Wilder had never lectured before a Chautauqua in behalf of free silver or the W.C.T.U., he had never run for President or become excited over the "crime of imperialism in the Philippine Islands," but he was an educated man.

Probably the greatest man developed by Harvard University was William James, who declared that men and women will always act as if they believed or did not believe something to be true. Somebody set aside a sum of money to provide for a yearly lecture before the seniors at Harvard at the close of their final year on the subject of "Immortality." Harvard's last effort at giving men an education is to send them forth grounded in a fundamental assurance of the forever of life.

A few years ago some phrase-maker coined the expression, "This is the age of the specialist," and the word specialization came near driving education out of America. It was worked to death and it is a fortunate thing that the craze died instead of all learning. Everything fits into something else and the humblest workman who does not know a little about what comes before his work and what follows it cannot possibly perform a service of intelligence. The widest collateral knowledge is sadly limited when we realize that all things are related. Terms are interchangeable and the man who really knows one thing well will learn somewhat of everything, while he who has some knowledge of many things can certainly bring a greater light to bear on any single subject to which he devotes his attention.

Our system of education will yet undergo many changes designed to assist people in the realization that the reality of their lives lies in their thought-world and that the power of their lives depends on the ability to think. Any system that is adequate will embrace methods whereby the student may discover his own self and a reliable channel for the best expression of his own peculiar talent. It will teach him how to find joy in the work of his choice and how to prepare for that work in a way that will throw over his path a flood-tide of illumination. It will teach him the rare art of the complete devotion of attention, it will teach him the correlation of forces when at rest and the complete co-ordination of faculties when engaged, it will teach him to follow one train of thought without interruption except by the train of thought that the first train begets, and it will teach him how to exclude everything that does not belong to legitimate preoccupation. There is no excellence save in the kingdom of mind and the education of the future will conduct man into that high estate where he knows that to be created in God's image means that man is given the capacity of the thinker.

GREEN GOODS
The soviet government of Russia is going to print and issue a series of 100,000,000 ruble notes. In the days of the Czars these notes would be worth about $55,000,000 each in our money and would be the most ambitious currency ever issued in all history. But just now Russia cannot even pay the interest on her debts with this stuff. One of these highly figured notes would hardly be good for a night's lodging in some of the capitals of Europe. The 100,000,000 ruble note is printed to save paper. It is intended to take the place of a trunkful of 10,000 ruble notes. And that is about all it ever will do.

POINT OF VIEW
A girl who robbed department stores justifies herself on the score that she wanted to have some fun. She couldn't have fun unless she had silk teddy bears and a string of beads and she couldn't get them without stealing them. So she stole them. It was all very simple from her point of view and she could not imagine why any objection should be raised. A lot of girls are brought up with the idea that they are entitled to everything there is and not even their parents have been to any pains to correct this impression. Nothing in the world counts but pleasure.

AN OLD-TIMER
There is a horse over fifty-one years old still living in green pastures in Pennsylvania. He can remember when Nancy Hanks was a colt and when Henry Ford was working on a farm for $12 a month. In the absence of better information he may pose as the oldest horse in the world. Horses are old at twenty and he may therefore be considered an equine centenarian. He has witnessed the zenith and also the passing of the horse.

MORONS AT THE WHEEL
There are automobilists who have not the mental capacity necessary to drive a car with safety to the public. The person of low mentality who has control of a car's steering wheel is not long in demonstrating his unfitness for that trust. Outrageous offenses committed in cold blood by automobile drivers ordinarily show a type of mind that cannot exercise caution and that has no restraining appreciation of human suffering. A part of the timely effort to reduce deaths and injuries resulting from reckless driving should be applied to the weeding out of morons and other persons of defective minds who go about armed with automobiles, which under their control are deadly weapons.—[Chicago News.

RIPPLING RHYMES

FLAPPERS

My aunt was once a flapper and flapped rebellious wings; but now she is a scrapper for old, time-honored things. I've heard some ghastly rumors that when she was 18 she wore a pair of bloomers upon the village green. And there were protests priestly, and every righteous dame denounced her course as beastly and said it was a shame. The moral weekly paper gave auntie half a page and said her shameful caper discredited the age. Revolt was auntie's passion when she was young and fair; she rode a horse man-fashion and bobbed her sorrel hair. The flappers now around us imagine they're unique, determined to confound us by some unseemly freak. But it's old stuff, my masters; the damsels of the past were wont to shock their pastors and make them stand aghast. We see the pullets moulting as hens have always done and damsels were revolting way back in '81. My aunt was busy flapping in bygone sunny springs, and now we hear her yapping for old and changeless things. And maidens now rebelling against the whichful whence, when older will be yelling that young girls have no sense.

WALT MASON.

THE CHINESE SOLDIER

BY GARNER CURRAN

Fighting within twenty-five miles of the ancient walls of Peking arouses interest in the status of the modern Chinese army and many other questions of diplomatic and international character.

It will surprise many Americans to learn that China has a standing army of nearly 1,500,000 men. Most of these are armed with modern rifles. While the supply of field pieces, machine guns and airplanes is not large, yet it is sufficient to be an important factor in any battle and make the ancient walled cities untenable in case of attack.

Should either faction turn against the foreigners in Peking or elsewhere it would be impossible to maintain a defense for sixty days, as was done during the "Boxer" rebellion in 1900.

There are a number of large arsenals and ammunition factories in both South and North China, and they have been busy turning out arms and ammunition for the past five years, getting ready for the "big fight," which everyone who knew anything about the political situation in China has been expecting for some time. Japan, France and other European nations have been selling war material to all factions in China for the past three years, so the Chinese army of today is not depending on the old-fashioned bows and arrows, spears and "stink pots" for methods of defense or offense.

No one has ever accused the Chinese of lacking those qualities which make sturdy fighters. From the days of Shih Hwang, founder of the Chin dynasty (B.C. 255-206) that gave its name to the country, and builder of the great wall as a protection from the fierce tribes of Central Asia, down through the centuries, to the great Mongol conqueror, Kublai Khan (1280-1368,) when his empire reached from the Black Sea to the Yellow Sea and from Northern Mongolia to the Himalayas and Annam, down through the Ming dynasty (1368-1644) and the rule of the Manchus (1644-1911,) a Mongol-Tartar tribe, to the present day, the Chinese have been fighters and, even when conquered, have refused to be dominated by their rulers. Their customs are practically the same as they were 3000 years ago.

We Americans judge the Chinese by those who reside in this country. Fully 70 per cent of the Chinese here are from the southern provinces of China, mostly from Canton. The Cantonese are merchants, artisans, artists, etc. They are peaceful and seldom take any interest in politics, especially when away from their native land. The Cantonese control fully 50 per cent of the trade of the Dutch East Indies, the Straits Settlements, Federated Malay States and are a very important factor in commercial circles in Manila. The Chinese merchant or plantation owner attends strictly to business, although his methods may seem antiquated, and he makes money where others fail.

The Chinese from the northern provinces, such as Shantung, Chili, Manchuria, Mongolia, etc., are an entirely different type. They are taller, most of them about six feet, hardy, of great strength and of a different temperament. This is due to climatic conditions and a strong strain of Mongol-Tartar blood.

In infancy it is a fight against the terrific storms of winter, a case of the survival of the strong and death for the weak. From manhood on it is a fight against the forces of nature and fellow-man for food and the bare necessities, and also against the neighboring tribes should he covet any luxuries or in protecting his home from thieving bandits. It is estimated that in some portions of Mongolia and Manchuria at least one-third of the inhabitants are nothing but bandits, who are continually robbing and murdering even people of their own race.

A Norwegian missionary who returned with me from China last December told me that he had spent nearly eight years in outer Mongolia near the border of Thibet and that he knew that many of the Llama priests financed these robber bands. The priest would furnish the horses, arms and provisions for the raids, and his share of the plunder would be about 70 per cent.

While it is doubtless true that one-half of this army of 1,500,000 Chinese are nothing more than undisciplined bandits, yet it must be remembered that they are now armed with rifles, machine guns and field artillery. A large number are well drilled and some of the officers are as fine a set of men as one can find anywhere. Many have been trained by the Japanese, others in Europe.

While I was in the Y.M.C.A. service in Siberia in 1919 I visited a Chinese cruiser in Vladivostok Harbor. As soon as the officers learned that I was an American and desired to take photographs of the men and ship they extended me every courtesy. A company of marines was lined up and they called off fours with a snap that would be a credit to any American company. The band played and the men went through some maneuvers with excellent precision and alignment. After the drill the officers invited me aboard the ship, took me down below and treated me to "tea." Everything was as "spick and span" as on board our own cruisers.

The Chinese troops guarding the Chinese Eastern Railway in Manchuria were well drilled and, although under severe tension and in many trying situations, on account of the constant friction between the Japanese, Czecho-Slovaks and bandits, yet they obeyed orders and were a distinct credit to themselves and helped maintain order as well as any of the other Allied troops.

The Y.M.C.A. med who served with the Chinese troops reported that they were the best-natured of all the Allies. They were like schoolboys on a picnic. Always full of pranks, never complained and would stand more hard service on less food than any other troops.

Yes, China is awakening. It will be a sad day for the white races when she does, if she becomes a great military power.

Japan realizes the potential strength of China—hence her frantic eagerness to dominate the Peking government and thus control her great economic wealth and prevent her from building up a strong army and navy.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen told the writer in an interview last August that the greatest menace to the peace in the Pacific was the tendency of China to become a great military power. He said, "We Chinese are a peaceful, law-abiding people, but we are being driven to militarism in self-defense. Should China ever again become united and realize her power in modern warfare we could and might overrun Europe as we did in ancient times."

ARE YOU TRULY FINE?

By Henry Christeen Warnack

If you would find your City of Dreams you must walk apart from men in the Garden of the Soul. Somewhere within the heart's light fancies lies a half-formed music world. Whoever finds the fountains of its joys knows the melody of life.

There is a world of fine things and whoever belongs to this world is, in all of his contacts, fine in the game of life. There are riches of which we may be deprived by reversal in fortunes, riches which may be stolen or which may carry more burden than happiness, but there are qualities and graces which constitute values once spoken of as treasures which moths corrupt not and which thieves do not break in and steal.

If you have love, if you have gladness, if you have peace you have that which will abide and you are forever at rest about yourself and your brethren. Your good will, encircling the world, returns to you again and there is no moment of your life that is not exalted and glorified.

All of us at all times have the mental consent to be better and to do more about it. The reason we get no further along is that knowing about things that are good and giving them our mental acquiescence does not make them an actual experience and does not incorporate them as enduring portions of our own constitution. It is pretty certain that the only way out is not by the knowledge of wisdom, but by having an experience for yourself and living thereafter from its inspiration.

Patience, for instance, is an easy word to say and sadly difficult to practice. Charity is another of the virtues with which we seldom mantle friend or foe. We are willing to be charitable in nearly all cases only to those who need it not. We are willing to forgive those who have not trespassed and are eager to extend a fresh chance only to the man or woman who has taken no false steps. Let a man have need of forgiveness and we are all so good ourselves that it is something of a joy to cast the first stone. If it happens to be a woman instead of a man who stands in the eye of condemnation there is no way of telling by whom the first stone was cast, for we all throw ours simultaneously.

The rattlesnake, the prairie dog and the owl live peaceably in one hole. They probably manage it by letting the other fellows attend to their own business. We immortals have houses of light and relatives of charm, but the chances are that we do not succeed in living in harmony, even in ourselves, by subduing the rebellious elements of our own natures, much less do we reach a happy agreement with the members of our household.

SEEKS DEFINITIONS
A Richmond banker was approached by a negro minister whose father had served his family in slave days. The old man was a little more progressive than the ordinary negro pastor of the South and interested himself not only in the spiritual welfare of his flock, but in their worldly welfare as well. It was his custom, therefore, to lecture weekly on current events and his text talk was to deal with the subject of investments and securities.

"Marse Henry," he said, "I'se goin' to talk to mah congregation on de ebils ob de bucket shop what's agitatin' folks so much all 'round de country, but I'se a little hazy on mah definitions. Could you tell me, please, what's de diff'rence between a common, a preferred an' a rollin' stock?"—[Wall Street Journal.

A Foreigner
A policeman, a new member of the force whose beat was in West Washington street, found a man writhing on the sidewalk. As he stood debating whether he should call an ambulance one of the numerous spectators asked: "What is he, an epileptic?"

"No," replied the policeman, "I think he is a Bulgarian."—[Indianapolis News.

OUTFALL SEWER VS. TREATMENT

City's Expert Debates Plan With Elvin Curry

Opponent Upholds Salvage of Waste Waters

Menace to Beaches is Called Serious Factor

The serious menace to the health of the city due to inadequate sewage disposal facilities was discussed at yesterday's meeting of the directors of the Business Men's Cooperative Association at the Broadway Department store. City Engineer Griffin declared the most economical and practical method of solving the problem was to build a new outfall sewer to the sea, while Elvin J. Curry, treasurer of the Los Angeles Safety Council and a prominent member of the City Club, contended that the city should build treatment plants.

"The load on the present outfall," said Mr. Curry, "should be materially lessened if the city authorities would take the proper steps to eliminate excess flush water and industrial wastes. Cities on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts are confronted with the nuisance being done to the beaches by the turning of sewage into the ocean, and Los Angeles should not take this out-of-date destructive method of disposing of its sewage, but should adopt the constructive modern method of treating its sewage and salvaging wastes."

City Engineer Griffin said that sewage treatment while practicable and efficient would entail an expenditure for operation of the plants of $2,000,000 a year, or a total outlay for plants and operation until 1950 of nearly $70,000,000, as contrasted with $32,000,000 for a construction and operation of a new sewer and screening plant at the ocean for the same period of time.

"The beaches have nothing to fear from Los Angeles if the people decide to build a new sewer," said Mr. Griffin. "Ninety-five per cent of the people who use the beaches are from Los Angeles, and we are vitally interested in seeing to it that the beaches are kept clean."

CROWDS .. THRONG .. FIESTA .. MIDWAY

Freaks of All Kinds and Thrilling Rides Attract Thousands of Angelenos

Along the Midway at Spanish War Veterans' Show

WILD girls, snake eaters, living skeletons and scores of other features essential to a first class midway yesterday attracted thousands of people to the big fair being given by the Roosevelt and Admiral Glass camps, United Spanish War Veterans, at Twelfth and Hill streets, for the benefit of the entertainment fund of the National Convention to be held in Los Angeles next August. The National Convention headquarters are at 536 Mason Building.

This evening Mayor Cryer, Sheriff Traeger and Judge Shenk will visit the fiesta grounds and will be among the speakers to address the throngs. More than 5000 persons are expected to attend the show tonight, among the attendants being the orphans from the Lark Ellen Home, who will be special guests and will be given free admission to all the tents that house the various objects of wonder and beauty.

Tomorrow evening the special guests will be veterans of the World War and members of the American Legion. Friday afternoon the children of the Los Angeles Orphan Asylum will be entertained and next Saturday, between 1 and 3 p.m., 1000 school children will be given free admission to seats on the merry-go-round, the big ferris wheel and to the other attractions. On Friday evening officers and men of the Pacific Fleet and the Fort MacArthur Military band will be the guests of honor. The fiesta will close Sunday evening.

The cadets of the R.O.T.C. from various schools have announced their intention to attend the big show during the afternoons. Everybody is welcome to visit the grounds, without charge, and minimum prices are charged for visits to the various houses of mystery.

One of the features of the exhibition is the handsome "Durant 4," which has been donated to the Spanish War Veterans by the Durant Company and by Cox and Elliott, local dealers, the automobile to be given to the most popular girl in Los Angeles—votes, one penny each. The contest will close the last Saturday in June and the winner of the "Queen Contest" will be crowned by Gov. Stephens at a grand ball to be given at the Ambassador.

Mayor Cryer is honorary chairman of the National Convention Committee, the executive committee consisting of E. F. Schulz, chairman, Frank W. Inns, A. C. Munson, F. F. Roller, F. T. Sheppe, W. I. Traeger, H. J. L. Atwood, Oliver Fender and F. J. Gunther. The Finance Committee is composed of P. F. Roller, chairman, H. J. L. Atwood, Dr. D. E. Foster, Frank J. Gunther, Gen. C. F. A. Last, Maj. DEATH RECALLS OLD ROMANCE

Sister of Lincoln's Sweetheart Dies at Lompoc

Remembered Well Visits of Noted Lover

Martyred President Then Clerk in Village Store

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, May 2.—Sarah Rutledge Saunders, fondly known as Aunt Sallie, younger sister of Ann Rutledge, sweetheart of Abraham Lincoln's youth, is dead at her home in Lompoc, according to news received here today. She was 92 years old.

Back in '31 the Saunders family trekked their way across the plains from Illinois to the Far West, making their home in this county. Upon the death of her husband some years ago, Mrs. Saunders lived until recently with her son, James Saunders of Sisquoc, where the little old lady, so gallantly marching toward the sunset of life, kept a clear mind and was loved by a host of friends. She carried her years lightly, walking with a sprightly step until a fractured hip left her chairridden.

Living in her home at Sisquoc and later at Lompoc, she received numerous inquiries from writers and historians who knew her as the only survivor of the famous Rutledge family, whose eldest daughter, Ann, was Lincoln's sweetheart as a boy.

Back in the pioneer village of New Salem, Ill., where Sarah was but a tot, "Honest Abe," clerking in a little store near by, lived for several years with the Rutledge family. Mrs. Saunders has told her friends she clearly remembered the tall, kindly Mr. Lincoln and the courtship between him and her golden-haired sister.

In her Sisquoc home she kept about her many cherished memories of the martyred President, among them a butcher's steel whose buckhorn handle was fashioned by Lincoln, a Brittania coffee pot of which he was particularly fond and a faded old quilt made from pieces of the clothing of the beloved boarder.

While her death severs another living link between Lincoln and posterity her intimate memories of the rail-splitting President, as narrated to authors visiting her in her Santa Barbara county home, have been incorporated in a number of pieces of literature dealing with the life of Lincoln.

Two sons, James Saunders of Lompoc and Dr. H. G. Saunders of this city, survive her. Funeral services are to be held Wednesday at Lompoc, when the venerable woman will be laid to rest in the little town cemetery beside her late husband, John P. Saunders.

INVITE PERSHING

Noted General May Dedicate New Home for Service Men

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, May 2.—Gen. John J. Pershing is to be asked to dedicate South Pasadena's American Legion Memorial Building. This was definitely decided last night at a meeting of the Legion executive committee. Commander Don M. Messer is framing the letter of invitation which will go forward to the commander-in-chief at once. Gen. Pershing is to be asked to set his own time and arrangements.

As Marshal Ferdinand Foch laid the foundation of the building, the first Legion clubhouse in America to be built by a taxpayers' bond issue, it was felt that Gen. Pershing was the logical person for the dedication.

An informal housewarming will be held the second Thursday in June for members.

At the time of the dedication the Daughters of the American Revolution will present a flagpole to be placed in front of the clubhouse.

MONROVIA MECCA OF BOOSTERS

Valley Business Men Meet in Well-Attended Monthly Get-Together Rally

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MONROVIA, May 2.—Three hundred members of the associated chambers of commerce of the San Gabriel Valley and their guests met here this evening for dinner and the regular open monthly meeting.

The Monrovia Chamber of Commerce acted as host.

A splendid dinner was served in the Baptist Church, by the ladies of that organization.

President Jonas E. Killian took the chair and in response to the message of greeting from C. J. O'Connor, head of the Monrovia chamber, expressed the appreciation of the associated chambers for the hospitality of Monrovia.

Speakers of the evening were Will G. Farrell, an Angeleno transplanted from Salt Lake City, and Francis M. Fults, Los Angeles naturalist. Mr. Farrell, who is one of Utah's best-known insurance men, spoke on "The Relation of the Inter-Mountain Territory to Southern California," a question of vital importance which is receiving the attention of big men of California, Colorado, Arizona, and other States.

Mr. Fults chose as his subject, "The Elfin Forest Chaparral," which proved most interesting.

VOTERS FAVOR BONDS

Glendale School District to Issue $600,000 in Securities

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GLENDALE, May 2.—With practically no opposition voters of the Glendale High School district today gave sanction to an issue of $600,000 in bonds to provide funds to erect a modern high school plant on a site recently acquired in the eastern section of the city.

About 25 per cent of the registered vote was recorded in the election, the ratio being approximately 17 to 1 favoring the issue. The total count showed 1755 favoring the bonds and 78 opposed.

Those favoring the bonds say that crowded conditions of the schools make a new plant necessary, and that with modern equipment more attention can be given to the growing needs of a night school and other much-needed departments. The district includes besides Glendale, Eagle Rock City, Tejunga, La Crescenta and Monte Vista.

REDLANDS, May 2.—Rufus V. Leonori, aged 73 years, wealthy retired warehouse man of St. Louis, died suddenly at the home of his friend J. W. Rabe during the night. When Mr. Leonori, who with his wife and sister had come here for a visit with their old friends, retired for the night he was in excellent health. Evidently he suffered a stroke of apoplexy while asleep and passed away without awakening.

Mr. Leonori was a warehouse owner for more than fifty years and just recently sold his business to a large combine and retired a wealthy man. He still retained business interests in St. Louis but not such as to prevent the long hoped for trip to California. They were to leave here today for San Diego and then to Los Angeles.

Mr. Rabe will return to St. Louis with Mrs. Leonori and the sister, the body being taken there for burial.

LEGION HEADS RESIGN POSTS

For the Organization's Good, Say Retiring Officers

Action Result of Recent Bond Election at Ontario

Public Criticises Men Who Saw No Service

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, May 2.—Something of a sensation eminated from the ranks of Ontario Post American Legion today, when Archie D. Mitchell, tendered his resignation as adjutant of the post, followed in quick succession by similar action on the part of Commander Joseph A. Downey, and Clayton H. Dyke, Downey, and Clayton H. Dyke, member of the executive house and entertainment committees.

Criticism on the part of the general public to the effect that heads of the local Legion post were not overseas men rather than any dissatisfaction among the Legion members themselves was given as the reason for the resignation. While no action was taken today, a special meeting for the purpose of taking up the matter of reorganization has been called for next week.

Resigning Legion heads, stated today that it had come to their ears from many sources that different persons had opposed the recent bond issue for a memorial hall and home for the Legion on the ground that the heads of Ontario Post were not men who had seen actual service and therefore not truly representative of the Legion. It was even reported that some former service men not members of the Legion had worked against the recent bond issue for that reason.

The resigning officers stated that they had no personal feelings in the matter at all and that although there is no dissatisfaction in the post itself, and that it is a fact that they were elected to office at a meeting attended by members more than 90 per cent of whom were overseas veterans, that inasmuch as the fact of their holding office reflects on the Legion, it is their plain duty to step out and clear the way for men who can perhaps accomplish more good for the organization.

It was positively decided at the organization of the Legion that there should be no distinction drawn between the overseas men and those who failed to get across and so far as known no dissatisfaction over this point has ever developed in the ranks of the organization, but the officers feel that if the Legion is to be made to suffer as the result of adverse criticism on the part of outsiders there is but one course open to them.

The men tendering their resignations today made it emphatic that it is not a case of quitting under fire, their sole interest being the good of the organization.

ome Superior Interests Clash at Hearing

agement is Attacked by Stockholders

mpany Seeks to Incur Debts of $1^0,000

Evidences of a factional fight between stockholders of the Jerome Superior Copper Company, an Arizona mining concern, the majority of whose share owners are said to be residents of Los Angeles, made themselves manifest during the session, yesterday, in the offices of the California Corporation Commission, at which officials of the company petitioned for authority to incur a bonded indebtedness of $100,000 to rehabilitate the mine.

Chairman D. F. Johnson of the Corporation Commission is presiding at the hearing, at which Commissioners Amos A. Betts and Alex F. Vaughn, also are sitting. The session was undertaken here, rather than at Phoenix, it was explained through economic reasons, being far less costly to transport the commission en banc to this city, than to pay the expenses of twenty or more witnesses to the Arizona capital and return.

The Jerome Superior Company, workings of which are on property adjacent to the original Superior mine near Jerome, Ariz., was organized it was stated yesterday, in 1918, and development work actually began the following year. Several thousand dollars worth of stock is said to have been disposed of mainly in small lots.

COMPANY INVOLVED

The affairs of the company are said to have become involved financially, about the beginning of 1921, and at a subsequent date, development ceased because of lack of funds. George Mitchell, connected for many years with mining development projects in the west, was for a considerable time manager of the Jerome Superior Company.

Mr. Mitchell, Capt. Melville Fraser of this city, and George D. Cass, a company directors, were indicted by the Los Angeles Grand Jury last year for asserted mismanagement as a result of charges preferred by other stockholders. Later the charges were not pressed.

TREASURER IS WITNESS

L. J. Selby, recently secretary-treasurer of the mining company, was the principal witness at yesterday's session, where the interests of the Selby faction of the company were represented by Attorneys Manning and Thompson of this city.

Mr. Selby was subjected to a vigorous examination by Charles W. Slack of San Francisco, counsel for the defendants, in an effort, apparently, to sustain his uttered charges of frauds of the company had been conducted in a "loose manner" during the time Selby, et al. were in power. A dozen exhibits of company records were filed with the commission at the instance of the San Francisco lawyer.

Mr. Fraser charged that the Selby faction entered into a conspiracy and hatched plans to discredit former directors, among them himself. He announced his belief that findings in a company case pending before Superior Judge Wood of Yavapai county, Arizona, had been tampered with by several directors and that he was prepared to attack these findings.

The hearing will be continued to-

TERNITY COTTAGE EEKS OLD CLOTHING

INDUSTRIAL DRIVE FOR SALVAGE STORE IS STARTED

The spring industrial drive of the salvage store of the Maternity Cottage was begun yesterday for the collection of clothing suitable for women and infants.

The Maternity Cottage at 127 East Utah street, Boyle Heights, is dedicated to the care of needy women during confinement. The salvage store sells the donated used clothing at minimum price and the receipts help pay running expenses of the cottage. The Maternity Cottage gives the new-born infant proper medical and nursing attention and also looks after the mother.

Apart from all walks of life come to the cottage, and all receive the same attention. Every effort is made to eliminate the stigma of charity. The aim of the institution is to help families over a hard place in their lives and in many cases expects them to pay what they can toward the cost of birth, board, laundry medical supplies, use of clothing, and nursing for mother and baby.

The cottage is a semi-fireproof building with sixteen beds, and it is estimated approximately 300 babies go there each year, and during a period of thirteen years only three lives were lost—a record seldom equaled.

Appeal is made that all cast-off clothing of men's, women's or infants' clothing be sent to the salvage store of the Maternity Cottage or that the store be notified at Boyle 6092, and a wagon will be sent for the bundle. Visitors are welcomed at the cottage.

Police Sergeant Gleason of the Hollywood station assisted firemen in putting out the blaze. The building is owned by [illegible] Lindsey.

STATE'S BURCH CASE NEAR END

Prosecution to Finish Its Evidence Today

Witnesses for Defense to Testify Tomorrow

Madalynne Laughs at Stories in Eastern Papers

Today the State will rest and tomorrow the defense of Arthur C. Burch, charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, will open. This program was announced at the close of yesterday's session in Judge Reeve's court after a day of rigid questioning and cross-examination of the State's witnesses.

C. S. Summar, the man who says he saw Burch at the mouth of Santa Monica Canyon a short time after the murder, was placed on the stand again yesterday morning. He was cross-examined by Paul W. Schenck of defense counsel in an attempt to shake his story.

CLOSELY QUESTIONED

Deputy Sheriff Bright followed Mr. Summar. Mr. Bright told of Burch's receiving $85 from an unknown person after he had been placed in jail. This money, Mrs. Obenchain stated on the stand, was sent by her.

The three witnesses who were most closely questioned were Dr. J. J. Finley, J. M. Stevenson of the District Attorney's office, and John Taliberto, houseman in the Kennedy home. Dr. Finley was the man who removed the thorn from Burch's knee after his arrest.

It was charged during the cross-examination of Dr. Finley that his expenses were paid by the District Attorney because of his testimony against Burch. Finley, whose real name is Finn, it developed, did not deny that there was a conversation bearing on his being recompensed by the State. He hesitated slightly over the answer and then stated he did not remember such a conversation.

TESTIMONY VARIES

Stevenson testified that he was in the room when Finley removed the thorn from Burch's knee. He was questioned and requestioned by Mr. Schenck and his testimony varied with his former statements in several places. Taliberto stated that he had seen Burch and Madalynne in front of the Kennedy home on the afternoon of Kennedy's murder. He also stated that Belton examined his gun before he left on the afternoon of the shooting. He stated that the young broker did not take the keys to his cabin in Beverly Glen. Then Dep. Dist.-Atty. Keyes read to the jury a copy of the divorce decree given Mrs. Obenchain in Chicago.

Yesterday Mrs. Obenchain was given a large number of clippings concerning her case by William B. Bierne, a member of her counsel. The clippings were newspaper accounts of her case from all parts of the country. She spent the afternoon reading them and seemed to enjoy learning what the press in the east had to say about her.

Particularly amusing seemed the stories of former husband Ralph's departure from Los Angeles and his wife. She laughed over such headlines as "Ralph Departs," and "Ralph Given Fudge Party As He Leaves Wife."

QUEEN ELLA WINS FIGHT FOR CHAPEL

Court Rules Laborer of Negro Sect Has Right to Property Given to Her

Miss Ruth M. Bekins, daughter of Martin Bekins, local business man, yesterday lost her fight to oust Mrs. Ella Smith Truell, leader of a negro religious sect, who is known to her followers as "Queen Ella," from the property at 962 East Thirty-third street, which is used as a chapel. Miss Bekins brought suit to terminate a life tenancy, contesting Mrs. Truell's contention that the property had been given her by Mr. Bekins because "God had told him to do so."

Judge J. Perry Wood, before whom the suit was called, held that a previous suit, in which Miss Bekins sought possession of the property through a suit in unlawful detainer, had settled the matter. Judge York rendered a decision in favor of the sect leader and Judge Wood declared that this decision settled the matter.

The testimony at the previous suit outlined the teachings of Mrs. Truell. She is declared to have represented herself as about to give birth to a "second King Emanuel" and to have drawn a large crowd of followers on the day the birth was supposed to be due.

Sleeps While Attorney Asks Death Penalty

Slouching forward in his chair, his head resting on his hand, James Wheaton went sound asleep yesterday, while Asst. Dist.-Atty. Clark asked the jury in Judge Parker's court to "hang him by the neck until dead" for his asserted part in the slaying of Policeman Brett and Chester. He awoke with a start, when the bailiff rapped for order, as court adjourned.

By his side was his co-defendant, Calvin Rowell, but Rowell was keenly alert. He watched every move of the prosecutor, and absorbed every word. His eyes moved from one juror to another, and followed Clark up and down before the jury box. He betrayed no outward emotion when Clark asked for the death penalty.

On the right of Rowell sat his wife, a full-blooded Cherokee Indian, to whom he was married in Oklahoma. By her side was their flaxen-haired daughter, who, very frankly tells those who, attracted by her beauty, stop to talk to her that "my daddy is in jail for speeding."

Wheaton and Rowell will probably know their fate tonight. Clark finished his argument to the jury with the adjournment of court last night. Judge Parker will deliver his instructions this morning and the case is expected to be in the hands of the jury by noon.

Mr. Wattson, who had passed his seventy-sixth birthday anniversary, was one of the rugged pioneers of the West and had an adventurous career as sailor and prospector before coming to Los Angeles and entering the contracting business in which he enjoyed no small success. He constructed the Hill-street tunnel and had numerous other engineering feats of magnitude to his credit.

Born in Australia, Mr. Wattson shipped as a cabin boy and sailed around the horn, coming to America as a stripling. He fought in some of the later battles of the Civil War and at the conclusion of that struggle was one of the early prospectors in the Cripple Creek district of Colorado.

Masonic Club Plans Campaign to Get Fifteen Hundred Names.

Plans for procuring a charter membership of 1500 to the Masonic Club of Los Angeles by the 10th inst. were discussed yesterday at a meeting of more than 200 prominent Masons at the Alexandria. The chief speaker was former Judge William Rhodes Hervey, who told of his recent visit to Palestine.

It was decided yesterday that the Masters of the thirty-six Masonic lodges of Los Angeles shall each appoint a committee of twenty-five to interview the members of their respective lodges in regard to membership in the club. In this way, it was pointed out, the 15,000 Masons in the city can be checked up by the 10th inst., on which date the Masons' option on the club headquarters at the Alexandria will expire.

Irving J. Mitchell, chairman of the Masters' and Wardens' Association, stated yesterday that a smoker and entertainment in the interests of the club will be given within the next week.

COURT ENDS HIS WORRY ABOUT JAIL

Too Bad, George, but There Isn't Much Difference in 'em Anyway

There is no accounting for tastes. And the choice between whether a man should be behind the walls of the City Jail or the County Jail, would, ordinarily, seem to be nothing to worry about.

But George D. Cole, who was convicted of vagrancy in the local Police Court, and sentenced to 180 days in the City Jail, thought differently.

Cole thought he ought to spend the term in the county prison and he instituted a habeas corpus proceeding in the District Court of Appeal, challenging the righteousness of his sentence. He asserted that the Police Court lacked jurisdiction, etc, etc.

THERE'S LOTS OF OTHERS THAT DON'T LIKE OUR JAIL TOO, GEORGE

But Department No. 2, of the District Court of Appeal held yesterday that George was mistaken and that the police courts of a city of the class of Los Angeles had jurisdiction over that class of misdemeanors. The writ was discharged and the prisoner remanded.

That will be about all for George.

Every school will be represented by groups of children who will portray in costume the fairy tales of the noted story teller. MEXICANS IN NEED OF EDUCATION

Speaker at Ad Club's Luncheon Urges Effort to Understand Neighbors

Mexico needs two things, leadership in office and education for the people, according to Dr. O. W. E. Cook, director of the American Chamber of Commerce in Mexico City, who spoke on "True Conditions in Mexico," yesterday at noon, before the Advertising Club of Los Angeles, at the Alexandria.

Dr. Cook, a graduate of the University of Southern California, said that education of the masses in Mexico would have prevented the revolutions and that popular education will be the means of saving Mexico to herself and to the world.

"Mexican ideals are high, and the Mexican heart is good, but what can you expect of a country of 15,000,000 inhabitants, 85 per cent of whom are illiterate?" asked the speaker. "The leaders in education are doing splendid work but Mexico needs 10,000 well-trained teachers, and if she gets them there will be no Mexican problem ten years from now. America can help chiefly by sending her best representatives in the education world."

Dr. Cook said that millions of dollars of American capital will flow into Mexico when the Obregon government shall have been recognized by the United States. He deplored the stubbornness and the misunderstanding on the part of both the people of Mexico and the United States and pleaded for a greater effort toward mutual understanding.

"In the south of Mexico, conditions are better than ever before," said Mr. Cook. "Obregon is master, and is honestly striving to give the country what it needs, backing, educational and financial programs that promise to be of inestimable benefit to his people. However, he faces the danger of Bolshevism and sovietism which have, to some extent, invaded his Cabinet."

The aggrarian problem in Mexico is not a question of land, but of industry and intelligence in the agricultural field there, according to Mr. Cook, who said that there has been a great reduction in production since the Indians had been given so many valuable ranches, and formerly productive acres.

FEDERATION IN SESSION TODAY

Annual Convention State Body Meets at 10 A.M.

"Good Citizenship" Theme for Entire Week

Assembly Will Gather at Bovard Hall, U.S.C.

BY MYRA NYE

"Good Citizenship" is a growing need in our country and State, says Mrs. William A. Fitzgerald, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, which opens its twenty-first annual convention at 10 a.m. today in Bovard Hall on the campus of the University of Southern California. This is to be the theme of all sessions.

"We need your help to make our country safe."

"You will find many American-born who do not know what it means to be a good American; you will find many who break their country's laws, jeer at its Constitution and shame its flag."

These two sentences from cards which the Women's Club of Lodi presents to every new citizen who becomes of age or is naturalized, are quoted by the State president in announcing the convention.

"They are watchwords for us this week," said Mrs. Fitzgerald. "At the same time they make a stirring appeal to us—they sound a warning. We women need the inspiration for our own better citizenship and to help us give object lessons in good citizenship. This we will do through the work in Los Angeles of the park commission, the social service commission, the public schools, the library, the industries of the city and the homes of the clubwomen."

DR. BERTOLA HERE

Presiding with Mrs. Fitzgerald over the delegate body which represents 55,000 California women organized in more than 500 clubs federated in the State, will be Dr. Mariana Bertola of San Francisco, who distinguished herself in club circles in her native city and also as one of the originators of the Women's Vigilance Committee active during the first Arbuckle trial. She will be one of the speakers this morning. Others who will appear are: Mrs. John S. Thayer, Mrs. Annie Little Barry, Mrs. Stanley V. Wilson, Mrs. Clarence M. Haring, Mrs. M. A. Bausch, Mrs. Charles A. Wiley, Mrs. Walter Longbotham, Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley and the presidents of the six districts: Mrs. A. L. Miller, Northern; Mrs. H. M. Tenney, San Francisco; Mrs. George A. Rigg, Alameda; Mrs. George W. Turner, San Joaquin Valley; Mrs. J. C. Urquhart, Los Angeles, and Mrs. F. W. Haman, Southern.

Dr. Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, will strike the keynote in his address "American Citizenship," and Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, speaking on "The Women's Light and Power Company," will be the other chief speaker of the day, appearing immediately preceding the business discussion led by Mrs. Edward Dexter Knight of San Francisco, at the close of the day.

Mrs. Aaron Schloss, the predecessor of Mrs. Fitzgerald as State president, also will appear upon the afternoon's program.

Mrs. Russell J. Waters, a past State and district president and one of the past presidents of the Friday Morning Club, will entertain her fellow club women associated with her during her various regimes, as well as the present boards, in the ballroom at the Fowler Apartment, corner of Washington and Union avenues, with an old-time California party immediately upon the close of this day's session. Receiving with her will be Mrs. J. Bond Francisco, her corresponding secretary; Miss Adele Humphries, Mrs. William Bauerhyte, Mrs. Florence Collins Porter and Mrs. John Osgood, parliamentarian then as now.

MEXICAN ATMOSPHERE

A Mexican orchestra in costume will play during the party and Spanish women dressed as in the days of the Dons will embroider cushions and make drawn-work lace as they did two generations ago. A Mexican caterer recently from Mexico City will serve the Mexican supper. This will be distinctly a reunion of California club women from all over the State who were active in 1907 and 1912, the years of Mrs. Waters's presidencies.

With the whole clubhouse a bower of spring blossoms, the Ebell Club, Mrs. Charles Toll, president, will entertain with a social tea today at 4:30, in honor of the officers, delegates and visiting club women. The Ebell auditorium will be cleared of seats, and made gay with beautiful rugs and flowers. Its walls will be hung with an exhibition of rare paintings. The patio is chosen for the music-room and there, amid its potted plants, a stringed orchestra will play.

The lot south of the clubhouse will be turned into a garden, bright with colored parasols and the most modern garden furniture. Here and elsewhere tea and punch, ice cream and cake will be served informally. Guests will be guided by members of the club, that they may come in personal touch with this gem of club centers. Nationally-distinguished guests will act as hostesses, in company with the local club women. The personnel of the group will include Mrs. H. W. R. Strong, Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, Mmes. Charles N. Flint, Sumner Hunt, Frank W. King, Willets J. Hole, Edward C. Bellows, William L. Jones, W. S. Bartlett, Chester C. Ashley, Josiah Evans Cowles, Oscar A. Trippet, Emerson Clyde Gates, Leslie R. CITIZENSHIP DAY

The latest conference to be announced is scheduled for tomorrow morning in the first gallery, at 9:15, when Miss Sue Barnwell will lead in a discussion of procedure of Citizenship Day, the Fourth of July.

A change in the program is the announcement that Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam will speak on "The Spiritual Significance of World-wide Industrial Progress," in place of the address on "Scientific Birth Control," which was to have been given by Dr. M. Mitchell.

Under the direction of Mrs. M. E. Hammond of the Ebell Club, a score or so of Ebell members have adorned the already beautiful auditorium with masses of poppies and spring flowers. Osmond, Mrs. C. W. Mattison.

"ON THE AIR" AT CLUB MEET

Broadcast by the Club Editor

From Mrs. John C. Urquhart, president of the Los Angeles District Federation: Convention necessities will be cared for by the local committee, but to all of us falls that special privilege of manifesting the joyous spirit of friendliness and hospitality. "The world does not require so much to be informed as to be reminded," and so may I remind you, my fellow club women, that the officers will be well cared for, but single out the strangers who are not wearing the crown of distinction and make them your special guests. All of them are possible and potential State presidents. We live here and know our city: our skip stops, our transfer rules, our cafeteria etiquette, our general customs, even the points of the compass are clear to us and the fact that same of our streets run on a slant. These may not be so clear to the visitor.

From Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley, State vice-president at large: Spring 'And we are twenty-one'! Should not this convention be a most glorious one? Back of us preparation and training time. Now the present thrills with high hopes and earnest purpose. The world is ours at twenty-one—maybe—if we will but grasp it.

Los Angeles is delightful in May time, a proper setting for the great event. Los Angeles is waiting to do you homage, Madam Clubwoman, to share with you the joys of our Southland. We have created a beautiful body for this convention but you must bring the soul. The gay trappings of our playtime—and we intend to bedeck you right merrily—will be only tawdry baubles without the true heart and the serious mind of the woman whose life is dedicated to noble effort. Convention is the shrine of the club world where once again we consecrate ourselves to service.

Hundreds of full-grown native pines taken in huge trucks to the hill just west of the Southwest Museum have been supplied by the City Park Department for the Indian play which is to be given Thursday afternoon by the Wa-Wan Club as a session of the convention. Two small lakes with connecting cascades and an undergrowth of ferns and wildflowers, with lupines, marigolds, brodiaea and mariposas predominating, will transform the hillside into a bit of primeval forest. The plan and direction of the elaborate setting are in charge of Charles Adams, landscape architect.

The play is under the direction of Miss Virginia Calhoun and will be one of the features of entertainment afforded the delegates. Marguerite Daley, a full-blood Cherokee Indian, late of the Grand Opera Company of Chicago will have the lead. The youthful, betrothed lover is portrayed by Ray Clifford, a young actor. The part of the father is taken by Richard Caruth who is well known for his portrayal of Indian characters on the screen; the Songster of the forest, reproducing the legend of the "Mockbird" is played by Miss Ruth Zody who learned her bird calls in the desert from the birds. She has also learned to sing the most ancient song of Peace which was lost for ages from all tribes and nations. Boothe Franklin takes the part of the War Priest and Richard Alexander the second one. The hunter is taken by Teddy Pittman who is also a member of the Cherokee tribe.

Sierra Madre has the largest palm nursery in the world. Tomorrow when the Sierra Madre Women's Club entertains officers of the State and presidents of a few of the clubs at luncheon at the Southwest Museum Mrs. Milton Steinberger, president of the club, will compliment sixty-five of the guests by presenting each one of them with a small potted palm of a rare species peculiar to Sierra Madre, the foothill town. These little trees are hardy and will stand travel and transplanting. In years to come souvenirs of this convention and of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club will be growing in different sections of the State.

Mrs. Rose V. S. Berry of Berkeley, who will give an address on "Music Literature and Art, Voice of the Ages" tomorrow morning, is chairman of Fine Arts for the General Federation of Women's Clubs. She has spent seven years in Europe, studying in every art center of importance from Liverpool to Athens and has visited many of the museums of America. In the last fourteen months she has addressed fourteen State federations and will leave immediately after this meet to complete her itinerary before the opening of the biennial convention at Chautauqua, N. Y., where she will hold seven conferences for the fine arts department of the general federation.

The Indian tepee set up in the entrance hall of the Southwest Museum belongs to Mrs. Anita Baldwin. It is made of forty-seven buffalo skins, the buffalos shot by hunters who were friends of her father, "Lucky" Baldwin, and prepared by taxidermists whom he knew.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

THE SMALL APPETITE MYTH

The story is told of an Irishman who went to a dealer in automobiles, stating that he wanted to get a car for his wife.

The dealer, trying to get some line on the style of car he wanted, inquired, "Long body?"

"Gosh, no!" he exploded. "She's built like a tub! But what's her shape got to do with it?"

After three days on 500 calories and one day on 800, you are not so tubbular as you were, I know, and you feel 100 per cent better already. Am I right?

Sunday I said that there might be some light eaters among the corpulent fraternity, but that I had never met them. It is true that there are some of them who apparently eat moderately at the table—but what amounts they store away between meals!

Sometimes it is fruit, but more often it is candy or nuts or ice-cream sodas, etc. Many people have the idea that fruit has no food value, and they eat freely of it under that delusion.

This delusion can be traced to many popular lay writers, who may write wondrously on their own themes, but they can't keep their pens off dietetics, of which they know nothing, apparently. Everybody's doing it and sending broadcast statements which are incorrect. One popular writer, whose title of doctor even is D.D., and whose philosophy is inspiring, has an article in a popular magazine in which he states that oranges have no special food value aside from their vitamines.

Why, my dear doctor, one large orange has exactly the same food value in energy or fuel as an ordinary slice of the staff of life!

Once when I was reckoning the calorie value of the diet of a woman of Los Angeles who was overweight, I had to acknowledge that she was a light eater as she had told me.

It came to 2000 C., which was just the amount that I judged a woman of her activities needed to keep her normal. Still skeptical, I inquired, "What else do you eat?"

"Nothing, doctor," she assured me.

"No candy? No ice cream sodas?"

"No, doctor. I eat nothing between meals, really!"

I looked at her, puzzled. Finally I said sternly: "Something goes into your stomach besides what you have told me. What is it?"

"Well, I do take the juice of six or eight oranges during the day, to help my constipation, but there is no food value in oranges."

So it was that she had added 500 or 600 calories a day to her diet.

Five hundred C., of any food more than the system needs, will add to your weight one-eighth of a pound a day, or forty-five pounds a year!

Can you see how important the knowledge of the fuel or caloric values of food is? Do you know anything about calories, the fuel units? No? You supposed the calorie theory was exploded?

Well, it isn't. In the first place, there is no "caloric theory" any more than there is a yard theory or a bushel theory.

The explosion of calories is another bit of misinformation put into circulation by lay writers who know nothing of scientific dietetics nor of what calories really are.

We are going to teach you something about those calories, painlessly. But meanwhile—tomorrow follow Sunday's menu.

Marriage of Wide Interest

John Mackey Elliott, chairman of the board of directors of the First National Bank of this city, has announced the marriage of his son, Robert Peal Elliott of this city and Mrs. Correnah de Pue Neville, daughter of Mrs. James de Pue of San Francisco.

The wedding took place in the Bay City Monday at noon in the presence of members of the two families. Rev. French, performed the ceremony which was in chuch. The couple left immediately for an extended honeymoon trip and Mr. Elliott, Sr., returned home last evening. His son-in-law William Richards and his niece, Miss Caroline Huger, went up for the ceremony.

The groom is one of the most prominent young men in Southland social and business circles and was last year and several years before one of the members of the board of governors of the Bachelors' Club.

He was the first member of this famous club to be married since the last ball in February and the wedding was a surprise as there was no announcement of an engagement.

Bethrothal Revealed at Luncheon

The betrothal of Miss Genevieve Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ross Campbell and Howard Sears, both of this city, was revealed yesterday at a cosy little luncheon at which Miss Alma Barman was hostess.

Sears, retired business man of San Diego. The young man was educated at the University of California. Miss Murray received a private education under tutelage. No date has been set for the marriage.

The secret was told in a unique way. Miss Murray pulled a silken bell cord, and from a big white floral bell gay colored balloons fell with cupids and hearts attached and bearing the message.

A mound of pink tulips with roses, snapdraggons and other spring flowers centered the table at which there were places for Miss Murray, Mrs. George Nathaniel Whiting, Mrs. Albert Hayes Busch, Mrs. Gerald Barton (Virginia Turner,) Mrs. Harold Watters (Anne Morse) and Misses Rowena and Camilla Schneider.

One of the most thrilling experiences was when they were three hours going over the Apache Trail of twenty-one miles.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Read Your Meter

The efficient housekeeper reads her gas and electric meters periodically to see that they are not over-registering.

Fresh Asparagus

Fresh asparagus can be kept in good condition for a day or two by placing the stalks in cold water, changing the water each day.

Ironing

Iron fabrics with the lengthwise thread and iron as large a space at a time as possible. Many materials look best if ironed thoroughly dry.

When Mopping

The quickest way to mop up a puddle of water on the kitchen linoleum is to first moisten the mop itself. It is much more absorbent than an absolutely dry cloth.

Mutton Broth

When preparing mutton broth, add the carrots after having put them through the meat grinder. They will add to the flavor without taking away the clearness of the soup.

To Clean Oil Paintings

Make a thin paste of raw potatoes and clear water; add some fine pumicestone and rub on the painting with a sponge. Then finish with water and a cloth. It is well to apply a coat of varnish when the painting dries.

Philanthropy and Civics Club

Members are urged to remember that there will be no meeting hereafter of the Philanthropy and Civics Club on Tuesdays, as the day of meeting from now on will be Thursday. The first program for May will be given tomorrow at 2:10 p.m., by Judge Perry Wood, and his subject will be "International Relations and Their Relations to Ourselves." Luncheon speakers Mrs. B. H. Brigham, President Ventura County Federation of Women's Clubs, and Gertrude Reynolds McMullen, southwest School of Industrial Arts, will have a most interesting exhibit.

The Directors of the Philanthropy and Civics Club plan to invite the members of the Woman's City Club and the West Ebell for the last Thursday in May to hear the program given by Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith, assisted by the Lesbian Trio.

TURNKEYS FOIL JAIL DELIVERY

Discover Bars Sawed at Evening Inspection

Escape of Federal Prisoners is Frustrated

Two Confined in Dungeon as Result of Plot

What was declared to be an attempt at a general jail delivery of Federal prisoners in the County Jail was frustrated yesterday by the timely interference of two turnkeys, Herman Heller and J. B. Loving. As the result of the purported attempt, two prisoners, Slayden Hellar and Louis De La Basse, being held for postoffice robberies, were reported last night as being confined in the institution's dungeon.

Fifty-two prisoners in Tank No. 6, all being held on various Federal charges, might have escaped had it not been that during the evening inspection of cells the turnkeys discovered that six bars had been sawed apart, leaving a chance for many to escape at the same time.

The plan to escape was carefully made, it was indicated, but the prisoners who actually sawed the bars were not caught. As soon as the discovery was made, all the prisoners were locked in individual cells and a guard was placed outside the tank.

An investigation was begun by Sheriff Traeger regarding the method used by the prisoners to obtain the saws and as to the names of those who led the plot to escape.

EXPRESS THEIR THANKS

Promoters of the rodeo at Newhall Saturday and Sunday yesterday sent a letter to the Board of Supervisors thanking the members and other county officials for their co-operation. Deputy Sheriffs Dewar and Moody were assigned to the rodeo ground to keep the peace, while Capt. Cannon of the county motorcycle squad had six men on hand to handle the automobile traffic. The rodeo attendance for the two days is estimated at 15,000.

R. P. Le Feber Defendant in Two Theft Cases Here and One in Santa Ana

R. P. Le Feber had a busy day yesterday. He found he was a defendant in two cases here and one in Santa Ana, all due to transactions in stolen automobiles.

Le Feber was arraigned in Justice Hinshaw's court for the theft of an automobile from the Reo Motor Company of this city. He already was a defendant in a case in the justice court. When he had arranged bail, warranting his appearance before Justice Hinshaw April 18, Deputy Sheriff Nolan arrested him on a warrant from Santa Ana and he was taken to that city. Le Feber's bail in the two cases here totals $5000.

MILLER WILL CONTEST FILED

Nephew Contends His Aunt Not Legally Married

Relative Says Doctor Had Wife When He Wedded

Defendant's Demurrer in Another Suit Overruled

Declaring that the late Mrs. Mary E. Moore Miller was never legally married to Dr. Jared H. Miller and that he had hypothecated most of her $225,000 estate beyond the jurisdiction of California courts, George W. Moore, a nephew, yesterday filed a contest to the will of his aunt.

The contest is an outgrowth of the recent arrest of Dr. Miller on a charge of grand larceny preferred by the nephew. The case was dismissed in the Justices' Court on the ground that no larceny had been committed by the physician.

The nephew charges that at the time of his marriage to the late Mrs. Miller, Dr. Miller had never been legally divorced from his first wife, Mrs. Irene E. Miller of Oakland. He charges that Dr. Miller entered into the marriage "for the purpose of getting control of all of the property of the said decedent."

DEMURRER OVERRULED

While the contest was being filed by Attorneys Anderson & Anderson, Dr. Miller was in the Hall of Records attending the hearing of the suits brought against him by Frank M. Kelsey, special administrator of Mrs. Miller's estate. Kelsey charges Dr. Miller with conspiracy to defraud the estate out of $9887 and seeks an accounting. Judge Crail yesterday overruled Dr. Miller's demurrer to the suits and allowed him ten days to file an answer.

Dr. Miller and Mrs. Miller were married Aug. 13, 1915. According to the contest Mrs. Irene Miller, asserted wife No. 1, of Dr. Miller, filed an action for divorce in Oakland two days later and was granted an interlocutory decree on Sept. 28, 1916.

Shortly after the marriage, says the bill of contest, Mrs. Miller came into possession of the sum of $194,000 from the estate of her late brother, Frank H. Moore. This money, says the nephew, was placed in a joint account at the Security Trust and Savings Bank. The nephew says that Dr. Miller has removed almost all of this money out of the jurisdiction of the California courts by taking it to other States and depositing it in his name. This occurred, the nephew says, during the life of Mrs. Miller and Dr. Miller is asserted to have told her he was investing the money for her benefit.

TRUST CREATED

By the terms of her will a trust is created, by which Dr. Miller receives $1 per cent of the stock and the income therefrom. The balance is divided between his two children by a former marriage, Lillian Miller, a daughter, and Russell, aged 19, a son residing in Los Angeles. The only other beneficiary of the will is Rose E. Nies of Huntington Park.

Mr. Moore brings the contest on behalf of himself, a sister Mrs. Evelyn M. Monroe of Detroit, Mich.; George William Moore, a brother, Detroit, Mich., and Carrie Moore Post, a niece, of Romulus, Mich.

Mrs. Miller died Feb. 17, 1921. Dr. Miller was named executor and was appointed by the court May 4, 1921. On April 8, last, on the petition of the nephew, Dr. Miller was removed as executor and Frank M. Kelsey appointed special administrator in his place.

GIVEN QUICK TRIAL

Man Dispenses with Attorney and is Sentenced

Declining the aid of an attorney J. W. McCulley, accused of grand larceny, through his own action yesterday in Judge Shenk's court quickly disposed of his case. He was arraigned, pleaded guilty, waived time and was sentenced to San Quentin for from one year to ten for stealing an automobile. Ordinarily from one to three months elapse between an arraignment and the trial. He will be started on his way to prison today, it was stated.

Nabs Suspect When Trapped by Telegram

Tricked by Deputy Sheriff Fox into accepting a telegram, following receipt of information from Sacramento, E. A. Tambert was arrested yesterday on a felony charge from that city.

Having learned the supposed address of Tambert, Mr. Fox sent a telegram to the man and then followed the messenger who went to deliver it. As the wire was handed to Tambert he was arrested. He was taken to the County Jail to be held for Sacramento officers. The nature of the charge was not learned at the Sheriff's office.

GIVEN DIVORCE FROM COLLEGE PROFESSOR

There came a time in the married life of Clarence Lester Menser when, his wife, Pearl Marie Menser, declared in Judge Summerfield's court yesterday, he refused to live with her. Mr. Menser is professor of oratory at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill. He told his wife, she stated, that they "differed fundamentally in ideas and ideals." They separated June 10, 1920. Mrs. Menser sued for divorce and the court granted her a decree. She was represented by Attorney W. E. Lady.

Incendiaries Fail in Second Arson Attempt

The second incendiary attempt in less than three weeks to burn the residence of H. C. Haag, 332 West Santa Barbara avenue, was made public yesterday by Capt. E. H. Enos of the Fire Prevention Bureau and officers of the University Police Station.

Mr. Haag returned home with his mother. It was reported, in time to extinguish a blazing rug which had been soaked with coal oil. Patrolman J. W. Clark was summoned and investigated the incendiary attempt. Capt. Enos stated that a similar attempt was made on the night of April 16, when coal oil was spilled on the front porch and lighted matches thrown on it. The motive of the incendiaries is not known.

PREFERRED DEATH TO CONTINUED SUFFERING

Despondent over a long illness, Abe York, 52 years of age, 2006 East Second street, attempted to end his life late yesterday afternoon by drinking iodine. York, a tailor, said he preferred death to continued suffering. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where police surgeons saved his life by means of a stomach pump. Later, he was removed to the County Hospital.

HELEN EDDY STARS

PREPARATIONS UNDER WAY FOR FIRST STORY

By Grace Kingsley

If Helen Eddy doesn't cut a wide swathe in her first starring picture, it isn't going to be the fault of Ray Carroll Productions, who corralled the talented young lady and got her to sign on the dotted line.

While Miss Eddy at present is playing in the Universal picture, Booth Tarkington's "The Flirt," on which work has been begun, quaint New England structures are making their appearance on the open spaces at the Robertson-Cole studios, while the big interior stages are taking on the atmosphere of a small town. All this is in preparation for Miss Eddy's first story, into which she will hop as soon as she finishes with Universal.

Miss Eddy is to make a series of four stories, in which she will play appealing girl types. The first story is called "A Slice of Life," but the title is likely to be changed any day.

While Miss Eddy shows what she can do in "The Flirt," the business of selecting a director and a cast is going on at the R-C studios.

Ray Leek has been engaged as production manager for the Ray Carroll Productions, which at present are featuring only Miss Eddy as star, but which will later add another company.

Alice Brady's Next

Just as soon as Alice Brady feels another fit of acting coming on she is to come west and work at the Lasky studio.

A story just purchased is all ready and waiting for her. This is nothing less than a film version of "Anna Ascends," the play in which she was appearing in the East prior to the birth of her baby.

Fatty Arbuckle Bulletin

That Fatty Arbuckle and his wife are to remain together was the statement of Mrs. Arbuckle made yesterday. Mrs. Arbuckle is to go to New York, however, within a month, but merely to gather up her belongings, sell her car, and return home. She doesn't expect to be gone more than a fortnight or three weeks.

In the meantime the comedian himself has gone into strenuous training, both dieting and exercising, in order to reduce, because, while his fat may have been his fortune in times past, he has enough of it even while in training.

Joseph Schenck will return from San Francisco this morning. He is now in conference up there regarding Arbuckle's plans. That Arbuckle is definitely planning to go to work, became known yesterday. Just what his work will be is not known as yet, though it is supposed that he will direct. Just in how far Hays's ban will affect his working is not yet known.

Mrs. Arbuckle expects to return to the films also, according to her statement.

"I'm looking very worn and tired just at present," said Mrs. Arbuckle, "but when I get rested I should like very much to return to picture work."

"Irish Rose" Hardy Flower

Oliver Morosco's favorite flower these days is the fose. "Abie's Irish Rose" is turning out to be a hardy perennial and seems due for a long blooming. The number two company is packing them in in the one-night stands up and down the Coast, having taken $1800 in Pasadena for one performance. It is due for two performances there next Saturday.

Jack Dillon Denies

Following the report that Edith Haller is suing her husband, Jack Dillon, the director, for divorce, Dillon, back in New York, is sending forth denials on the subject. Discussing the report yesterday, Mr. Dillon said:

"There never has been any truth in the rumors which seem to recur every so often that my wife and I are either separated or divorced. At the present time I am living at Hotel Algonquin, and my wife is with her younger sister, Ethel, in the country.

"I have been with them, but had to come back to New York on business."

Clarence Badger In It

Clarence Badger has been engaged by Hobart Bosworth to direct him in his next picture, which he will make at the San Mateo studios. It is a sea story.

Badger has left for the North.

Mary Minter on Way Home

Mary Miles Minter, who has been vacationing in Honolulu, will return to San Francisco today, and expects to arrive in Los Angeles tomorrow.

Worsley With Warners

Wallace Worsley isn't to be left behind in the chase for jobs. He has signed with Warner Brothers to direct Wesley Barry in "From Rags to Riches" and other features.

OLD-TIME PROLOGUE TO BURBANK OFFERING

In these days of frantic fashion a refreshing relief is being afforded Burbank audiences by the Hi Jinks musical comedy company with their presentation of a series of old-fashioned modes, the kind our forefathers used to wear.

The production, "The Cheaters," is prefaced by a prologue, "In an Old-fashioned Garden," with the entire personnel of the company in dresses that date well back into the past century. Hoopskirts and crinolines, Empire gowns and dresses, and knickerbocker fashions are combined in a picture that is like a breath of the past.

The prologue introduces the main characters of the story and opens into the domestic troubles of a young married couple who have decided to pose as unmarried. The cheating is detected, however. In the meantime the fun is fast and furious, though.

Henry Shorr, Jack Christie, Dolly Sterling, Jean Darbu, Olga Brooks, George Clark, and other favorites, as well as the Hi Jinks chorus, enliven the proceedings.

Declines to Talk Against Picture Ban

Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle, motion-picture star, yesterday declined an invitation to appear before the Chicago City Council and show cause why his pictures should not be barred from that city pending decision on an investigation of his manslaughter hearings in San Francisco by Will Hays, director-in-chief of the motion-picture industry. The invitation was issued by the Judiciary Committee of the Council.

Arbuckle yesterday advised the committee by telegraph that he would not care to appear until the Hays decision has been handed down. His telegram closes as follows:

"Should Mr. Hays find, as the San Francisco jury which heard all the evidence found, and there should still exist any desire on your part for further information, I shall be very glad to avail myself of your courtesy and appear before you and explain every fact. May I call your attention to the fact that I have never been accused of producing an unclean film and that no film of mine has ever been censored.

ANNIVERSARY WEEK AT TALLY THEATER

Next week will be Anniversary Week at Tally's Broadway. It will mark the twelfth birthday of the opening of the theater at Ninth and Broadway, and his sixteenth year on Broadway.

For this special occasion, and in view of the fact that Mischa Gutterson will take over the reigns of the house May 15, T. L. Tally has booked "Too Much Business" for a world premier. Featured in this picture is Edward Everett Horton, leading man of the Majestic. It is in this picture that Horton makes his screen debut.

"ITCHIE" GIVES MUSICALE

Little Richard Headrick, child actor of First National releases and who was featured in John M. Stahl's production for Louis B. Mayer, "The Child Thou Gavest Me," celebrated his fifth birthday anniversary April 29 by giving a violin recital at the Wilshire studio of Winnifred Ballard. Little Richard has been studying under this teacher for one year but because of his ability is taking third-year work. At the recital he played "La Cinquintaine," with the poise of a professional musician. Miss Ballard declares that Richard shows indications of becoming a great master of the violin. Following the recital a surprise party was tendered him by more than forty of his little friends. The guests included neighborhood playmates, child film players and society youngsters who first made his acquaintance through viewing his pictures. Richard plays a prominent role in John M. Stahl's "The Song of Life" and has just started work as a member of the cast supporting Katherine MacDonald in "White Shoulders," also a First National release.

OPPOSE FILM IN MEXICO

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, May 2.— Two hundred and thirty-six Paramount films were refused admittance into Mexico yesterday because, it is asserted, the Paramount people insist on continuing to exhibit a film named "Her Husband," in which a Mexican plays the part of the villain.

"THE SPEED LIMIT" BELIES ITS TITLE

Its title may be "The Speed Limit," but the new musical production at Dalton's Broadway Theater is anything but what its name implies. It runs along at a clip that entertains every minute and doesn't put on the brakes until the final curtain.

The show is undoubtedly the best offered by this Broadway organization in some time. Its cast is headed by Billie Moody, Fritz Fields and Jack Miller.

This trio of funsters hold the center of the stage with their antics.

Musical interruptions staged by Ann Conway are picturesque.

"Cardigan" Pleases

Messmore Kendall's screen version of "Cardigan," Robert W. Chambers's romantic tale of Revolutionary days, is the current attraction at the Alhambra Theater this week.

From indications so far it seems that the "Spirit of 1776" has been truly revived. Representative members of the American Legion have been strongly attracted by this showing, and are turning out in great numbers. There is interest for every American citizen in this historical photoplay.

The leading roles are played by Willie Collier, Jr., and Betty Carpenter, supported by a large cast of principals, all of screen note.

NORMA CELEBRATES

Everybody, including Joseph Schenck, Norma's husband; her mother, Mrs. Norma Talmadge; Buster Keaton and Natalie Talmadge Keaton, and Constance Talmadge, as well as numberless friends, will take part in the day's festivities. While Norma smiles, she is bringing her screen fans gladness at the Kinema Theater with the showing of "Smilin' Through."

IN "THREE WISE FOOLS"

LILLIAN GISH TO FILM THE POPULAR COMEDY

By Edwin Schallert

That Lillian Gish will at once start work on an independent production which she herself will direct, and in which she will also play the leading role, was the news received here yesterday. The picture will be an adaptation of the stage comedy, successful, "Three Wise Fools."

The play was presented here last season by John Golden with Claude Gillingwater, Howard Gould and Harry Davenport in the roles of the three bachelors who fall heir to a girl. In that production the girl was played by Helen Menken. This role, of course, will be portrayed by Miss Gish in the screen feature.

Announcement of the intention of Miss Gish to direct and star in this picture was made by the Mission Theater, where the news was received. The Griffith film "Orphans of the Storm," in which Lillian and Dorothy Gish both appear, is showing at the theater.

Production, it is stated, will begin in a fortnight. Miss Gish will film the play at the Griffith studio. It is possible that she will obtain the services of the three actors who played the male parts in the stage version.

YODELING CONCERT IS GEM OF NOVELTY

Ozone from the Alps filled the minds and hearts of a large audience last night at Gamut Club Auditorium. Frita Zimmermann and Marcelle Grandville, Swiss yodlers, gave a program that was typical of their picturesque native land. It drew an audience that responded to the vigor, the health and color and life of this fresh-blown music of the mountainside.

Most typical and delightful, I believe was the second part of the program, approximately styled one hour in Switzerland. Here were heard all the quaintest folk songs, the most exuberant voicings of love and laughter and gayety. Judged by its music, Switzerland is indeed a joyous, free and glistening domain.

As interpreters of their native art Frita Zimmermann and Marcelle Grandville are apparently imbued with authority. They understand—at least Miss Grandville does in particular—the art of covering meanings at their fullest and brightest. Mr. Zimmerman does not reflect quite as much of naturalness and light. For all that he is splendidly sincere.

Some of the songs which they gave were familiar. Among these principally, "Du, du liebst mir im Herzen," sung as a duet, and "Le Cycle du Vin," the French folk song, given by Miss Grandville.

It was not these so much as the Echo Yodel arranged by Zimmermann himself and given by both singers, and the capricious "La petite Jeanneton," given by Miss Grandville, and other numbers like this that chiefly caught the fancy of the audience, of which a considerable number were Swiss.

A naive bit of local color was supplied in Miss Grandville's singing of "How Will it End?" composed by Mr. Zimmermann. This was directed at men in general and to the men of Los Angeles in particular.

These two people really should be heard by a much larger audience. They bring something novel and insouciant to their public. Their art is untainted by petty conceits. Their yodling has an infinite variety of modes, which makes you realize what wonderful significances there are to this peculiar national expression.

Ramon Changes Name

Ramon Samaniegos has changed his name. Henceforward he is to be known as Jose Ramon.

The matter has been under consideration for some time. But Mr. Samaniegos objected to changing his name because of his belief in numerology and the significance of the vowles and consonants in his name. He was afraid he would lose his personality if he changed the order.

In the new name, however, the ratio of consonants to vowels is the same. The former are supposed to stand for soul, the latter for personality, I'm told.

Anyway, Jose Ramon it is, the Jose having always been Samaniegos's first name. It was dropped, originally, in favor of Ramon.

PLEADS TO PASS SCHOOL BONDS

Superintendent Tells How Money Will be Spent

Twenty Thousand Children Denied Education

No Serious Increase in Taxation Expected

BY MRS. SUSAN M. DORSEY, Superintendent of Los Angeles Public Schools

The Board of Education of the Los Angeles city school district will ask the citizens to vote on June 6, next, on a $17,400,000 school bond issue. The citizens, in view of this request, have a right to ask several questions.

First: "How has the money of the previous issue been spent?" Out of that issue already have been built, or are in process of building, forty-three new elementary school buildings, with rooms ranging in number from eight to twenty, and seventeen substantial additions (wings or additional stories) and several smaller structures.

Out of the high school funds of the previous issues have been erected eight large buildings as additions to existing senior high schools; three large buildings as additions to junior high schools; one complete new high school and two new junior high schools. The increased legal requirements in physical training have made it necessary to construct gymnasiums at high schools where none existed.

Scores of lots and, where possible and necessary, acreage have been bought on which to place buildings or to enlarge inadequate sites.

COSTS REMAIN HIGH

Building costs and especially equipment costs have remained astonishingly high, the latter still being more than three times the former costs, a condition which no reasonable estimate could have foreseen.

A second question which citizens have a right to ask is: "What are the present needs?"

By February, 1923; that is, next February, the money of the previous issue will have vanished and building operations must cease. If, however, every building were completed at the present moment there would be 15,000 children not taken care of satisfactorily in a full-day session of school. This condition is largely due to the tremendous influx of children in the last three years which has averaged a yearly increase in enrollment of 20,000 or an aggregate of 60,000 more students than were enrolled three years ago. This exceeds the increase for the same period of every city in the country with the single exception of New York City. This astonishing increase of 60,000 in the last three years creates a condition which no Board of Education can possibly meet, except by a bond issue.

Two years ago there were 105 half-day classes; now there are 765, aggregating more than 21,000 children, while 10,000 children are housed in tents, halls, basements, lofts, storerooms, churches, unsuitable rented rooms and in nondescript places.

UTILITIES PLACE ISSUES

Adding to the present number the enrollment of September, 1922, and September, 1923, with the present rate of increase continued there will be not less than 40,000 or 50,000 children in the district without suitable school facilities or wholly unprovided for unless measures are immediately taken through a bond issue to provide for that emergency. The tremendous bond issues of the various utilities during the last three years, running into hundreds of millions of dollars, are evidence that the growth which Los Angeles schools are suffering from has forced the utilities to extend their facilities for present and prospective needs by the same measure and huge bond issues have resulted.

A third question which citizens have a right to ask is how will the money of the proposed bond issue be expended; that is, will it be spent to improve the fundamentals of education which all admit without argument are the most important.

Not less than $11,690,000 will be spent in elementary education in the elementary schools and in the seventh and eighth grades of junior high schools. From this it will be seen that the greater needs of elementary education are not only recognized, but provided for, in the proposed bond issue.

As for the high schools, it should be said that every new high school will provide the customary general courses to accommodate the young people of the community. At the earnest behest of many citizens and parents, especially of men and women in the business and industrial world, and because of the needs of the young people themselves, provision will be made for training along such vocational lines as have been found profitable for the Los Angeles boys and girls in the past. Fifty years ago there existed in the machinery line nothing more exciting than a wheezing steamboat or railroad engine or a thresher worked by horse power. The world of today is run by high-powered machines and goes at automobile speed. Young people by the millions must earn their daily bread in offices where machines receive the dictation, write the letters and address the envelopes, or add columns of figures and compute the interest; or they must work in shops where power machines run the seams, hem, embroider and make button holes or where the mammoth automobile industry requires every variety of knowledge and skill from the simple process of oiling parts to an expert knowledge of electricity.

ALONG NEW LINES

A high school conducted today along the lines of fifty years ago would be serviceable to about the same degree as a top buggy. It might be a fairly comfortable place, but could hardly be called efficient in preparing the young to live and earn a living in the modern world. All that the old high school taught is needed and much more. The fine training of the past must be given, but some at least of the boys and girls of today must have a knowledge of how the world moves and what makes it move or the world will cease to move. The major portion of the proposed high school bond money will be spent for general education, which all must have. Training along vocational lines will also be amply provided for.

In conclusion it should be said that Los Angeles has never been able to proceed with a building program consistently planned to conserve funds and carefully executed according to school needs for a series of years. The rapid growth of the city has resulted in a scramble to get money and convert that money into as many school buildings as possible in the shortest possible time in order to house the most startling cases of excess children. Such hurried procedure cannot give wholly satisfactory results. The school business of Los Angeles is big business and needs the same forward looking, careful planning of expenditures as is required in any great industry. Otherwise two things will happen, both of which are ruinous; existing needs will not be taken care of and prospective needs will not be planned for.

Citizens are naturally anxious to know how much this bond issue will increase taxes. For the year 1922-1923 the increase will be slight, due to a lessening of certain expenditures of the present year and also because it is the intention of the Board of Education to market only enough of the bonds at first to meet the most pressing needs. Unless the influx of children in the future shall exceed that of the last three years, the proposed issue, sold in successive years with careful and economical planning of building operations, ought not to occasion a serious tax increase at any time.

Students must never be forced out of the public schools of Los Angeles for lack of room. Citizens can all have a chance to prevent such a misfortune by voting for the school bonds June 6. Any citizen to vote June 6 must register during the present week, or before midnight next Saturday unless he has already registered since January 1 of this present year.

Edison System to be Revalued for Rate Basis

Setting the hearing for next September 12, the State Railroad Commission yesterday announced that it has called for a complete revaluation of the Southern California Edison Company's system, for rate adjustment purposes.

Some days ago the commission ordered the company to put into effect at once light and power service rate reductions ranging between 5 and 12 per cent. This was required, the commission announced, to give consumers the immediate benefit of lower rates.

In connection with this order it will later conduct an inquiry into the matter of rate base, earnings, taxes and depreciation on the company's property. The rate reduction, it is understood, applies to San Joaquin Valley communities and Southern California districts served by the Edison company.

Man, Woman Divide Poison Seeking Death

The contents of a small blue bottle of bichloride of mercury tablets last night spelled life or death for a man and a woman at the Receiving Hospital. The man, Clyde Heaston, aged 25 years, a former soldier, of 1920 Sunset Boulevard, swallowed half the contents at the corner of West Eleventh street and Grand avenue. A few minutes later, after she had appealed for help, and as she was sitting beside Heaston in a private automobile on the way to the Receiving Hospital, the woman, Mrs. Lizabel Granich, aged 23 years, of 1228½ West Santa Barbara Boulevard, poured the remaining tablets between her lips. They were treated at the hospital by Police Surgeon Saverien, who declared them to be in a critical condition.

MAJ. J. W. SUTPHEN LIEUTENANT-COLONEL

RESERVE CORPS OFFICER ASSIGNED TO NINETY-FIRST DIVISION

Announcement was made yesterday by the Adjutant-General of the Army, that J. W. Sutphen has been promoted from major to lieutenant-colonel of infantry in the Reserve Corps. Coincident with this came announcement by the chief of staff of the Ninety-first Division that Lieut.-Col. Sutphen has been assigned as executive officer in the One Hundred Eighty-second Infantry Brigade of the Ninety-first Division.

Lieut.-Col. Sutphen served through the World War with the old Ninety-first Division, and has been actively identified with the organization of the new Ninety-first which is carrying on the traditions of its famous predecessor. Col. Sutphen saw active service at St. Mihiel the Argonne and in Flanders, and spent six months in the Army of Occupation. He was decorated by the French government and cited twice by American commanders.

MOLESTED WIFE, AND IS JAILED

New Rule for Husbands is Established by Court

Another rule for husbands to obey developed in Judge Hahn's court yesterday when the court imposed a jail sentence of twenty-four hours on Augustine Police for molesting his wife, Nellie E. Police, after he had been ordered not to do so. He jumped on the running board of the automobile she was driving and choked her, she told the court. This was an infringement of the order, the court stated.

Mr. Police did not deny that he had jumped on the running board, but denied the choking. Mrs. Police charges in her divorce action that her husband nagged her and was guilty of neglect.

STATISTICS SHOW THEFT INCREASING

Compared to Last Year Police Reports Disclose Many More Burglaries

Burglaries and hold-ups took a big jump upward in April, compared to the same month a year ago, according to statistics prepared yesterday by Police Statistician L. W. Lyons.

The total number of burglaries was 857, compared to 375 in April, 1921, and there were 107 hold-ups, compared to forty-nine in April, last year. Pickpockets were more active, also, eighty-five complaints having been received. There were thirty-five complaints in April, 1921.

Thieves helped themselves to 301 automobiles in April, compared to 123 in April, 1921. The total number of automobiles stolen since January 1, last, is 1241.

Murders broke even, there having been six murders in April, and six in the same month of the preceding year. The total of homicides since the first of the year is thirty-four, compared to sixteen for the like period last year.

Bunko men either were absent from the city in April, or were unable to find victims. There were no complaints of this nature. The total arrests for all causes in April were 6344; since January 1, 26,632, of which 4932 were for felonies.

GUILTY IN GIRL CASE

Former Private Detective is Convicted at Second Trial

Although one jury failed to agree on a verdict, T. M. Cooper, a former private detective, yesterday was found guilty by a second jury in Judge Shenk's court of a statutory offense against Dorothy Minter, a girl.

Testimony adduced by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Richardson tended to indicate that Cooper held the girl in his power for two days, and during that time assaulted her. Deputy Public Defender Scott asserted that the girl had a chance to escape if she so desired, but that she failed to do so.

The jury reached its decision after two hours of deliberation. The case was continued until Friday for sentence.

ROOM-MATE HELD IN MYSTERY DEATH CASE

Acting on a murder theory in connection with the case of Benton Babbot, 22 years old, who died Monday afternoon at the Receiving Hospital, after it had been learned that he had partaken of a mysterious drug, Detective Sergeants Herman Cline and Schofield last night arrested Ernest Wells, 23, as a material witness. Wells, according to the detectives, was the room-mate of Babbot, at 808 South San Pedro street.
